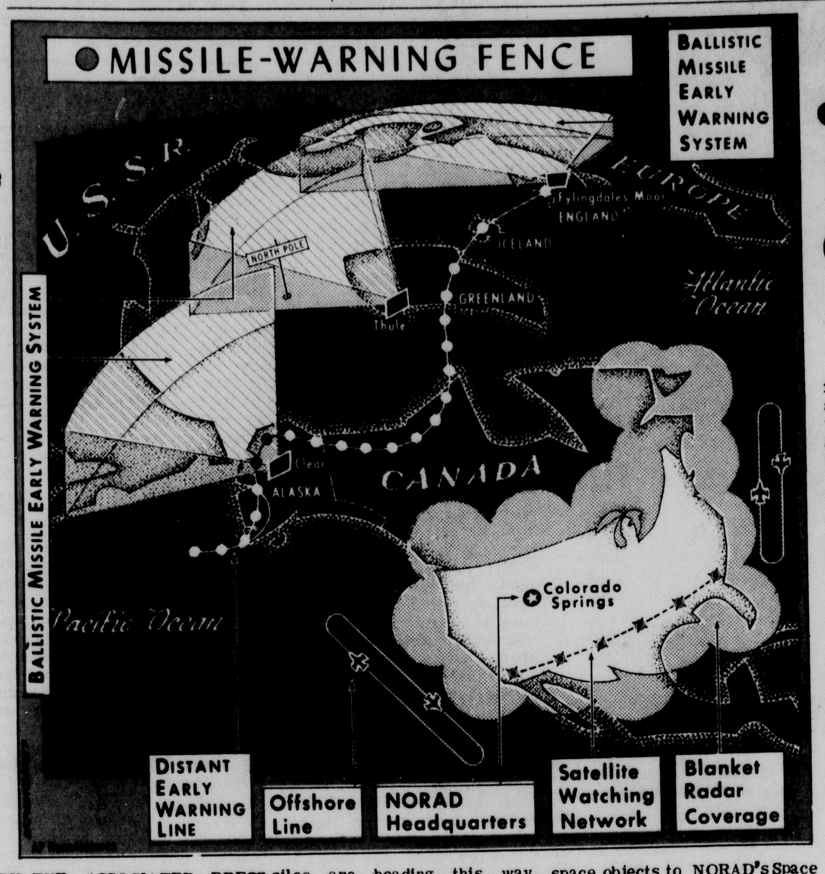
Johnson Asks 10 Per Cent Surtax



BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

America's first line of defense against a sneak attack by ballistic missiles exists in its electronic fence, but since the Red Chinese detonated a hydrogen bomb, vigorous voices have insisted the fence isn't high enough. The cry is for the anti-ballistic missile.

An anti-ballistic missile is one which can be fired by our side to intercept and destroy missiles already launched toward us by an enemy. The cost of an ABM system would run into billions, and thus far the Johnson administration is resisting it.

But pressure is rising in Congressional circles for the United States to build such a system. The argument is that the Soviet Union is already building one, and the day may not be far off when Red China could have one. That, so the argument goes, might leave the United States at the mercy of the Communists. They could destroy our missiles but we couldn't destroy theirs.

What the United States has at present, besides its missiles, is a highly sophisticated electronic warning system to tell when the other fellow's missiles are heading this way. The network, covering all approaches to North America, is tied together into the combat operations center of the North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo. This center is the middle of a mountain, thus shielded from missile blasts.

The warning net includes three high-powered radar antennas of the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System. These reach out 3,000 miles to provide an alert of an intercontinental ballistic missile attack.

NORAD turns to the Distant Early Warning Line for any alert against approach of manned bombers. This line extends across the top of the continent. It works in conjunction with a system of radars which protect the populated areas of both Canada and the United States. Early warning aircraft operating over the Atlantic and Pacific extend radar coverage far out to sea. Other aircraft bolster ground-based radars. And the U.S. Naval Space Surveillance System stretches across the southern part of the United States. It detects and tracks satellites and reports data on earth-orbiting space objects to NORAD's Space Defense Center.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff and some Congressmen want the green light now for an anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara is at present opposed. Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) has called for a commission to study the need for an ABM system before getting committed to a program that could cost billions.

An "area defense" ABM deployment against possible Chinese attack, for example, is figured at about $5 billion. It would be composed of Spartan interceptor missiles, short-range Spring missiles and sophisticated radar.

The Navy is separately pushing SABMIS, which stands for Seaborne Anti-ballistic Missile Intercept System. It envisions using ships standing off Russian and Chinese launching sites armed with anti-missile missiles. It says ship-borne ABMs could catch an enemy missile before it had time to break into a shotgun scatter of real and make-believe hydrogen bombs.

Park Grant Made

A grant of $10,350 to Sikeston for the acquisition of about two acres of land for Central Park was made today, Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long announced in Washington, D.C.

The funds are channeled from the department of interior.

Central park is at Prairie and Edmondson. The present area of the park is two acres. It is the newest public park in Sikeston. Playground equipment including swing sets, seesaws and a sliding board were installed this spring through the efforts of the Junior Woman's Club, and the city park board. Development of the park was taken on as a two-year project by the Junior Woman's Club, and the city as a two-year project.

Two tennis courts are in the southwest corner of the park. They were built by the city.

Police Report

Two Accidents

Two motor vehicle accidents Wednesday resulted in careless and imprudent driving charges filed against two motorists.

Maxine Young, 605 South Frisco, was issued a summons after the car she was driving collided at 2:15 p.m. Wednesday at Malone and Prairie with an automobile driven by Jeanette Evans, 219 South Scott, police reported. No injuries resulted.

At 5:10 p.m. Wednesday a car driven by Carolyn S. Wright, 811 East Gladys, collided at Malone and Kingshighway with a car driven by Louise Mullendorf, 323 Helen, police reported. Louise Mullendorf was charged with careless and imprudent driving, police said.

In other activity, Michael Bruce Evans, 17, Cape Girardeau, was charged today with driving while intoxicated, possession of intoxicants and curfew violation.

Roy W. Moore, 836 East Gladys, was charged twice with careless and imprudent driving Tuesday.

A vandalism report was filed with the police Wednesday. A window on the west side of the fellowship room of the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church, 723 Allen Blvd., was broken, police reported.

Charleston Police Chief Injured

CHARLESTON -- Police Chief Guthrie Hunter, 65, is in critical condition in the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston, following an automobile accident last night at 11:30 p.m., near the approach of the Mississippi river bridge at Cairo.

Blinded by the lights of an approaching car traveling east, the 1963 Buick, driven by Hunter, left the road near the Bird's Point curve, went down a steep embankment, rolled over and landed on its top.

An unidentified motorist, who saw the Buick's car lights shining, called Highway Patrolman Bennie Rapert, who took the injured man to the hospital. Hunter was returning from Cairo.

Hunter, who has been police chief 11 years, lived alone. His wife died several years ago.

Surtax Request Sends Stock Market Down

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market slumped in heavy trading today after President Johnson recommended a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes.

At 1 p.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials had fallen 7.74 points to 914.53. A half-hour earlier it had been off more than 9 points.

Brokers said the proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge was bigger than many on Wall Street had expected.

GM Puts Proposal On Table

DETROIT (AP)— In the first proposal it has laid on the bargaining table, General Motors Corp. today called upon the United Auto Workers Union for cooperation in bringing to a halt what the company termed "flagrant abuses of the no-strike clause by some local unions."

GM also said the 18 cents hourly which has been added to pay by the cost-of-living escalator since 1964 must be included in figuring the cost of any new wage package.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has said the union will allow no tampering with the escalator embodied in current contracts, which expire Sept. 6.

GM also called upon the international union to help eliminate "unjustifiable loading of the grievance procedure" and "the practice of blanketing the shop with production standard grievances at the outset of a new model start-up."

GM said, "The no-strike of the national agreement has become an instrument in the hands of certain local unions to harass management, to subvert the true welfare of the majority of employes and to render inoperative and ineffective sound procedures" set by the contract.

The corporation said means are available to peacefully settle problems without interrupting operations.

A wildcat strike on a local issue at an important parts plant in Mansfield, Ohio, crippled GM production for more than two weeks earlier this year, idling more than 190,000 GM workers throughout the nation.

Request Tied to High War Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed today a 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporation income taxes because of the high cost of the war in Vietnam, and said he is authorizing an increase of 45,000 troops for Vietnam.

The additional troops would raise the commitment in Vietnam to 506,000 men.

Johnson said the extra taxes, which would produce $6.3 billion extra revenue in fiscal 1968, should become effective on corporations retroactive to July 1 and on individual incomes next Oct. 1.

Johnson said the proposed tax increases would expire June 30, 1969 "or continue for so long as the unusual expenditures associated with our efforts in Vietnam require higher revenues."

"I have concluded, after considering the recommendations of Secretary McNamara, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Gen. Westmoreland that I should authorize an increase of at least 45,000 in the number of men to be sent to Vietnam this year," Johnson said.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander in Vietnam, had been reported as making a proposal for that increase in his forces during the recent visit to Vietnam by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

"This nation has taken a solemn pledge— that its sons and brothers engaged in the conflict there shall never lack all the help, all the arms, and all the equipment essential for their mission and for their very lives," Johnson said.

"America must— and will— honor that pledge. It is for this reason that expenditures for Vietnam— subject as they are to the variable demands of military operations— may now exceed our earlier estimates."

Johnson said original budget estimates for 1968 have been hiked $4 billion for defense and $2.5 billion for civilian programs.

That would bring expected spending to $79.5 billion for the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission and $62 billion for civilian programs.

Johnson also said he has asked McNamara "to conduct a searching review of all defense expenditures and to withhold all such expenditures that are not now essential for national security."

Johnson also recommended a speed-up in corporate tax collections.

"Beginning Jan. 1, 1968, corporations would pay their estimated taxes on the basis of 80 per cent of their liability, rather than 70 per cent," Johnson said.

"Over a five-year period, small corporations, as well as large, would become current in their tax payments in the same way as individual proprietors already are," he said.

He said such accelerated collections would yield $800 million additional revenue in fiscal 1968 and "somewhat more in subsequent years."

Johnson also recommended "continuation of excise taxes for the immediate future."

The seven per cent manufacturers excise tax on autos is now scheduled to drop to two per cent April 1, 1968, and one per cent Jan. 1, 1969.

"The drop to two per cent should be postponed to July 1, 1969, and the drop to one per cent should be postponed to Jan. 1, 1970," Johnson's message said.

He said the presently scheduled reduction in the 10 per cent excise tax on telephone service to one per cent on April 1, 1968, should be postponed to July 1, 1969. The elimination date of the telephone tax, now scheduled Jan. 1, 1969, should be postponed until Jan. 1, 1970, he advised.

Johnson said the surcharge on individual incomes would mean that "a family of four with income of $10,000, now ordinarily paying a tax of $1,100, will pay at most an added tax of $9.25 a month."

He said the three out of four American families with less than $10,000 annual income will pay a lesser increase.

"Extending these excise taxes would provide additional revenues of $300 million for fiscal 1968 and more than $2 billion for fiscal 1969," Johnson said.

Johnson said the proposed 10 per cent surcharges on corporation and individual incomes would yield $6.3 billion in revenues for fiscal 1968 and some more in 1969.

"The 16 million taxpayers in the lowest income brackets would be completely exempt from the surcharge," Johnson said. "For example, a married couple with two children, with an income of less than $5,000 a year, would pay no surcharge."

"The nation now faces these hard and inescapable facts for 1968" Johnson said and gave this listing:

— "Expenditures are likely to be between January budget figures of $135 billion and $143.5 billion— as much as $8.5 billion higher— depending upon the determination and ability of the Congress and the executive to control expenditures."

— "Revenues are now estimated from $7 billion lower than in January, even with a six per cent tax surcharge."

— "These changes in the January budget estimates would result in a deficit of $23.6 billion."

— "Without a tax increase and tight expenditure control, the deficit could exceed $28 billion. And that does not include an estimated $700 million higher cost of interest on the public debt that such a deficit would involve."

— "A deficit of that size poses a clear and present danger to America's security and economic health."

Study Of City Begins

Harland Bartholomew & Associates, a St. Louis consulting firm, has begun its comprehensive planning study of the city, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today.

Jack Alston, principal planner for the firm, briefed Miller in a meeting Wednesday on the methods and scope of the project.

Currently, the firm is conducting the existing land use phase of the study, Miller said.

The study is to be completed in 12 months and costs $8,300.

The results of the existing land use study will be co-ordinated with a previously completed transportation study and an economic base study to establish a projected land use need by 1990, Miller said.

The consulting firm has prepared questionaires for the economic base study, which have been given the Chamber of Commerce.

The questionaire for industrial concerns here will be mailed next week, Richard Pinkerton, chamber manager, said today.

Information will be sought about the adequacy of present transportation facilities, availability of utilities, reasonableness of local taxes, laws and living conditions of employes.

Another questionaire will be mailed to Sikeston retail merchants sometime after the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, Pinkerton said.

A meeting with representatives of the consulting firm and city officials has been set at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 12 at the city administration building.

Other phases of the comprehensive planning study to be carried out later include, preparation of base maps, population studies, central business district studies, establishing goals and objectives, transportation plan, central business district plan. Regulatory measures also will be recommended for the plan implementation.

Judge Brown Levies Fines

CHARLESTON - Judge T. J. Brown Jr. heard these cases in magistrate court.

Kendall Mungle - charged with common assault, fined $10 and $12.50 costs.

Freddie Lee Powell - charged with having no operators permit, careless and reckless driving, fined a total of $10 and sentenced to six months in jail, paid fine and $12 costs. Jail sentence paroled.

Earl Nolen - charged with disturbing peace, fined $10 and $15.-50 costs.

Ruby Allen - charged with having no operators license, fined $5 and $11 costs.

Gas War Ends in City

Major brand gasoline dealers in Sikeston increased their prices for regular and premium gas today, bringing a four-week gas war to a close.

The majors are now charging 32.9 cents per gallon for regular gasoline, and 36.9 cents per gallon for premium.

Independents increased their prices Wednesday. The independents are selling regular for 30.9 cents per gallon and premium for 33.9 cents per gallon.

The war started when three independent dealers undercut the price of other independents. It was the first price war here in 20 years.

Before the price war, major brand dealers were selling regular for 33.9 and premium for 37.9. Most independents had been selling regular for 29.9 and premium for 33.9.

SBC President Resigns

BOLIVAR, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Robert E. Craig resigned Wednesday as president of Southwest Baptist College to accept a similar post at Union University, Jackson, Tenn.

Dr. Craig came here in 1916 after serving as dean at California Baptist College at Riverside. Since that time enrollment has increased from 400 to an expected student body of 1,200 next fall and it became a four-year college, graduating its first senior class a year ago.

$51,101 Collected by City During July

A total of $51,101.33 was collected during July by the city, Ronald Lee, collector, reported.

The amount is more than twice the $25,540.94 collected last July.

A heavy amount of merchant license sales, plus adjustments on franchise payments account for the difference.

No current real estate or personal property taxes were collected. They become due Oct. 1. Mailing of bills will begin in mid-September.

Back real estate taxes collected totaled $1,079.41. The delinquent payments were: 1964, $3.41; 1965, $52.64, and 1966, $1,023.36.

Back personal property taxes paid in July totaled $107.66. The breakdown is, 1964 $.93; 1965, $16.93, and 1966, $89.90.

The total amount of license collections made in July was $19,069.75. Dog licenses brought in $9 and $620 was collected for liquor licenses.

Merchants licenses, which became due July 1, accounted for $18,440.75. About 381 merchant licenses were sold. A total of 628 businesses are required to have such licenses; 247 merchants still must purchase a license.

Miscellaneous collections totaled $30,844.51. The one-year franchise for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. accounted for $16,-500. The telephone company payment represents a $5,000 increase over their payment of $11,-500 last year.

The telephone company payment is based on five per cent of the total gross receipts for local service. Phone rates were increased July 21.

Missouri Utilities Co. paid $5,912.45 for a six-month franchise payment.

Interest charged on the miscellaneous collections totaled $40.57 and other costs came to $3.30.

Cape Boy Killed In Auto Crash

GILLETTE, Wyo. (AP) -- A Cape Girardeau, Mo., boy and a Casper, Wyo., man were killed Wednesday in a head-on collision at a turnoff to a park and fishing lake on state highway 59 about a mile and a half south of Gillette.

The victims were identified as James Gamble, 43, of Casper, the driver of one car, and Keith Grebing, 5, of Cape Girardeau.

Jim Wilkins, 43, also of Casper, and the parents and four brothers and sisters of the Grebing youngster were hospitalized at Gillette.

Hospital authorities said Wilkins, Edward Grebing and his wife Dorothy, both 40, and their daughter Martha, 14, and son Terry, 11, all were in satisfactory condition.

The Grebing's daughter, Cathy, 8, and son James, 15, were held at the hospital for observation.

The Highway Patrol said a car turned into the lake area in front of the vehicle driven by Gamble. The patrol said the Gamble vehicle went into a skid and slid broadside into the front of the Grebing car.

Three Treated For Arm, Leg Injuries

Three were treated for arm and leg injuries in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital:

4-H Members To Tour City

NEW MADRID - New Madrid County 4-H members and leaders will visit Sikeston Tuesday for a swim at the city pool and a tour.

The group will meet at 10;30 a.m. on the parking lot of the IGA Super Market and go from there, to the swimming pool for a swim from 11;00 a.m. to 12;30 p.m.

Everyone on the tour will bring a sack lunch. Cold drinks and ice cream will be furnished.

At 2 p.m. a tour will be taken of the Malone and Hyde Wholesale Grocery plant.

Police Dogs Of A Sort Arrive Here

An unconventional breed of police dog was introduced to Sikeston six weeks ago.

Nor is a trace of German Shepherd to be found in a black poodle named Caesar, owned by Bob Summers, 412 Clayton. Summer is the Scott county juvenile officer.

Yet, when two dogs owned by police representatives get together, shouldn't their offsprings be police dogs - of - a -sort?

It seems Caesar became intimate with Fluffy some time back, and Fluffy gave birth to seven puppies six weeks ago.

Four of the puppies bear a strong resemblance to Caesar, but three are beginning to look like a neighborhood Beagle.

Fluffy was kept penned during most of her period of weakness, but got loose one night.

U.S. Combat Casualties Dip Lowest in 6 Months

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. combat casualties in the Vietnam war dropped to their lowest level in six months last week with 114 Americans killed, 893 wounded and five missing, the U.S. Command announced today.

The command said 164 were killed and 1,442 wounded the week before.

But the sharpest decline last week was in the number of South Vietnamese troops reported killed in action— 76 compared with 183 the week before.

The number of Communists killed dropped to 1,399, the lowest since the week that ended June 10, the U.S. Command said. But U.S. headquarters said the kill ratio of 6.8 to 1 for the allies last week was the highest this year and possibly one of the highest of the war.

The low casualty figures reflected another relative lull in the ground war and did not include the casualties in the disastrous fire aboard the carrier Forrestal Saturday.

A U.S. spokesman explained that it was not known yet whether these would be classified as combat or operational casualties since the fire and explosions began with an accident as the carrier was preparing to launch strikes against North Vietnam.

The Forrestal casualties increased to 131 dead today with the death of two injured men. Three are missing and 62 others were injured.

The U.S. Command announced three new operations of battalion size but reported significant contact in only one of them.

U.S. pilots flew 161 missions against North Vietnam Wednesday, their biggest day since July 13, when 170 missions were flown, and a Viet Cong bombardment wounded 27 Americans— nine of them seriously— and set some fuel stores on fire at the U.S. Navy base and petroleum storage area at Nha Be, 10 miles southeast of Saigon.

Communist guerrillas also ambushed a U.S. Marine minesweeping unit on a dirt road 21 miles west of Da Nang Wednesday, killing 15 Leathernecks and wounding one. A U. S. spokesman said two Communists were known killed.

Viet Cong mortar and 82mm shells and 40mm antitank rockets rained down for 20 minutes on the Nha Be fuel dump and the base from which the Navy directs river boats in attacks against guerrillas.

Mortar fire hit a stack of 55-gallon gasoline drums at the Shell Oil Co. fuel farm and about 5,000 of the drums went up in flames, but the shells missed the 40-foot storage tanks that dot the area.

A Navy spokesman said an F100 Super Sabre jet fighter-bomber "flamed out" and crashed. Other U. S. and South Vietnamese planes and helicopters attacking the Viet Cong gunners came under heavy fire.

The spokesman said damage was light to waterfront buildings, piers and river patrol boats and minesweepers which pulled away from the piers quickly. About 30 patrol boats and more than 10 minesweepers operate from the base on the Long Tao River, the main shipping channel to Saigon.

In aerial attacks on North Vietnam Wednesday, Navy pilots reported destroying or damaging two surface-to-air missile — SAM— sites, eight antiaircraft sites, a missile and its transporter, eight barges, two storage areas, 11 trucks and 23 cargo craft around Haiphong.

Air Force Phantom jet pilots reported good hits on a SAM site near Dong Hoi in North Vietnam's southern panhandle. They said their missiles ignited a Communist missile which shot 3,000 feet into the air, then dropped to earth.

The carrier force in the Gulf of Tonkin returned to its normal strength of three flattops as the Constellation joined the Intrepid and the Oriskany on Yankee Station. The force had been reduced to two carriers for several days this week by the fire on the Forrestal and withdrawal of the Bon Homme Richard for normal leave.

Congo-Algeria Complicity Claimed in Tshombe Case

LONDON (AP) - A British newsman, newly returned from Algeria and The Congo, claims Moise Tschombe's kidnapping was planned by the Congo government and carried out with the knowledge of President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria.

On a television news program British Broadcasting Corp. correspondent Keith Kyle said Wednesday night that investigations in Algiers left him "in no doubt whatsoever that the operation was planned by the Congo government and executed with the foreknowledge of President Boumedienne."

He claimed the delay in Tshombe's extradition to the Congo— where he is under a death sentence— was caused by a breakdown in secrecy over the abduction and a changed atmosphere brought about by the Arab-Israeli war.

Kyle said the Algerians are now determined to exact a high price for handing over the former Congo premier.

The terms, Kyle told an interviewer, were tailored to create a breach between Mobutu and his most reliable allies - the United States and Israel.

Man Indicted for Spear Gun Death

GREENVILLE (AP) - Wayne County Magistrate Elmo Barrow ordered a St. Louis area man held Wednesday without bond to face trial for the death of his wife.

Donald C. Hollingsworth, 40, of Pine Lawn - a suburb of St. Louis - was charged with first-degree murder in the July 23 death of his 43-year-old wife, Lorene.

Mrs. Hollingsworth was fatally wounded by a skindiver's underwater spear gun. Her husband told authorities the spear gun, being carried in the family car, penetrated his wife's neck as the couple was driving on a bumpy road near Patterson.

The woman was free on bond pending her appeal from federal prison terms imposed on conviction for passing counterfiet money in St. Louis.

Relatives testified Hollingsworth had threatened his wife.

East Prairie Soldier Missing

EAST PRAIRIE -- Pfc Charles Dwight Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, Second St., stationed with the army at Ft. Knox, Ky., has been missing since July 20.

Jones was hitch-hiking back to Ft. Knox after being home on a three-day pass. He was last seen at 3:30 p.m., July 20, near the state police station in Cairo, between the Mississippi river and Ohio River bridge.

He wore a green summer army uniform, and had in his possession black slacks and black knit sweater.

Anyone having any information about him may contact the Browns at Niagara 9-3842 or Mrs. Charles England at NI 9-2786.

Navy Studies Reporting of Disaster Victims

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Navy Plans a self-examination of how it informs the public about who is involved and who isn't in such military disasters as the USS Forrestal fire.

Specifically, the Navy will look at its performance in publicly identifying the men who died, were injured or missing after flames swept the 4,300-man carrier off North Vietnam Saturday.

Sources said an admiral is being assigned to head up the investigation. It took the Navy four days to get out a reasonably complete list of the Forrestal victims.

While families of the more than 100 casualties were notified much sooner, the relatives of the more than 4,000 other men aboard the carrier had no way of knowing the fate of those crewmen.

This posed the question of whether the Navy has a responsibility, in cases where so many men are involved, of letting all relatives know more quickly about the crew's fate.

Some officers think this could be done by providing news media with the list of known casualties even as efforts continue toward reaching their relatives.

By a process of elimination, survivors' relatives could determine from these lists whether their men were involved -- therefore being spared long hours or days of anguish.

This approach, however, runs the risk that some next-of-kin will hear of family deaths before the government has contacted them.

Pentagon policy is to avoid such situations as that of a mother learning from a news broadcast or newspaper her son has been killed.

Sources said the Navy's probe will touch on this general problem, study the Forrestal situation specifically and perhaps make recommendations on handling information about future tragedies.

The Navy casualty branch, headed by a civilian, notified nearest relatives of the dead, missing or seriously wounded men on the Forrestal. The casualty office did not compile a casualty list, but individual names were released a relatives were reached.

"It might seem cruel at first, but I wonder if we don't have just as big a responsibility in letting the survivors' relatives know as quickly as possible about exactly which men have been hurt or killed," one harassed officer asked.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Several thoughts come to mind as the country experiences insurrection in the streets of the cities.

There are too many of them to be spontaneous. Maybe not all of them are planned. A mob atmosphere is contagious but surely Communists and other radicals have played a part in the destruction.

The first order of business is to restore law and order. Then if it appears that our civilization can be maintained improvement in the lot of the ghetto inhabitants is worthy of an effort share by all Americans. No American should be rewarded for killing, maiming, burning and destroying. This is an illegal form of protest which must be punished. The maintenance of our society is the first order of business.

Riots probably have been incited by them but the complaint is directed at the wrong source.

The public should have recourse through law enforcement not through censorship of television. Surely there are enough laws already on the books to punish a person for inciting a riot, making treasonous utterances or urging people to violate the law.

Politicians are to blame for the failure to enforce the law.

Public officials who don't do their duty or play politics with human suffering should be tossed out of office at the first opportunity.

For example there is blood on the hands of President Lyndon B. Johnson, Governor Romney of Michigan and Mayor Cavanaugh of Detroit for the failure to take prompt action to end the rioting in the Motor City.

If each of these public officials had told police, National Guardsmen and federal troops soon enough to do what was necessary to end the rioting lives would have been saved and property damage minimized.

All had their eyes on the Negro vote in the next election and conveniently neglected their duty to the general public - even to the ghetto dwellers themselves. So the ghettos have more missery - not less.

The United States Senate should lose no time in passing the House approved bill to make it a federal crime to cross state lines to start a riot. It would be fine if local authorities could or would check the criminals in the streets of our cities but the evidence of their unwillingness or inability to do this is compelling and widespread.

There is no logical choice but to ask the federal government to take on another chore of what has historically been considered a local function, obligation and responsibility.

It's difficult to see how any gun control law could be effective if every hunter is permitted to carry a firearm.

Destructive weapons are easy to acquire.

How can knives and gasoline be banned for example?

OTHER SIDE OF COIN

In a speech the other day on the Senate floor, Missouri's junior U.S. Senator, Edward V. Long, tried to explain away his strange silence regarding his close association with a St. Louis criminal attorney and the charges that he has attempted to aid the efforts of Teamster President Jimmy Hoffa to stay out of prison.

The Senator's explanation, which probably has reached the eyes of few Missourians, is that he has not disclosed the names of his mutual Morris Shenker law clients because those who sought his legal services did not do so to get their names in the newspapers.

This, believe it or not, is the substance of Senator Long's defense.

It is charitable to say this is almost no defense at all.

In the first place, the Senator is avoiding the basic question: Why is he practicing law and why is he sharing fees with a St. Louis criminal attorney?

Secondly, while we can understand the reluctance of the Bowling Green lawmaker to disclose the names of his clients, at least without their permission, this in no way precludes his giving these names at an executive, or secret, meeting of the Senate Ethics Committee.

Senator Long has already been called by the committee, with more sessions in the offing, and it would have presented no violation of any rules to submit a list of his clients to his Senate peers who would be bound to keep them confidential.

This act would have served to clear at least a part of the mystery surrounding the strange disclosure that our junior Senator received $48,000 in legal fees from the Shenker law firm in a two-year period and the disclosure that he is still on the receiving end of fees from the St. Louis criminal law firm.

Senator Long claims he received these fees from the Shenker firm for legal services rendered. Supposedly these were not all the fees he received for his valuable, high-priced legal services. Supposedly he has received fees from clients as well as other lawyers. In such case, the Senator is running a highly-profitable law firm. It is indeed, much more profitable than any Missouri law firm we ever heard of, particularly in the amount of fees received for services from other law firms.

Any full-time practising lawyer in Missouri would be delighted to receive $24,000 a year for his services; more than 90 per cent make much, much less.

If Senator Long does not want to disclose the names of his clients because, as he explains, they didn't retain him to get their names in the newspapers, perhaps he might like to consider the other side of the coin.

Namely, Missourians didn't elect Ed Long to the U.S. Senate so that he could improve his law practice. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

GOLD

Perhaps because he has never acted like the gold was his, the American taxpayer was another $50 million poorer in gold as of late November. The New York Federal Reserve Bank said the $50 million gold outflow occurred in one week, and that the drop was the first since July. That was good news, but only slightly, because the U.S. gold stock has dropped $1,669,000,000 since January, the largest yearly outflow since 1960. The 1964 loss was a piddling $125,000,000. Uncle Sugar loses his gold because he pays out (mostly in give-aways) more than he sells abroad; a most interesting phenomenon because he sells more than he buys. All these loose dollars are gobbled up by foreign banks who were told that since Uncle wants his dollars to be sound as gold, they should convert them whenever they want to. This is otherwise known as Curiouser Keynesian Economics which says government can always spend more than it makes. The vital statistics of the gold outflow: This year, France converted $630,000,000 into U.S. gold; the U.S. stock stands at $13,937,000,000; the gold reserve ratio (gold to Federal Reserve currency outstanding) has dropped from 36.6% to around 36%. And how much will your insurance policies be worth in 15 years?

AGRIBUSINESS TOP NEW U.S. INDUSTRY

In a recent speech before the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts in Cincinnati, Ohio, Daniel W. Cannon, policy executive of the National Association of Manufacturers, discussed the realities of agribusiness.

In defining the term agribusiness Mr. Cannon explained that "it embraces the farmranch operation together with all the input industries and all the output industries." He further stated, "Modern successful agriculture requires capital investments, management and application of labor and raw materials, and a sense of timing at every step of the way, just as any business does."

Mr. Cannon continued, "Viewed in its totality, agribusiness in the United States assumed the awesome proportions of the largest industry in an economy whose Gross National Product is heading towards one trillion dollars per year."

"All segments of agribusiness will have to work together more true, of course, of employers closely than ever before not who collect income and social only to serve Mrs. U.S.A. with security taxes for the governhigh quality, high nutrition, con- ment from their employees. venience food products but also Now the State of Virginia, when to help humanity in some other it started a sales tax recently, parts of the world to help it- came up with a neat way to gain self," he added. some additional revenue. When business men greet each other, the third, if not the first, question they asked is, 'How's business?' Some men keep in touch with the general trend by asking this question at every opportunity.

At one time I doubted that the state of prosperity of my neighborhood grocer or my paper merchant or my tailor or my barber had any relation to the multi - billion - dollar turnover throughout the United States.

My tailor might consider business excellent if ten of his customers each ordered two suits of clothes in a single week. I argued that my tailor might enjoy a rush of orders at a time when general prosperity was at low ebb. Just a few hundred dollars more or less in the monthly billing makes a good or bad month for him. How could his business possibly reflect anything of importance?

Strangely enough, however, the prosperity curve of practically all business enterprises, from the steel corporation to the bootblack stand, seems to dip and rise with the curve of general business.

When the unfilled orders on the books of the big corporations make a poor showing, a dozen or two dozen of my barber's customers decide to let their hair grow one more week, and when they get around to his shop and he says 'Shampoo?' they mumbled, 'No just a haircut today.'

H. L. Hunt Says

CAPITALISM ENCOURAGES CHANGE

The American system of capitalism, based on personal initiative, gains strength from resourceful change. But totalitarianism, of which communism is the prime example, refuses to tolerate any authentic change.

In the social order called capitalism the individual has the inherent right to own property and capital and the right to pass it on to his children and others. Under this system the individual is free to own property, free to work for himself and his family, free not to work for the government, and free to choose his employer, his job or his vocation. These liberties are not possible under communism.

John Locke, in the 17th century, named three primary natural rights: "Life, liberty and property." If the individual's livelihood is entirely dependent on the state, as under communism, he is automatically denied these natural rights. That is why only under capitalism can a man be free and be master of his own fate -- and have the right to work for improvements, meaning change, in the system itself.

In addition to total material power, the communism dictatorship uses idealogy, indoctrination and propaganda in order to enslave the people. There is no greater power than that of a government which owns and controls everything. But in the case of capitalism, with ownership in the hands of individuals, such government tyranny is impossible.

Capitalism can flourish only in the air of freedom. High productivity and superior standards of living are the result of freedom. The success of the United States as a capitalist society is the fruit of the incentive of a free people. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - - It isn't being announced but director Leonard Marks of the U.S. Information Agency has developed a neat transistor radio to be parachuted behind the lines in Vietnam.

It will be packed in a padded cellophane box costing about five cents, which will resist the shock when the transistors are dropped from an airplane. The radio itself costs about $3, and is built so it can tune in on only one radio frequency -- that of "The Voice of Freedom," operated by South Vietnam and the USIA.

Behind the plan to drop these radio sets is the fact that North Vietnam operates a controlled system whereby all radio sets are tuned in on communist government channels. No radio sets used by the Viet Cong or the North Vietnamese can be tuned in on a South Vietnam station. The communists don't trust their people to listen in on anything except communist airwaves.

Marks has been working to increase the number of Viet Cong defectors, with remarkable success. In the last year defectors totaled 20,000. In the first six months of 1967 they totaled 18,000. They come through the lines bearing passes dropped from the air, guaranteeing them safe conduct. These are called "welcome passes." Defectors then go on the radio to tell former Viet Cong comrades that they have been well treated, fed, permitted to go back to their villages.

However, due to the North Vietnamese airwave monopoly, it's been difficult to get these messages across. Hence, Mark's ingenious idea of dropping transistor radios. They are labeled in the local language "gift of the free world. Listen to the voice of freedom."

The words "Tat Mai" on the set mean "off," while the words "Mo Mai" mean "on."

LBJ, incidentally, is relying more and more on the U.S. information agency, not only in Vietnam but in the Near East.

INSANITARY MEAT

Big city race riots have been a break for the big meat packers. The riots have focused attention away from the hearings on a new meat inspection bill, now terminating before a House Agriculture sub-committee. Most important part of these sessions begins this week, behind closed doors, when the committee decides on the final form of a bill to protect the housewife from insanitary, intrastate meat.

Since these final meetings will be held in secret, here are some important facts which housewives should know.

- The Meat Institute, Independent Meat Packers Association and The Western States Meat Packers - are trying to head off a strong intrastate inspection bill by accepting the administration bill. They have heard from the consumer.

The administration bill, however, is nothing to throw your hat in the air over. It merely provides federal funds to the states if they strengthen their own inspection laws. But there is no requirement for states to pass inspection laws at all or to strengthen what they've already got.

2. The big meat packers - Swift, Armour, Wilson - are not in favor or strong legislation. While most of their business has been interstate, and their meat therefore federally inspected, some have been expanding into intrastate slaughterhouses.

Processing and selling meat inside state boundaries has now become big business, because cheaper, uninspected meat gives the seller a competitive advantage over inspected meat. It can be dyed, seasoned and doctored with antibiotics to look, smell, and taste like good meat.

REPORT ON LOUISIANA PLANT

One of the big packers, Swift, has been unhappy about revealing how much intrastate meat it is selling as against interstate meat. This is understandable, in view of the following report from a Department of Agriculture inspector regarding a Swift intrastate plant in New Orleans:

"Equipment, such as metal barrels, was rusty - the boning boards were old and caked with fat and meat juices. The old boards had minute splinters, caused from continuous use, that resembled fuzz. This is a source of contamination and an excellent media for bacteria growth which under certain circumstances may cause food poisoning."

Though this report was made in 1962, Agriculture Department inspectors say conditions have not changed since then.

3. Key Congresswoman - Rep. Catherine May, Republican of Yakima, Wash., could swing a lot of Republican votes for the housewife if she wanted to. She's a good congresswoman, but seems to be leaning toward the big meat packers. Cattlemen are powerful in her district.

4. Key Bureaucrat - The official inside the Department of Agriculture who sides with the meat packers is Byron Allen, who when living in Iowa and Minnesota was close to the State Department of Agriculture. He leans toward intrastate inspection by these state departments.

The man pushing hardest for an airtight new meat inspection law is Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa. He is now getting 100 per cent support from Rep. Tom Foley, Democrat of Spokane, Wash.

A final bill will be whipped into shape behind closed doors this week.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

ACCENTUATING THE POSITIVE

Rioters' Flames Hide the 'Power Structure's' Efforts To Succor the Un-trained, Semi-literate Poor.

Chicago: --Learn, baby, learn, man, is hotter than burn, baby, burn. That's the advice being given to thousands of young Negores -- and their white neighbors in a hundred ghettos -- by honest men now deep in the very power structure which the firebrands are eager to tear down.

But it is far more than advice these men are giving. They're spending their money, their time, their talents and the not always abundant excess energies of harassed middle-aged corporate and labor executives.

And they did not wait for the fires to turn on the heat. Their story is being lost in the crackle of yesterday's flames. That's a pity, for right now -- deep in the heart of the goliath steel industry -- business executives and labor leaders are "tooling up" a pilot project which could take tens of thousands of undereducated and unskilled adults off the streets and put them into the pipeline for secure and well-paying jobs.

At this moment in the Chicago-Gary and Baltimore steel complex, local leaders of the United Steelworkers of America and management men from seven major steel corporations are running "employe clinics." They're seeking 1,600 undereducated workers so they can be sent to classes in September right in the big plants themselves. The pilot project seeks both the men who need rudimentary reeducation and those whose literacy is on a slightly higher level. In the end, these men, while working, will have gone through 150 hours of upper level grade school and high school courses at the rate of six hours a week. They will study just before or just after the shift. The much abused "power structure" corporations will pay the bill.

If this succeeds in such plants as Bethlehem's Sparrow's Point and Armco's mill over in East Baltimore, and down the line here at Inland, National Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and U.S. Steel, the operation will flow coast to coast throughout this behemoth industry.

From there, the projects will be moved into the auto, rubber and other mass production fields.

The objective is to upgrade the skills and education of the employes so they can tear themselves loose from the laborer category on the bottom.

But most vital, once the bottom is unclogged, the industry would be justified in going into the community and getting at the hard core -- those swept up in the emotional and charred maelstrom of the big city streets. As the trainees are promoted, the new cadres will be moved into an industry where labor earns about four dollars an hour and has job security.

But those who scream above the roar of falling buildings, bowling sirens and breaking of heavy glass, can't expect instant millenniums. Those who scream all the way down from Baltimore to Washington in the caravans of CORE's "Steel and Shipyard Workers Committee" may well discourage and dislocate the pilot project. It takes time to learn the difference between a coke oven and a blast furnace.

The pilot project may not suit the young lions in the streets but if it works it will give hundreds of thousands of unskilled and uneducated workers a chance to "get with it." This is a four - way effort. It sprang from the 1965 collective bargaining negotiations (which wound up in the White House). Virtually unnoticed and unreported was a final contract clause on training of manpower.

The steel industry's coordinating group, speaking for ten major firms, agreed to set up a study committee. On it were the union's president, I. W. Abel; its special counsel, Elliot Bredhoff; Bill Caples of Inland Steel, and H. C. "Lefty" Lumb of Republic. They could commit the entire industry.

They conferred with government officials and soon, in May 1967, they had $1 million of federal funds. Thus Willard Wirtz's Labor Dept., John Gardner's Health, Education and Welfare Dept., the union, the industry and the Midwest Board for Fundamental Education were rolling. The Board is one of the few with a Congressional charter such as that of the Red Cross.

It specializes in workers motivation, new methodology for educating adults and training of teachers. It will conduct the classes.

Of course, 1,600 men are only the beginning. If they move successfully through the study courses, the industry can be expected to move into the community, though it is not the responsibility of Big Steel. Educating the unskilled semi-literate proletariat is the public's task. But the much abused "power structure" is hardly what it is made out to be in the literature of what Lenin called the infantile left.

There's much riding on this pilot project. It could steer a course for all massive industries and unions.

But not if the rioters continue to burn the inner gut of America's great industrial cities, nor if these megalopolises exist as armed camps.

Mrs. Lloyd Franklin Stoner

Joan Lilian Kirk Says Vows With Lloyd Franklin Stoner

Candlelight illumined the setting Saturday in the First Methodist church when Joan Lillian Kirk became the bride of Lloyd Franklin Stoner.

Miss Kirk is the daughter of Mrs. Charles L. Kirk and the late Mr. Kirk. Stoner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien M. Stoner, all of Sikeston.

The Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. The couple pledged their vows before an altar decorated with an arch candelabra holding tall cathedral candles centered in the background. On either side was a large basket of white stock with majestic daisies and a tree candelabra.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by Mrs. H. J. Welsh, organist. She also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lane of Memphis, the bride's aunt and uncle, who sang "Through the Years", "If I Could Tell You", and "The Wedding Prayer".

To the traditional bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," the bride approached the altar down the white carpeted aisle marked with large white bows and single candelabra holding tall tapers. She was given in marriage by her grandfather, George W. Kirk. The bride and groom knelt for the benediction on a white prie dieu with tall palms at the sides.

The bride wore a white linen floor-length gown with bateau neckline, richly embossed with imported Venetian lace. The high rise waist was outlined with tiny French cording and deep scalloped lace outlined the bottom of the three quarter length kabuka sleeves. Motifs of the same lace was appliqued across the front of the skirt and again at the bottom of the chapel-length court train attached at the shoulders. Her wristlet gloves were backed with the same lace. The bride's headpiece was an arrangement of orange blossoms and stephanotis, arranged on top and trellising down the side of her face. Attached was a bouffant three tiered veil, each tier with hand rolled hems, made of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and white stock florets.

Miss Julia Margaret Kirk of San Jose, Calif., served her sister as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Witte of Manchester, Mo., Miss Beth Lane of Memphis, Tenn., both cousins of the bride, and Miss Linda Stoner, sister of the groom. The attendants were dressed in floor-length sleeveless skimmers of lemon yellow, candy pink, lime green, and lilac. They were styled alike, made of linen weave trimmed with Venetian lace and velvet ribbon. The jewel neckline dipped low in back, with petite bows at the back closure. A detachable capelet collar was edged with the same lace and contrasting color velvet ribbon enhanced the back with bow and streamers. They wore picture hats made of transparent braid trimmed with daisies and velvet ribbon dyed to match their gowns. The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried white lace fans with daisies and streamers matching their gowns.

Attending the groom as best man, was A2c Ed Pike Jr., Hooper, Neb. Groomemsn were Clay Matthews, Joe Gooch, both of Sikeston and Hal Lane of Memphis, Tenn., cousin of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore white formal tuxedos and carnation boutonniers, tinted to match the bridesmaids dresses.

Mrs. Kirk wore for her daughter's wedding a pale pink three-piece raw silk suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Stoner, mother of the groom, was dressed in a light blue, three-quarter length lace coat over a crepe sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white gardenias.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kirk, 1014 North Kingshighway, where the bridal couple received their guests. The home was decorated throughout with arrangements of large white mums white stock and white majestic daisies. The bride's table was covered with a white organdy and linen cutwork cloth. In the center was the three-tiered columned cake topped with an archway of lilies of the valley. A sugar Bible inscribed with the names of the couple and the wedding date was placed at the base of the cake. Five branched silver candelabra holding burning white tapers graced each side of the wedding cake. Matching silver punch bowls were at either end of the table and nuts and mints were served from silver compotes. Serving the punch were Miss Heyde Yount and Miss Georgia Canzianni. Mrs. George Bockhorst served the cake. Assisting at the guest register and passing the rice bags was Mrs. Lynn Lancaster.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Lucien M. Stoner were hosts at a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Midtowner restaurant honoring their son and his fiancee. The tables were decorated with tiny wedding flowers, favors, ferns, bows and candles, all in the pastel colors chosen by the bride. Members of the wedding party were guests and were presented gifts from the bridal couple.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Witte Jr., Manchester; Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lane, Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Doris Taylor, Miss Amy Kelly both of Columbia; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd F. Peters, Burna, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Trigg and children Gregg, Valerie, and Eric, Bridgeton; Mrs. George Bochkhorst, Mrs. Nora Crosnoe, both of Cape Girardeau; Miss Roseann Podlesac, Omaha, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Stoner, Mrs. Jean Fraile, and Miss Strauk, all of Overland; Mrs. Joyce Brannum and son Frank, Raymond Stoner and daughter, Janet, Miss Georgia Canzianni, all of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Woodside, Mr. and Mrs. Burl Underwood, all of Parma; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Paul, Hawkpoint; and Mr. and Mrs. Merrel Griffith, Hazelwood.

PARTIES

Several parties were given in honor of the bride and groom. Miss Myra Tanner honored the bride at a bingo party at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe McCord honored the bride and groom at a garden supper party, including as guests, friends of the couple and the bride's mother.

Mrs. C. LaVal Sharp and Mrs. Jack Yount and daughters, Heyde and Jane Ella, entertained at a brunch at the Yount home Saturday morning. Guests were members of the wedding party and visitors from out of town.

NOTHING IN NOVEMBER

We come to November and open our hands
To nothing.
For what was the long travel
Out of the dark and the fog.
Feeling for handholds
On twisted branches, and Falling in the holes of burned-out stumps?
Somehow we hovered with time,
Pushing it aside bit by bit
As we would cobwebbed vines.
Now the leaves are gone,
The trees look ancient,
And footsteps are only a shuffle.
What should I say -
The hands clutch only the fog-
And the face is wet as it moves
Toward the light.

Miss Brenda Lawrence July Bride of Willard Lee Miller

The Northside Church of Christ was the scene of the July 8 wedding of Miss Brenda Lawrence and Willard Lee Miller.

The minister, Jimmy Miller, officiated at the candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Lawrence, route two, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warrick Miller, route two.

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Lawrence wore a white street-length dress overlaid with lace. The straight lines of the dress were accented with a bateau neckline and bell-shapred lace sleeves that ended in lace ruffles trimmed with blue satin. Her three tiered shoulder - length bouffant veil was secured by a circular headpiece of blue satin.

Miss Pam Lambert of Blodgett sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Because."

Miss Debbie Lawrence, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a pale blue A-line dress of bonded lace. Her blue single tiered veil was shoulder length. The honor attendant carried a single long-stemmed white carnation with blue ribbons tied in lovers' knots. Miss Lawrence wore blue shoes and short blue gloves.

A reception was held in church fellowship room.

A three tiered wedding cake appointed the bride's table. Guests were served by Miss Patty Belk of Benton and Mrs. Hazel McDonald, sister of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lee Miller

Mr. and Mrs. Miller are now at home at 415 Kendall.

SHOWER

Miss Patty Belk and Miss Sue Boston were hostesses July 6 at a bridal shower honoring the former Miss Lawrence.

The shower was in the Belk home in Benton.

Games were played and refreshments served.

Attending or sending gifts were Mrs. Walter, Jeannie Hennemann, Brenda Scherer, Mary Urhahn, Cecelia Graff, Rita Duff, Christy Merrick, Sandy and Peggy Bollinger, Sue Boston, Ann Scherer.

Sharon Proctor, Mrs. Harold Yarbrough, Janie Michael, Pam Miller, Mary Neble, Glenn Swope, Mrs. Carroll Lawrence, Pam Ring, Cindy Slusher, Mrs. Hazel McDonald.

Mrs. Earl Andrews, Mrs. Charleston Michael and Patty, Judy Evans, Nancy Miller, Mrs. Pat Hoffman, Mrs. Thelma Reeves and Pat, Miss Joyce Collier, Mrs. Elvis Lawrence, the bride's mother; Mrs. Warrick Miller, the groom's mother, and Mrs. Hazel Sanford, Maternal grandmother of the groom.

BIRTHS

MAXWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maxwell of Matthews are the parents of a daughter born Wednesday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

While the Army brass were covering the summer maneuvers of our local reserve unit, we received de luxe treatment. The cooks outdid themselves for lunch with steak and all the trimmings.

Since publicity releases were being prepared a picture was taken of the group eating. As the flash went off, an authoritative voice called out gruffly, "All right, men! They have the picture. Turn in your steaks!"

Potlatch Wins State

Sikeston Potlatch and Cape Girardeau Mutual finally met after having two scheduled meetings cancelled by the weather.

As far as Cape was concerned it could have rained out yesterday's match. Sikeston successfully defending its state title, drubbing Cape 10-2 in the second game of the best two out of three series.

Bruce Farris made a shaky start but went the distance. He had seven strikeouts, fanning the first three batters he faced in the game and allowed seven bases on balls.

Pine Bluff, Ark., will be in Sikeston, Friday for a three - game series that will send the winner to Colorado for the sectional.

Mike Garner, Roger McDaniel and Farris had two hits each in leading the Foresters seven-hit attack. Farris blasted a triple for two runs batted in and Terry Scudder had a two RBI double. McDaniel drove home two runs to send the Foresters into a 2-2 tie in the fourth.

It was an all out team effort, hitting and running to the signals of Manager N. P. McDaniel and coach Wayne Limbaugh Sr.

Cape jumped to a 2-0 lead in the second and held it until the fourth when the Foresters added two and sent across three in the fifth and five in the sixth.

BATTING - Hank Allen, Senators, cracked three hits and drove in two runs, including the winning tally with an 11th-inning single, as Washington edged Minnesota 5-4.

PITCHING - Mike Cuellar, Astros, checked New York on six hits and struck out eight in a 5-2 triumph over the Mets.

Birds Swipe Pair

By the Associated Press

Lou Brock and Curt Flood turned off the electricity in Chicago while Pete Rose was switching on the power in Cincinnati.

Brock and Flood clicked for 11 hits between them as the St. Louis Cardinals dimmed Chicago pennant hopes Wednesday with a 4-2, 7-1 doubleheader sweep over the second-place Cubs.

The two victories mushroomed the Cards' National League lead to 5-1/2 games - the biggest spread of the season.

Rose, meanwhile, became the eighth player in NL history to hit home runs from each side of the plate in a game as Cincinnati drubbed the fading Atlanta Braves 7-3.

The Reds' triumph lifted them within 2-1/2 games of the Cubs while the Braves' fifth loss in their last six starts dropped them 10 games off St. Louis' pennant pace.

Willie Mays drove in three runs with a double and his 15th homer, leading fourth-place San Francisco past Pittsburgh 7-2; Houston downed the New York Mets 5-2 and Philadelphia shaded Los Angeles 3-2 in 10 innings in other NL games.

Brock slapped out six hits in the Cards' twin-bill sweep-four of them in the nightcap - and lifted his batting average to .291. Flood, who has 14 hits in 28 at bats since coming off the disabled list last Friday, contributed three singles in the opener and two more in the second game, bringing his average to .321.

Right-hander Dick Hughes and southpaw Steve Carlton put together successive complete games for the league leaders, scattering seven hits apiece, and brought their season marks to 10-3 and 10-6, respectively.

Brock drove in two runs with a second inning single in the opener, then doubled and scored the deciding run in the sixth.

In the third inning of the nightcap Brock and Flood beat out successive bunt singles, triggering a four-run burst.

Lee May's three-run homer was the big blow in the third-inning uprising.

Mickey Mantle is the all-time switch homer king, having connected from each side 10 times for the New York Yankees.

Babe Ruth Stars Strike

POPLAR BLUFF - Sikeston's Babe Ruth All-Stars moved into the semi-finals of the Poplar Bluff invitational baseball tournament last night by whipping Bernie 2-0 on the no-hit gem of Dan Throop.

In last night's other action, Fredericktown downed the County All-Stars 6-2.

Poplar Bluff opened the tournament Monday with a 10-0 thrashing of Bloomfield. Bernie followed with an 8-3 victory and Dexter posted a 13-5 win over Kennett.

Sikeston meets Fredericktown at 9 p.m. tonight in a semi-final round contest. Finals are set for Friday.

Jim Denbow provided the offensive punch for the Stars, banging out two doubles, while teammates LeRoy McCauley and Throop connected on extra base blasts. McCauley had a triple and Throop a double. The team collected seven hits in all while scoring runs in the second and fourth innings.

Throop collected six strikeouts and issued only two walks in pitching the Stars to its first tournament victory.

Stars Knock Off Oran

Charleston, Portageville and the Sikeston All-Stars posted wins in the 12th annual Little League baseball tournament played at Puckett field last night.

Rain cancelled a pair of games Tuesday night and the tournament scheduled was reset for three games last night and tonight.

Tonight's schedule finds the Sikeston Aces going against New Madrid at 6 p.m., Illmo-Scott City meeting Richland in the 7:30 p.m. game and the Sikeston All-Stars taking on Charleston.

Charleston puts together 13 runs in six innings, limiting Matthews to only two tallies.

Brad Frayser and Virgil Littlejohn led the six-hit Charleston offensive with two safeties, including a double by Frayser.

Charleston jumped on Scott Bewley for four runs in the first inning and added three runs each in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Matthews' only tally came in the first inning on five bases on balls, walking in Ken Lape and Greg Plunk.

Portageville went six innings for its 13-11 victory over Bertrand, who put on a rally in the middle innings and almost pulled out the victory.

Portageville jumped to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning and added six runs in the second after Bertrand knotted the score in the top of the second.

Bertrand pushed across four runs in the third and fourth innings. Portageville added three and two in its half of the innings, holding a slim 12-9 lead, but was never able to overcome its deficit, closing to within one run in the fifth inning 12-11.

Walter Ace and Eugene Fowler led the five-hit Portageville attack with two safeties, including a double apiece. Robert Shelby and Stephen Morrow had two hits each, including a double each.

Greg Jones was the winning hurler, collecting 10 strikeouts. Garry Meeks was the losing hurler, fanning five Portageville Batsmen.

Lynn Miller pitched the local All-Stars to a one hit, 8-2 victory over Oran, collecting 11 strikeouts in six innings.

The Stars jumped out into a three-run first inning, on two cases on balls and hits by Billy Shatzley and Roy Bowman, but Oran added a score in its half of the inning and closed to within one run with a tally in the third before the Stars pulled away with three runs in the fourth and two in the sixth.

Keith Campbell was the only Oran batsman to hit safely, banging out a single in the third inning and scoring both Oran runs.

The little Oran first baseman scored in the first innings after reaching first on an error by the short stop and came around in the third after singling.

Campbell reached base in his three appearances to the plate, hitting the ball hard for two errors by fielders. Teammates Curtis Caldwell and Bob Williams were the only other Oran hitters to reach base.

Shatzley and Charles Miller connected on doubles for the Stars, while Shatzley led the seven hit offensive attack with two hits.

Driver Wins Mileage Card, Two Plagues

Carl Ross, Kennett, has been given mileage plaques for driving Pontiacs more than 1,100,000 miles.

The award was made following purchase of a new car from the Jarvis-Conn Motor Company. Ross receiving a letter of recognition from J.Z. DeLorean, general manager of the Pontiac Motor Division in Pontiac, Mich.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Chas. L. Blanton Jr.
Editor, Sikeston Standard

Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Charlie:

We are wondering why there has been such a delay in our receiving the "Standard". This week we received only the Monday and Tuesday issues yesterday (Saturday). We have at times received your Friday and Saturday issues on Monday but most of the time we receive two or three issues at one time. Could it be that your mailing department do not mail them out on the day they are issued? Please investigate this and have it corrected. We enjoy reading your paper altho many people make the paper who are unknown to us, but we do keep up with those we knew while we lived there and we are always glad to read and see the pictures of the new developments and new businesses that are coming to the old home town. We were interested in Mayor Kendall Sikes meeting with the ministers and we are not smart enough to tell them how to solve the problems of the colored people but we think there has been too much given away with no work done in return. We think that a large percentage of these young Negroes who are rioting, burning and looting are the young illegitimates who are now grown up without any family training from decent mothers and fathers. This is the direct result of the A.D.C. program which pays women to have any number of illigitimate children who grow up without any religious or decent training of any kind. In a way you can't blame these young people who see their mothers getting a living for nothing so they go about doing the same thing. A woman can be excused for making a mistake in having one illigimate child and should get some assistance in raising it but she should not be encouraged to have as many as ten or twelve. We think the Congress should revise this law or else this nation will be overrun with these lawless youths both black and white. We need more colored men in Sikeston of the caliber of Lee Johnson, Walter Griffin and others who believe in working for what they have and living a decent life. We have many friends among the colored people in Sikeston and we know that they are against this lawlessness and they should take a stand against it and encourage these young people to live a better life.

When I started this letter I did not intend to make it so long but I cannot pass up this opportunity to tell you and our friends that our son Joe is slowly recuperating from his lung operation and hopes to resume his teaching in September. The operation was to remove a deflated lobe in his lung. The incision was made from his breast bone to his back bone and the ribs were pried apart to get to the lung. His greatest pain was caused by muscle spasms from the severed muscles. He is now able to sleep three or four hours at a time with the help of pain tablets. We spent a month at their home taking care of the daughters while Joe and Nan were in San Antonio where the operation was performed at Lackland Air Force Base Hospital. We are now at home and hope that any of our Sikeston friends who are vacationing on the Florida West Coast and traveling the Tamiami Trail (US 41) will stop off and visit us. We are just 35 miles south of Sarasota and 45 miles north of Ft. Myers and just three blocks off of the Trail.

Our best regards to you and the Blanton family.

Sincerely,
Harry & Jessie Dover

OUR CRIME WAVE

According to the FBI, about half of the crime in this country is committed by persons who have been released from jail before serving out their full sentences. That being the case, crime could be reduced about fifty percent just by keeping criminals in the jails until they had served their terms. Another explanation for increase in crime is the attitude of the courts in making it increasingly difficult to convict a wrong doer, even though by his own confession he is known to be guilty.

Probably the greatest of all causes of our crime wave is socialism. The basic principle of this doctrine is redistribution of wealth, that is, taking wealth from some and giving it to others. When the state practices this doctrine through subsidies, handouts, welfare statism, payments for not working, and an almost infinite variety of unethical practices, the individual comes to believe that such tactics are right, and that he is entitled to some of the wealth of others, even to a living without doing any work himself.

Being convinced that something for nothing is right, and seeing his government following that ideology, it is easy for him to conclude that he is only helping his government if he does a little redistribution of his own. There you have the basic reason for the increase of fraud and theft, and any means of getting some of the wealth of other people by force and violence. We shall never cure the crime wave until we come back to the moral law of God and respect for His commandments against lying, coveting, stealing, adultery, profanity and all the rest.

Men who accept as rules for their conduct, the high ethical ideals which they attribute to God, do not violate His moral law, and hence do not become criminals.

World Changed When Red China Exploded H-Bomb

EDITOR'S NOTE— China's H-bomb explosion last June meant a big step forward in its drive to become a major nuclear power. Now her arsenal may grow by leaps and bounds— with dire implications for the West. Here is the first of three articles by an AP team that examined Red China's atomic weaponry and its likely effects on the United States.

WILLIAM L. RYAN

Red China exploded an H-bomb.

Within 30 months, she may well have 100 of the mammoth bombs, Dr. Ralph Lapp, a nuclear physicist, estimates.

Within that same brief time, she could be stockpiling the missiles needed to lob city-obliterating bombs at American or other targets.

This is far ahead of initial government estimates. Investigation shows U.S. officials have consistently miscalculated the speed of China's nuclear progress.

Ironically, the record also shows the United States educated and then deported to Communist China some of the key nuclear and missile experts who contributed enormously to her achievements.

Super-terror weapons are coming into the hands of a Chinese regime regarded by the West as reckless and paranoid.

"If they think about it, Americans get a gut feeling this spells big trouble," declares Rep. Craig Hosmer of California, a Republican member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

China's nuclear progress "is frightening," says Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., committee chairman. "China within five years will be a formidable nuclear power."

The possible consequences from China's dealing herself in as a nuclear poker player are widespread and dismaying, an Associated Press study finds:

— It could resolve affirmatively a hot debate whether the United States should drive ahead now for antiballistic missile defenses and perhaps civilian shelters -- at a cost to taxpayers that could reach $70 billion as a starter. Such a decision, opponents argue, would only explode the arms race into a new, dangerous and useless spiral.

— China might donate a few A-bombs to Arab countries in the touchy Middle East. Israel then could be impelled to build, beg or borrow bombs of her own.

— China might use bombs to blackmail weaker countries into keeping hands off "people's liberation" wars of rebellion within their own borders.

— Japan, India, other countries could decide to make their own bombs, killing all hopes for a nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

— China, under Mao Tse-tung or more cooperative successors, must be reckoned as a first-class power. The H-bomb gives a soaring boost to Chinese morale, says one top adviser on China to the U.S. government.

"After 100 years of ignominy and having to accept battleships, booze and Bibles forced on them by foreigners, after suffering heartaches and burning in their bellies from all that, the bomb is a tremendous symbol of emancipation from second-class status," he remarks.

It took China only 32 months to leap from her first atomic explosion to detonation of a pretty complete H-bomb. How swiftly may she acquire significant nuclear muscles?

Pentagon and Atomic Energy Commission officials declined requests for interviews, referring queries mainly to a "posture statement" by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara last Jan. 23:

"It appears unlikely that the Chinese could deploy a significant number of operational ICBMs before the mid-1970's, or that these ICBMs would have great reliability, speed of response, or substantial protection against attack."

A "significant number" of ICBMs -- intercontinental ballistic missiles— was defined by Pentagon sources at the time as 75 to 100 or more.

McNamara and others have predicted China may test-launch an ICBM before the year's end, or send a Chinese satellite beeping into orbit, signaling progress in control and guidance skills required for pinpointed nuclear missiles.

The estimate that China could have 100 H-bombs by 1970 is made on the basis of published information and other sources by Dr. Lapp, of Washington, D.C., a physicist now in private consulting business who played a roll in A-bomb development.

He credits China with current ability to produce 1,000 pounds per year of uranium 235, the atoms that fission or split in A-weapons.

But Dr. Lapp and others think it would be foolish for China to use costly U-235 for atomic weapons. Instead, they think China will apt to use all or most of it as triggers for H-bombs, with the explosive equivalent of many millions of tons of TNT.

Dr. Lapp estimates China can turn its 1,000 pounds of U-235 into 20 H-bomb triggers each year. That, plus existing stocks and a rising production could mean 100 H-bombs within about 30 more months.

U-235 is the most expensive ingredient in the big bombs. Others such as lithium 6 and heavy water are relatively cheap.

With a large H-bomb, "You can buy the equivalent of a ton of TNT for 40 cents a ton. With smaller A-bombs, the cost is more than $1,000 per ton," says Rep. Hosmer.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicts China by the end of 1967 will have a capability for intermediate-range ballistic missiles and will begin deploying them.

These can zoom 1,000 to 1,500 miles or more, and so could menace Soviet Asia and Southeast Asian countries, says Jackson, a member of several military and nuclear affairs committees.

By 1971, China may have ICBMs that could reach North America, the senator adds. By the mid-1970s, China "will have enough bombs and missiles to be a real threat to life in the United States. That's perhaps eight years away, but time flies by."

When China exploded her H-bomb, she was at least 2½ years ahead of the schedule estimated for her by Westerners.

It took the United States seven years from A-bomb to H-bomb, but there had been no pressure to move quickly when this country had a monopoly on A-weapons. It took the Soviet Union four years, Britain seven, and France is not yet there. China required only two years and eight months. The reasons are intriguing; the record impressive.

— Oct. 16, 1964: The first A-device is detonated from a tower in the desolate salt flats near Lop Nor— Lake Lop— in the remote northwestern province of Sinkiang, on a site 450 miles from the Soviet frontier. Its force: 20,000 tons of TNT, equal to the Hiroshima bomb 19 years earlier.

Through spy planes and other intelligence, the United States was able to predict the event 17 days in advance, diluting its propaganda value. It was made of U-235, not easier-to-get plutonium; China was more sophisticated in nuclear prowess than had been supposed.

U.S. experts figured China might have H-bombs by 1975. Little official concern was expressed - China still had to produce numerous A-bombs, and means of delivering them.

— May 17, 1965: An air drop of an A-bomb about double the earlier force. U.S. officials spoke in terms of a Chinese H-bomb by 1970.

— May 9, 1966: Test tower detonation of a device of over 200,000 tons of TNT. Ingredients needed for an H-reaction were detected, says Rep. Hosmer.

— Oct. 27, 1966: A missile carried an A-warhead 400 to 500 miles to detonation. The explosive force was perhaps 20,000 tons. Major Asian cities were coming within range.

-Dec. 27, 1966: Probably a proof test of an H-bomb trigger, Hosmer reports. Explosive force, a few hundred thousand tons of TNT.

-June 17, 1967: Proof test for an H-bomb. Its force, "several" millions of tons of TNT, said the Atomic Energy Commission. Furthermore, says Hosmer, it was an air drop, something transportable even if only in one of China's limited-range bombers.

Experts analyzing China's nuclear hurry point to numerous factors:

-Her leaders put top priority on this goal.

-The Soviet Union helped directly for a time; the United States indirectly.

-The Chinese are very smart people, as evidenced by their impressive share of outstanding scientists in many fields.

-They profited hugely from U. S. and Soviet pioneering which showed that A-bombs and H-bombs can be built-that warheads can be designed to fit atop missiles - that gaseous diffusion is an effective way of separating U-235 from ordinary uranium.

This face alone saved them half to 80 per cent of the time and effort Americans had to spend originally in various phases of weapons development, Dr. Philip Abelson, editor of Science magazine, estimates.

-China worked simultaneously to develop bombs and missiles, then to marry the two. The United States and the Soviet Union got weapons first, with bombers to carry them, then made ICBMs to hurl them. China could take a shortcut.

-There are conflicting reports whether China tumbled onto a quicker and cheaper way -- a centrifuging process -- to concentrate U-235.

-China's scientists and engineers in nuclear-missile work were "insulated from the frightening and deleterious antics of the cultural revolution," says a China authority who advises the U.S. government. "They had to go through the formula of adulating Mao, but they didn't have to interrupt their work, or have signs glued onto them."

-China spent heavily in skilled manpower, resources and foreign exchange at a cost of not pursuing, or else limiting, other needs.

Rep. Hosmer estimates China is spending about $1 billion annually on nuclear and missile development, or some 4 per cent of her gross national product.

She is getting what the Maoists want -- nuclear war power.

In China with this new kind of might, says a China-watcher, "maybe we are seeing the manifestation of a giant waking, and stretching, and kicking."

Knowing that television has presented the younger generation with many new heroes to admire, my husband wondered if all the old favorites of another era had been forgotten. He decided to see for himself. Beginning with Sandra, our ten - year - old, he asked if she had ever heard of Tom Mix. "Well," she replied in complete sincerity, "I've heard of Tom Collins Mix."

Dinner Honors Joe Sutton

MATTHEWS - Joe Sutton, who will enter the air force Aug. 24, was honored at a dinner Sunday given by his aunt, Mrs. Bill Sutton.

Attending were Sutton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Sutton; his brother and sister, Greg and Faye, all of Matthews; another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hannan of Chicago, R. H. Rushing, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Throop, all of Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rushing, Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Rushing, Illinois; Roy Sutton, Pearl Sutton, both of Essex, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutton and Monetta, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Hawkins, Sandy, Linda, Debbie, Tommy, Pam, Jan and John, all of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Launius and Carla and Darren, Morehouse; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sutton and Linda, Essex.

Two of Sutton's friends, Gary Harris of Matthews and Carroll Gene Drake of Canalou also will enter the air force.

Orbiter Adjusts Flight Pattern

"The midcourse maneuver was perfect, as far as we can tell at this point," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

Scientists controlling the craft's flight said it had less than 133,000 miles to go before it is dropped into orbit around the moon, where the camera package is to go into operation.

"The spacecraft was programmed to roll and pitch to orient it properly for the maneuver, which it did," the spokesman said.

"A 26-second burn of its steering rocket decreased its speed by 67 miles an hour. It was then rolled back into cruising position."

Carrier Toll Climbs to 131

MANILA (AP)— Two men injured in the fire aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal have died, raising the toll of confirmed dead to 131, the U.S. Navy announced today. Three other men still are not accounted for.

The two injured men died in hospitals in Vietnam to which they were transferred before the Forrestal sailed Sunday to the Subic Bay naval base in the Philippines.

More than a dozen naval architects and engineers from stations in the United States and elsewhere have begun assessing the damage by the fires and bomb explosions that devastated the 76,000-ton carrier's after section.

A spokesman at Subic Bay said the first task for the investigators is to determine what work has to be done on the carrier and "get it wherever it can be fully repaired." It is generally assumed the ship will return to the United States.

The Navy announced that all of the injured who were transferred to the hospital ship Repose off Vietnam shortly after the fire have been evacuated to the United States except for three men who still cannot be moved.

There are 26 other injured at the U.S. naval hospital at Subic Bay.

In a biography of Gen. George Patton, Before the Colors Fade, Patton's nephew, Fred Ayer, Jr., tells about the time he finally got up nerve to ask his uncle why he swaggered around and ranted and swore and made statements that gave him such a bad press.

Uncle George leaned forward; he was not smiling. "Okay, you asked, so I'll tell you. In any war, a commander, no matter what rank, has to send to sure death, nearly every day, by his own orders, a certain number of men. Some are his personal friends. All are his personal responsibility, to them as his troops and to their families. Any man with a heart would, then, like to sit down and bawl like a baby, but he can't. So he sticks out his jaw, and swaggers and swears. I wish some of those pious sob sisters at home could understand something as basic as that." Then he did smile. "And as for the kind of remarks I make, why sometimes I just get carried away by my own eloquence."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice of Trustee's Sale for default of payment of interest and principal now due as provided by the note secured by a Deed of Trust executed by Ronald L. Collier and Patsy J. Collier, his wife, dated August 7, 1963 and recorded at 9:30 a.m. on August 10, 1963 in the Recorder's Office of Scott County, Missouri, at Benton, Missouri, conveying to Roger A. TRUSTEE'S SALE

WHEREAS, John P. Watkins, a single person by a certain Deed of Trust dated the 2nd day of February, 1961, and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for the County of Scott and the State of Missouri, in Book 126, Page 433-436 conveyed to the undersigned Trustee the following described real estate situated in the County of Scott and State of Missouri, to wit:

All of Lot Numbered Ninety-four (94) of Jones' Subdivision, Scott County, Missouri, as shown in Plat Book No. 7 at Page 26 in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of Scott County, Missouri. Subject to all rights of way and easements, if any, affecting the same.

Which conveyance was made to the undersigned in trust to secure the payment of a certain Promissory Note in said Deed specified; and

WHEREAS, on the 16th day of April, 1962, Leonard Moran and Peggy V. Moran, his wife, assumed and agreed to pay the debt secured by said Deed of Trust, and

WHEREAS, said note is now past due and remains unpaid default having been made in the payment of said note.

NOW, THEREFORE, at the request of the legal holder of said Note and in pursuance of the conditions of said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee will sell the property above described at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash at the Main Front door of the Circuit Court House in the City of Benton, Scott County, Missouri, on August 22, 1967, between the hours of 9:00 A.M., and 5:00 P.M., for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness and the cost of executing this turst.

Ann Landers

'Social Drinkers' Need to Recognize Themselves

Dear Ann Landers: It is 2:30 A.M. Mom and Dad are still staggering around, screaming at each other. The last guest just left. I helped shove her out the door. Before leaving she managed to drop her drink in the vestibule and I had to clean up the broken glass. My parents were too smashed to notice.

I am writing because I know I won't be able to sleep until dawn. After a party like this Mom and Dad fight all night. She accuses him of making passes at other women and he says she is crazy and he is going to put her in a mental institution.

I am a 17-year-old boy and have been offered two full scholarships in another state. But I'm afraid to leave home because I don't know what will become of my brothers and my little sister if I go away. Yet I know I MUST get a college education because at the rate my parents are going they will be dead of alcoholism before the younger kids are grown. I have to get myself educated so I can take care of them.

I am not writing for advice. I know you can't help people who won't help themselves and my parents insist they are not alcoholics. They call themselves "social drinkers". But thanks Ann, for letting me get this off my chest. I needed someone to talk to. -- RX?

Dear RX?: I am printing your letter in the hope that the thousands of "social drinkers" who stagger around and fight until dawn will recognize themselves. In the meantime, I hope you will write to Alateen for literature. The address is Al-Anon Family Group Headquarters, Inc., P. O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N. Y. 10010. Kids with boozing parents need to know a lot of things and this organization can help them. Good luck, fella.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 11-year-old boy in the 5th grade. I called a girl who is in my room at school and asked her if she would accept a roller skating date with me for Saturday afternoon. She said yes.

That night my mother told my father about it and he said no 11-year-old kid should go on a date. He made me call the girl and cancel.

I was going to use my own money which I earned. My Mom had agreed to drive me and the girl to the rink and drive us home. This would have been in the afternoon. A man supervises the kids at the rink at all times.

Please tell me if you agree with me and my mother or if you agree with my father. If you agree with me and my mother, I will show my father your answer and try for next Saturday. -STEPHEN

Dear Stephen: Sorry, but I'm with your father. Eleven-year-old kids should not be dating even if it is only an afternoon at the roller-rink.

After three or four rink dates, you'll want to go to the movies. Then you will want to make a lunch date. Next you will want to take her to dinner. When you reach the age of 12 you will want to go steady. By the time you're 14 there'll be nothing left to do but get engaged.

Stick to the fellas for a few more years, Steve. You won't regret it.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with -- but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

THOUGHTS AND JOTS

"Tis more blessed to give than to receive", - - -so that's where the politicians go for their ideas.

With the advent of the mini-skirt, women now have something they've never had before - a knee's eye view of the world.

"We aim to please, the customer is always right" - - - now, who do they think they're kidding.

I can't for the life of me figure why postage is so high - you'd think they were still buying oats for the ponies.

'Tis the end of a lovely evening - - - the baby sitter just called.

Have you noticed how when an item gets scarce the price goes up - - - I guess that accounts for this winter's dresses, the skirt is scarce and the price is up.

"Tis more blessed to give than to receive" - - - I'm still mulling that one over.

Why is the younger generation always after the older to get beat - - - I'm beat now, I'm beat when I get up in the morning, more beat after fixing lunch, and at the end of the day - I'm really beat!!!!

"To know me is to love me." - Do you feel that requires an explanation?

I've heard of needing a rain maker in the summer, but this is ridiculous - anyone caring to get in contact with a rain maker will find the advertising rates in the Sikeston Standard very reasonable.

Soil, Water Supervisors Re-elect Bogue

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Harley Bogue of Holt was re-elected president of the Missouri Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors at the conclusion of the 23rd annual meeting.

Directors also elected W. L. Duncan, Poplar Bluff, vice president, and reappointed Ludwig Westhoelter, Washington, Mo., secretary-treasurer.

Directors of the association were elected for areas one, three, five and seven. In area one Clifford Redman Amity, was reelected, as was Bogue; in area three, and Duncan in area five. S'upervisors of area 7 elected W. A. Luys of Carthage to replace Jim Stone, Carthage, as their director. Stone will serve as an alternate.

director. Stone will serve as an alternate.

The visitors were given a first hand view of an experiment on the Edward Matthews farm, west of Sikeston, by Joe Silverthorn.

He is narrowing his rows to a 30-inch width but planting the same amount of seed per acre as was formerly planted in the wider rows.

When asked about the experiment, Silverthorn said:

"I expect to increase my yield between 10 and 15 per cent per acre, but I will add an additional 25 per cent fertilizer. It has a two - fold purpose, the plants shade the ground and keep down the grass in the early growing stage to where I have used the cultivator but once, compared to three or four times before. The sun will reach more of the leaves. It also makes it easier to irrigate, as the ground soaks up the water better, but you must change your pipe gates to a 30-inch spread.

"My crop of beans last year produced 41 bushels per acre, and these narrow rows at present have the same quality, and with continued growing success, the production should be increased this fall."

He has planted 220 acres to corn, and 200 acres to soybeans in the experiment. Besides the rented Matthews land he owns 260 acres land west of Oran with his father, L. E. Silverthorn.

Death Voids Contract For Personal Services

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Because of Harry's glib tongue, George hired him, under a 2-year contract, as his advertising agent. While Harry was able to talk anybody into or out of almost anything, he was unable to convince the Grim Reaper to bypass him in favor of someone else of more consequence and died shortly after signing the contract with George.

Taking over Harry's affairs, the administrator of Harry's estate proceeded to carry on Harry's business. And, when George refused to do business with him, the administrator sued George for breach of contract.

"When a person dies," the administrator was quick to point out, "his administrator has the right to carry out and continue the contracts of the deceased person."

"Contract or no contract," was George's answer, "I made a deal with Harry and nobody else. While Harry had a mind like a flashing rapier, his administrator is probably a clod and I don't have to do business with him."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit George to walk away from his contract with Harry?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a contract for professional services is generally terminated when the person supplying those services dies.

In this case, George signed a contract only because he had confidence in Harry. Therefore, he does not have to accept someone else as a substitute for Harry.

WILL GAIN IN MISSOURI

Columbia, Missouri, July 14, 1967 - "The Right To Work movement in Missouri will gain momentum, as a result of a recent nationwide poll in which union members completely repudiated the AFL-CIO hierarchy's demand for congressional repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act." So stated Gene Mittelberg, Executive Secretary of the Missourians For Right To Work organization, as he was discussing widespread press reports of a secret poll sponsored by the AFL-CIO.

(Right To Work laws now in effect in 19 states prohibit the practice of compelling workers to pay union dues under threat of discharge. Section 14(b) authorizes the states to legislate against forced unionism. A long range grassroots campaign for a Right To Work law for Missouri has recently been launched.)

"The poll's findings reportedly disclose that the rank and file membership disagrees with top union officials on the issue of compulsory union membership and many other legislative questions. According to press reports, the survey indicates that the leaders are out of touch with the rank and file member, and have been flagrantly guilty of misrepresenting the sentiments of the dues paying membership. At present there is no indication that the federation's leaders are prepared to represent the true will of the rank and file."

"The passage of a Right To Work Law in Missouri will return control of the unions to the dues paying members."

"HANDPICKED" FOR VALUE

"Handpicked" is a special grade applied to dry beans of fine quality for consumer use.

While not widely used, this "Handpicked" designation can sometimes be found on the consumer-sized packages of dried beans in food stores. And when shoppers do see this mark, they will have found a fine quality product.

USDA Choice Handpicked dry beans are the finest quality you can buy. To rate this grade, the beans must be better than 98 percent free from defects, as determined by quality experts with the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Other "Handpicked" ratings for which rigid standards must be met are: U. S. No. 1, U. S. No. 2 and U. S. No. 3. These must be respectively 98, 96 and 94 percent free from defects (such as weather damage).

There are, of course, similarly numbered quality grades for this budgetwise item but without the added "Handpicked" designation.

Look for the USDA quality grades -- in a shield - shaped mark -- on the packages of dried beans available in local food stores. It can help you to get the best value in Navy beans, pinto beans and red kidney beans which are particularly plentiful this summer.

SENATE PASSES AGRICULTURE FUNDS

This last week, the Senate approved a $6,782,529,789 appropriation for 1968 agricultural programs.

Because of the severe floods which have destroyed hundreds of thousands of acres of Missouri croplands, the increase in the Federal Insurance Corporation appropriation recommendation will be of particular interest in our state. The Senate bill would provide $13,133,000 for the Corporation, which is $341,000 more than last year's appropriation.

Missouri farmers participating in the crop insurance program in 1966 received 91 cents for every dollar in premiums paid into the program -- or $553,938 -- to reimburse crop losses. About 15,000 farmers in 61 Missouri counties participate in the program with $10,500,000 of crop insurance now in force.

Moreover, since crop insurance programs were begun in 1939, Missouri farmers have received $18,913,000 for losses on various crops, and of that, $5,010,000 was paid for crops destroyed by floods.

The Senate - passed bill also would increase by six percent the amount available to Missouri schools participating in the School Lunch Program. Funds for 1968 would be $3,847,000 for Missouri. The total Senate appropriation for the School Lunch program is $190,825,020. or $22,220,000 over last year's budget.

The Senate bill recommended an increase of $2,011,948,839 more than the House bill.

A decision by the Senate to pay back out of this year's budget the capital losses suffered last year by the Commodity Credit Corporation accounts for the major difference between the House and Senate on total appropriations.

The CCC last year sustained a loss of $2,984,856,389 in the conduct of regular price support, export, supply and related farm programs. The Senate voted to reimburse the CCC in full for its losses, which resulted in an appropriation of $1,584,856,389 more than was provided by the House.

In this decision, the Senate reflected findings of its Committees that annual appropriations to pay back the CCC do not in any way affect the cost of this program, but do provide Congress and the public a more nearly accurate account of the cost of the farm program.

TRUTH-IN-LEND APPROVED

After seven years of studying alternative proposals, the Senate last week unanimously approved the Truth in Lending bill to require disclosure of credit charges so a consumer can decide whether the charge is reasonable and shop effectively for the best "credit buy."

The bill does not regulate the credit industry or place ceilings on credit charges. It does require disclosure of financial charges in dollars and cents and in annual percentage rates for most consumer credit transactions.

As of March, 1967, the American consumer owed $92.5 billion in short and intermediate debts. Of this, $73.6 billion was in installment credit accounts held by financial institutions and retail outlets, and $18.9 billion involved single payment loans, charge accounts and service credits.

Under the Truth in Lending bill, if the amount of the financial charge is $10 or more, then prior to the extension of the credit, the buyer must be told the annual percentage rate or the dollars per hundred per year rate for installment purchases and on open credit accounts that resemble installment credit.

Specifically exempted from the bill are credit transactions involving extensions of credit for business or commercial purposes; transactions involving extensions of credit for business or commercial purposes; transactions in securities in accounts by a broker - dealer registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission; transactions, other than with the real estate, where the total amount to be financed exceeds $25,000; and transactions involving extensions of credit secured by first mortgages on real estate.

A civil remedy of not less than $100, or more than $1,000, from the creditor, and a criminal penalty of $500 and / or one year in prison are provided to enforce violations of the measure. The bill now awaits action by the House.

ROBERT RIMMER'S "REBELLION" IN PAPERBACK

On June 20th, Avon Books released the first paperback edition of Robert Rimmer's controversial novel, "The Rebellion of Yale Marratt." Called "sensational" and "shocking" by reviewers of the hardcover edition, "Rebellion" explores the subject of plural marriage. The book opens with defendant Yale Marratt on trial for bigamy, and it flashes back to trace the genesis of Yale's rebellion through college, graduate school, a trip to the Far East, and back to a small Connectcitu town. By this time, Yale has acquired two wives, Anne and Cynthia, and all three live happily together under one roof" until the trial.

Reactions to the Challenge Press hardcover publication were varied and extreme, making the author one of the most controversial writers in America. He as condemned by editorial writers and outraged citizens protesting what they considered to be Robert Rimmer's rebellion against traditional American moral codes. Mr. Rimmer made headlines when he participated in a serious U.C.L.A. panel discussion, advocating legalized plural marriage as a possible solution to the high divorce rate. A group of irate college students in Boston, his own home town, protested his views by burning the book and hanging the author in effigy with a scarlet letter "A" on the dummy's chest.

Granted, the Boston book burning was less sensational than that city's famous tea party, but campus controversy over Rimmer continues -- currently over his bestselling paperback novel, "The Harrad Experiment." (The Rebellion of Yale Marratt; Avon #N149; 95¢; 528 pp.)

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Aug. 3, the 215th day of 1967. There are 150 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1492, Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain — on a voyage that resulted in the discovery of America.

On this date:

In 1914, Germany declared war on France and Belgium.

In 1923, Vice President Calvin Coolidge took the presidential oath of office at Plymouth, after the death of President Warren G. Harding.

In 1958, the atomic-powered U.S. submarine Nautilus made the first underwater crossing of the North Pole.

Ten years ago — A Tory reform leader in Britain, Lord Altrincham, was sharply critical of Queen Elizabeth and the other members of the Royal family.

Five years ago — Algerian Vice Premier Mohammed Ben Bella received an enthusiastic reception in Algiers after winning a month-long dispute over the leadership of that North African nation.

No Progress Reported in Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) - No progress is reported in a presidential board's two-week-old efforts to resolve a shopcraft dispute that shut down the nation's railroads last month for two days.

"Not a comma has shifted so far," an informed source said Wednesday of the stances held for months by the railroads and six unions representing 137,000 workers.

Under a law passed by Congress July 17 to end the two-day walkout, the presidential board was given 30 days to bring about a negotiated settlement.

If it fails in that period, the board, headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., must hold hearings over another 30-day period. If no agreement is reached during that period -- or in the next 30 days -- both sides in the dispute must accept the board's recommendations.

The unions still are demanding wage hikes of 6.5 per cent this year and 5 per cent next year, plus a 12.5 - cent hourly hike each year for skilled workers. The railroads are sticking to their offer of 6 per cent over the life of an 18-month contract plus a 5-cent hike for skilled workers.

The unions involved represent machinists, electricians, boilermakers, sheet metal workers, carmen and firemen and oilers.

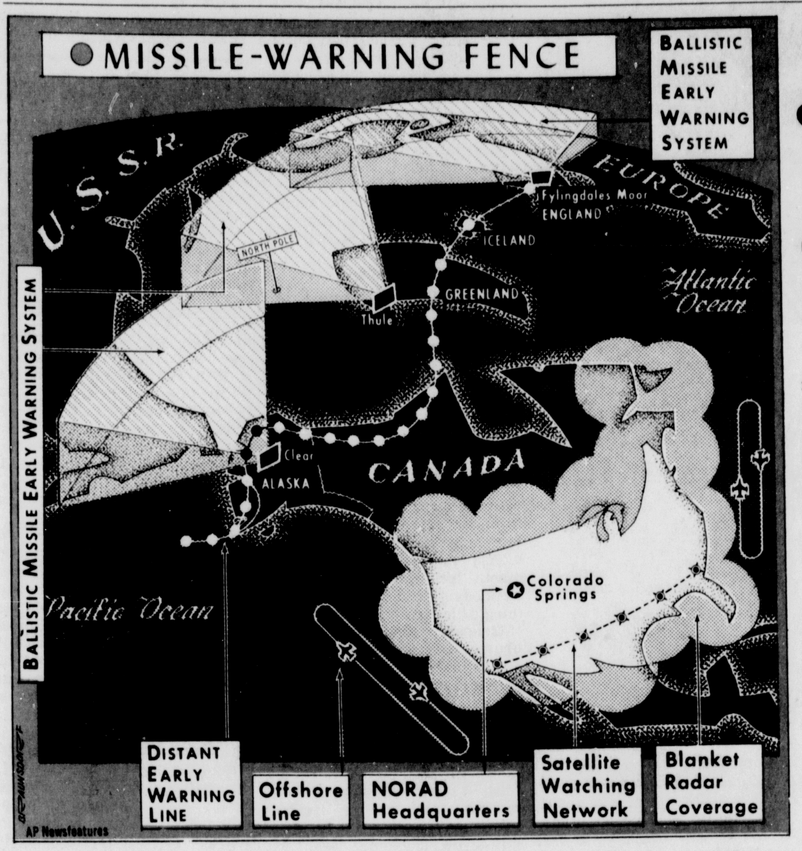
Johnson Asks 10 Per Cent Surtax



BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

America's first line of defense against a sneak attack by ballistic missiles exists in its electronic fence, but since the Red Chinese detonated a hydrogen bomb, vigorous voices have insisted the fence isn't high enough. The cry is for the anti-ballistic missile.

An anti-ballistic missile is one which can be fired by our side to intercept and destroy missiles already launched toward us by an enemy. The cost of an ABM system would run into billions, and thus far the Johnson administration is resisting it.

But pressure is rising in Congressional circles for the United States to build such a system. The argument is that the Soviet Union is already building one, and the day may not be far off when Red China could have one. That, so the argument goes, might leave the United States at the mercy of the Communists. They could destroy our missiles but we couldn't destroy theirs.

What the United States has at present, besides its missiles, is a highly sophisticated electronic warning system to tell when the other fellow's missiles are heading this way. The network, covering all approaches to North America, is tied together into the combat operations center of the North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo. This center is the middle of a mountain, thus shielded from missile blasts.

The warning net includes three high-powered radar antennas of the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System. These reach out 3,000 miles to provide an alert of an intercontinental ballistic missile attack.

NORAD turns to the Distant Early Warning Line for any alert against approach of manned bombers. This line extends across the top of the continent. It works in conjunction with a system of radars which protect the populated areas of both Canada and the United States. Early warning aircraft operating over the Atlantic and Pacific extend radar coverage far out to sea. Other aircraft bolster ground-based radars. And the U.S. Naval Space Surveillance System stretches across the southern part of the United States. It detects and tracks satellites and reports data on earth-orbiting space objects to NORAD's Space Defense Center.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff and some Congressmen want the green light now for an anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara is at present opposed. Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) has called for a commission to study the need for an ABM system before getting committed to a program that could cost billions.

An "area defense" ABM deployment against possible Chinese attack, for example, is figured at about $5 billion. It would be composed of Spartan interceptor missiles, short-range Spring missiles and sophisticated radar.

The Navy is separately pushing SABMIS, which stands for Seaborne Anti-ballistic Missile Intercept System. It envisions using ships standing off Russian and Chinese launching sites armed with anti-missile missiles. It says ship-borne ABMs could catch an enemy missile before it had time to break into a shotgun scatter of real and make-believe hydrogen bombs.

Park Grant Made

A grant of $10,350 to Sikeston for the acquisition of about two acres of land for Central Park was made today, Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long announced in Washington, D.C.

The funds are channeled from the department of interior.

Central park is at Prairie and Edmondson. The present area of the park is two acres. It is the newest public park in Sikeston. Playground equipment including swing sets, seesaws and a sliding board were installed this spring through the efforts of the Junior Woman's Club, and the city park board. Development of the park was taken on as a two-year project by the Junior Woman's Club, and the city as a two-year project.

Two tennis courts are in the southwest corner of the park. They were built by the city.

Police Report

Two Accidents

Two motor vehicle accidents Wednesday resulted in careless and imprudent driving charges filed against two motorists.

Maxine Young, 605 South Frisco, was issued a summons after the car she was driving collided at 2:15 p.m. Wednesday at Malone and Prairie with an automobile driven by Jeanette Evans, 219 South Scott, police reported. No injuries resulted.

At 5:10 p.m. Wednesday a car driven by Carolyn S. Wright, 811 East Gladys, collided at Malone and Kingshighway with a car driven by Louise Mullendorf, 323 Helen, police reported. Louise Mullendorf was charged with careless and imprudent driving, police said.

In other activity, Michael Bruce Evans, 17, Cape Girardeau, was charged today with driving while intoxicated, possession of intoxicants and curfew violation.

Roy W. Moore, 836 East Gladys, was charged twice with careless and imprudent driving Tuesday.

A vandalism report was filed with the police Wednesday. A window on the west side of the fellowship room of the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church, 723 Allen Blvd., was broken, police reported.

Police Dogs Of A Sort Arrive Here

An unconventional breed of police dog was introduced to Sikeston six weeks ago.

Nor is a trace of German Shepherd to be found in a black poodle named Caesar, owned by Bob Summers, 412 Clayton. Summer is the Scott county juvenile officer.

Yet, when two dogs owned by police representatives get together, shouldn't their offsprings be police dogs - of - a -sort?

It seems Caesar became intimate with Fluffy some time back, and Fluffy gave birth to seven puppies six weeks ago.

Four of the puppies bear a strong resemblance to Caesar, but three are beginning to look like a neighborhood Beagle.

Fluffy was kept penned during most of her period of weakness, but got loose one night.

Charleston Police Chief Injured

CHARLESTON -- Police Chief Guthrie Hunter, 65, is in critical condition in the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston, following an automobile accident last night at 11:30 p.m., near the approach of the Mississippi river bridge at Cairo.

Blinded by the lights of an approaching car traveling east, the 1963 Buick, driven by Hunter, left the road near the Bird's Point curve, went down a steep embankment, rolled over and landed on its top.

An unidentified motorist, who saw the Buick's car lights shining, called Highway Patrolman Bennie Rapert, who took the injured man to the hospital. Hunter was returning from Cairo.

Hunter, who has been police chief 11 years, lived alone. His wife died several years ago.

Surtax Request Sends Stock Market Down

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market slumped in heavy trading today after President Johnson recommended a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes.

At 1 p.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials had fallen 7.74 points to 914.53. A half-hour earlier it had been off more than 9 points.

Brokers said the proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge was bigger than many on Wall Street had expected.

GM Puts Proposal On Table

DETROIT (AP)— In the first proposal it has laid on the bargaining table, General Motors Corp. today called upon the United Auto Workers Union for cooperation in bringing to a halt what the company termed "flagrant abuses of the no-strike clause by some local unions."

GM also said the 18 cents hourly which has been added to pay by the cost-of-living escalator since 1964 must be included in figuring the cost of any new wage package.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has said the union will allow no tampering with the escalator embodied in current contracts, which expire Sept. 6.

GM also called upon the international union to help eliminate "unjustifiable loading of the grievance procedure" and "the practice of blanketing the shop with production standard grievances at the outset of a new model start-up."

GM said, "The no-strike of the national agreement has become an instrument in the hands of certain local unions to harass management, to subvert the true welfare of the majority of employes and to render inoperative and ineffective sound procedures" set by the contract.

The corporation said means are available to peacefully settle problems without interrupting operations.

A wildcat strike on a local issue at an important parts plant in Mansfield, Ohio, crippled GM production for more than two weeks earlier this year, idling more than 190,000 GM workers throughout the nation.

U.S. Combat Casualties Dip Lowest in 6 Months

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. combat casualties in the Vietnam war dropped to their lowest level in six months last week with 114 Americans killed, 893 wounded and five missing, the U.S. Command announced today.

The command said 164 were killed and 1,442 wounded the week before.

But the sharpest decline last week was in the number of South Vietnamese troops reported killed in action— 76 compared with 183 the week before.

The number of Communists killed dropped to 1,399, the lowest since the week that ended June 10, the U.S. Command said. But U.S. headquarters said the kill ratio of 6.8 to 1 for the allies last week was the highest this year and possibly one of the highest of the war.

The low casualty figures reflected another relative lull in the ground war and did not include the casualties in the disastrous fire aboard the carrier Forrestal Saturday.

A U.S. spokesman explained that it was not known yet whether these would be classified as combat or operational casualties since the fire and explosions began with an accident as the carrier was preparing to launch strikes against North Vietnam.

The Forrestal casualties increased to 131 dead today with the death of two injured men. Three are missing and 62 others were injured.

The U.S. Command announced three new operations of battalion size but reported significant contact in only one of them.

U.S. pilots flew 161 missions against North Vietnam Wednesday, their biggest day since July 13, when 170 missions were flown, and a Viet Cong bombardment wounded 27 Americans— nine of them seriously— and set some fuel stores on fire at the U.S. Navy base and petroleum storage area at Nha Be, 10 miles southeast of Saigon.

Communist guerrillas also ambushed a U.S. Marine minesweeping unit on a dirt road 21 miles west of Da Nang Wednesday, killing 15 Leathernecks and wounding one. A U. S. spokesman said two Communists were known killed.

Viet Cong mortar and 82mm shells and 40mm antitank rockets rained down for 20 minutes on the Nha Be fuel dump and the base from which the Navy directs river boats in attacks against guerrillas.

Mortar fire hit a stack of 55-gallon gasoline drums at the Shell Oil Co. fuel farm and about 5,000 of the drums went up in flames, but the shells missed the 40-foot storage tanks that dot the area.

A Navy spokesman said an F100 Super Sabre jet fighter-bomber "flamed out" and crashed. Other U. S. and South Vietnamese planes and helicopters attacking the Viet Cong gunners came under heavy fire.

The spokesman said damage was light to waterfront buildings, piers and river patrol boats and minesweepers which pulled away from the piers quickly. About 30 patrol boats and more than 10 minesweepers operate from the base on the Long Tao River, the main shipping channel to Saigon.

In aerial attacks on North Vietnam Wednesday, Navy pilots reported destroying or damaging two surface-to-air missile — SAM— sites, eight antiaircraft sites, a missile and its transporter, eight barges, two storage areas, 11 trucks and 23 cargo craft around Haiphong.

Air Force Phantom jet pilots reported good hits on a SAM site near Dong Hoi in North Vietnam's southern panhandle. They said their missiles ignited a Communist missile which shot 3,000 feet into the air, then dropped to earth.

The carrier force in the Gulf of Tonkin returned to its normal strength of three flattops as the Constellation joined the Intrepid and the Oriskany on Yankee Station. The force had been reduced to two carriers for several days this week by the fire on the Forrestal and withdrawal of the Bon Homme Richard for normal leave.

Request Tied to High War Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed today a 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporation income taxes because of the high cost of the war in Vietnam, and said he is authorizing an increase of 45,000 troops for Vietnam.

The additional troops would raise the commitment in Vietnam to 506,000 men.

Johnson said the extra taxes, which would produce $6.3 billion extra revenue in fiscal 1968, should become effective on corporations retroactive to July 1 and on individual incomes next Oct. 1.

Johnson said the proposed tax increases would expire June 30, 1969 "or continue for so long as the unusual expenditures associated with our efforts in Vietnam require higher revenues."

"I have concluded, after considering the recommendations of Secretary McNamara, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Gen. Westmoreland that I should authorize an increase of at least 45,000 in the number of men to be sent to Vietnam this year," Johnson said.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander in Vietnam, had been reported as making a proposal for that increase in his forces during the recent visit to Vietnam by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

"This nation has taken a solemn pledge— that its sons and brothers engaged in the conflict there shall never lack all the help, all the arms, and all the equipment essential for their mission and for their very lives," Johnson said.

"America must— and will— honor that pledge. It is for this reason that expenditures for Vietnam— subject as they are to the variable demands of military operations— may now exceed our earlier estimates."

Johnson said original budget estimates for 1968 have been hiked $4 billion for defense and $2.5 billion for civilian programs.

That would bring expected spending to $79.5 billion for the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission and $62 billion for civilian programs.

Johnson also said he has asked McNamara "to conduct a searching review of all defense expenditures and to withhold all such expenditures that are not now essential for national security."

Johnson also recommended a speed-up in corporate tax collections.

"Beginning Jan. 1, 1968, corporations would pay their estimated taxes on the basis of 80 per cent of their liability, rather than 70 per cent," Johnson said.

"Over a five-year period, small corporations, as well as large, would become current in their tax payments in the same way as individual proprietors already are," he said.

He said such accelerated collections would yield $800 million additional revenue in fiscal 1968 and "somewhat more in subsequent years."

Johnson also recommended "continuation of excise taxes for the immediate future."

The seven per cent manufacturers excise tax on autos is now scheduled to drop to two per cent April 1, 1968, and one per cent Jan. 1, 1969.

"The drop to two per cent should be postponed to July 1, 1969, and the drop to one per cent should be postponed to Jan. 1, 1970," Johnson's message said.

He said the presently scheduled reduction in the 10 per cent excise tax on telephone service to one per cent on April 1, 1968, should be postponed to July 1, 1969. The elimination date of the telephone tax, now scheduled Jan. 1, 1969, should be postponed until Jan. 1, 1970, he advised.

Johnson said the surcharge on individual incomes would mean that "a family of four with income of $10,000, now ordinarily paying a tax of $1,100, will pay at most an added tax of $9.25 a month."

He said the three out of four American families with less than $10,000 annual income will pay a lesser increase.

"Extending these excise taxes would provide additional revenues of $300 million for fiscal 1968 and more than $2 billion for fiscal 1969," Johnson said.

Johnson said the proposed 10 per cent surcharges on corporation and individual incomes would yield $6.3 billion in revenues for fiscal 1968 and some more in 1969.

"The 16 million taxpayers in the lowest income brackets would be completely exempt from the surcharge," Johnson said. "For example, a married couple with two children, with an income of less than $5,000 a year, would pay no surcharge."

"The nation now faces these hard and inescapable facts for 1968" Johnson said and gave this listing:

— "Expenditures are likely to be between January budget figures of $135 billion and $143.5 billion— as much as $8.5 billion higher— depending upon the determination and ability of the Congress and the executive to control expenditures."

--"Revenues are now estimated from $7 billion lower than in January, even with a six per cent tax surcharge."

— "These changes in the January budget estimates would result in a deficit of $23.6 billion."

— "Without a tax increase and tight expenditure control, the deficit could exceed $28 billion. And that does not include an estimated $700 million higher cost of interest on the public debt that such a deficit would involve."

--"A deficit of that size poses a clear and present danger to America's security and economic health."

Study Of City Begins

Harland Bartholomew & Associates, a St. Louis consulting firm, has begun its comprehensive planning study of the city, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today.

Jack Alston, principal planner for the firm, briefed Miller in a meeting Wednesday on the methods and scope of the project.

Currently, the firm is conducting the existing land use phase of the study, Miller said.

The study is to be completed in 12 months and costs $8,300.

The results of the existing land use study will be co-ordinated with a previously completed transportation study and an economic base study to establish a projected land use need by 1990, Miller said.

The consulting firm has prepared questionaires for the economic base study, which have been given the Chamber of Commerce.

The questionaire for industrial concerns here will be mailed next week, Richard Pinkerton, chamber manager, said today.

Information will be sought about the adequacy of present transportation facilities, availability of utilities, reasonableness of local taxes, laws and living conditions of employes.

Another questionaire will be mailed to Sikeston retail merchants sometime after the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, Pinkerton said.

A meeting with representatives of the consulting firm and city officials has been set at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 12 at the city administration building.

Other phases of the comprehensive planning study to be carried out later include, preparation of base maps, population studies, central business district studies, establishing goals and objectives, transportation plan, central business district plan. Regulatory measures also will be recommended for the plan implementation.

Gas War Ends in City

Major brand gasoline dealers in Sikeston increased their prices for regular and premium gas today, bringing a four-week gas war to a close.

The majors are now charging 32.9 cents per gallon for regular gasoline, and 36.9 cents per gallon for premium.

Independents increased their prices Wednesday. The independents are selling regular for 30.9 cents per gallon and premium for 33.9 cents per gallon.

The war started when three independent dealers undercut the price of other independents. It was the first price war here in 20 years.

Before the price war, major brand dealers were selling regular for 33.9 and premium for 37.9. Most independents had been selling regular for 29.9 and premium for 33.9.

SBC President Resigns

BOLIVAR, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Robert E. Craig resigned Wednesday as president of Southwest Baptist College to accept a similar post at Union University, Jackson, Tenn.

Dr. Craig came here in 1916 after serving as dean at California Baptist College at Riverside. Since that time enrollment has increased from 400 to an expected student body of 1,200 next fall and it became a four-year college, graduating its first senior class a year ago.

$51,101 Collected by City During July

A total of $51,101.33 was collected during July by the city, Ronald Lee, collector, reported.

The amount is more than twice the $25,540.94 collected last July.

A heavy amount of merchant license sales, plus adjustments on franchise payments account for the difference.

No current real estate or personal property taxes were collected. They become due Oct. 1. Mailing of bills will begin in mid-September.

Back real estate taxes collected totaled $1,079.41. The delinquent payments were: 1964, $3.41; 1965, $52.64, and 1966, $1,023.36.

The total amount of license collections made in July was $19,069.75. Dog licenses brought in $9 and $620 was collected for liquor licenses.

Merchants licenses, which became due July 1, accounted for $18,440.75. About 381 merchant licenses were sold. A total of 628 businesses are required to have such licenses; 247 merchants still must purchase a license.

Miscellaneous collections totaled $30,844.51. The one-year franchise for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. accounted for $16,500. The telephone company payment represents a $5,000 increase over their payment of $11,500 last year.

The telephone company payment is based on five per cent of the total gross receipts for local service. Phone rates were increased July 21.

Missouri Utilities Co. paid $5,912.45 for a six-month franchise payment.

Associated Natural Gas made a monthly franchise payment of $1,198.31, plus an adjustment for March through June of $7,189.88.

Interest charged on the miscellaneous collections totaled $40.57 and other costs came to $3.30.

Cape Boy Killed In Auto Crash

GILLETTE, Wyo. (AP) -- A Cape Girardeau, Mo., boy and a Casper, Wyo., man were killed Wednesday in a head-on collision at a turnoff to a park and fishing lake on state highway 59 about a mile and a half south of Gillette.

The victims were identified as James Gamble, 43, of Casper, the driver of one car, and Keith Grebing, 5, of Cape Girardeau.

Jim Wilkins, 43, also of Casper, and the parents and four brothers and sisters of the Grebing youngster were hospitalized at Gillette.

Hospital authorities said Wilkins, Edward Grebing and his wife Dorothy, both 40, and their daughter Martha, 14, and son Terry, 11, all were in satisfactory condition.

The Grebing's daughter, Cathy, 8, and son James, 15, were held at the hospital for observation.

The Highway Patrol said a car turned into the lake area in front of the vehicle driven by Gamble. The patrol said the Gamble vehicle went into a skid and slid broadside into the front of the Grebing car.

Three Treated For Arm, Leg Injuries

Three were treated for arm and leg injuries in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital:

4-H Members To Tour City

NEW MADRID - New Madrid County 4-H members and leaders will visit Sikeston Tuesday for a swim at the city pool and a tour.

The group will meet at 10:30 a.m. on the parking lot of the IGA Super Market and go from there, to the swimming pool for a swim from 11:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Everyone on the tour will bring a sack lunch. Cold drinks and ice cream will be furnished.

At 2 p.m. a tour will be taken of the Malone and Hyde Wholesale Grocery plant.

Navy Studies Reporting of Disaster Victims

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Navy Plans a self-examination of how it informs the public about who is involved and who isn't in such military disasters as the USS Forrestal fire.

Specifically, the Navy will look at its performance in publicly identifying the men who died, were injured or missing after flames swept the 4,300-man carrier off North Vietnam Saturday.

Sources said an admiral is being assigned to head up the investigation. It took the Navy four days to get out a reasonably complete list of the Forrestal victims.

While families of the more than 100 casualties were notified much sooner, the relatives of the more than 4,000 other men aboard the carrier had no way of knowing the fate of those crewmen.

This posed the question of whether the Navy has a responsibility, in cases where so many men are involved, of letting all relatives know more quickly about the crew's fate.

Some officers think this could be done by providing news media with the list of known casualties even as efforts continue toward reaching their relatives.

By a process of elimination, survivors' relatives could determine from these lists whether their men were involved -- therefore being spared long hours or days of anguish.

This approach, however, runs the risk that some next-of-kin will hear of family deaths before the government has contacted them.

Pentagon policy is to avoid such situations as that of a mother learning from a news broadcast or newspaper her son has been killed.

Sources said the Navy's probe will touch on this general problem, study the Forrestal situation specifically and perhaps make recommendations on handling information about future tragedies.

The Navy casualty branch, headed by a civilian, notified nearest relatives of the dead, missing or seriously wounded men on the Forrestal. The casualty office did not compile a casualty list, but individual names were released a relatives were reached.

"It might seem cruel at first, but I wonder if we don't have just as big a responsibility in letting the survivors' relatives know as quickly as possible about exactly which men have been hurt or killed," one harassed officer asked.

Congo-Algeria Complicity Claimed in Tshombe Case

LONDON (AP) - A British newsman, newly returned from Algeria and The Congo, claims Moise Tschombe's kidnapping was planned by the Congo government and carried out with the knowledge of President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria.

On a television news program British Broadcasting Corp. correspondent Keith Kyle said Wednesday night that investigations in Algiers left him "in no doubt whatsoever that the operation was planned by the Congo government and executed with the foreknowledge of President Boumedienne."

He claimed the delay in Tshombe's extradition to the Congo— where he is under a death sentence— was caused by a breakdown in secrecy over the abduction and a changed atmosphere brought about by the Arab-Israeli war.

Kyle said the Algerians are now determined to exact a high price for handing over the former Congo premier.

The terms, Kyle told an interviewer, were tailored to create a breach between Mobutu and his most reliable allies - the United States and Israel.

Man Indicted for Spear Gun Death

GREENVILLE (AP) - Wayne County Magistrate Elmo Barrow ordered a St. Louis area man held Wednesday without bond to face trial for the death of his wife.

Donald C. Hollingsworth, 40, of Pine Lawn - a suburb of St. Louis - was charged with first-degree murder in the July 23 death of his 43-year-old wife, Lorene.

Mrs. Hollingsworth was fatally wounded by a skindiver's underwater spear gun. Her husband told authorities the spear gun, being carried in the family car, penetrated his wife's neck as the couple was driving on a bumpy road near Patterson.

The woman was free on bond pending her appeal from federal prison terms imposed on conviction for passing counterfiet money in St. Louis.

Relatives testified Hollingsworth had threatened his wife.

East Prairie Soldier Missing

EAST PRAIRIE -- Pfc Charles Dwight Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, Second St., stationed with the army at Ft. Knox, Ky., has been missing since July 20.

Jones was hitch-hiking back to Ft. Knox after being home on a three-day pass. He was last seen at 3:30 p.m., July 20, near the state police station in Cairo, between the Mississippi river and Ohio River bridge.

He wore a green summer army uniform, and had in his possession black slacks and black knit sweater.

Anyone having any information about him may contact the Browns at Niagara 9-3842 or Mrs. Charles England at NI 9-2786.

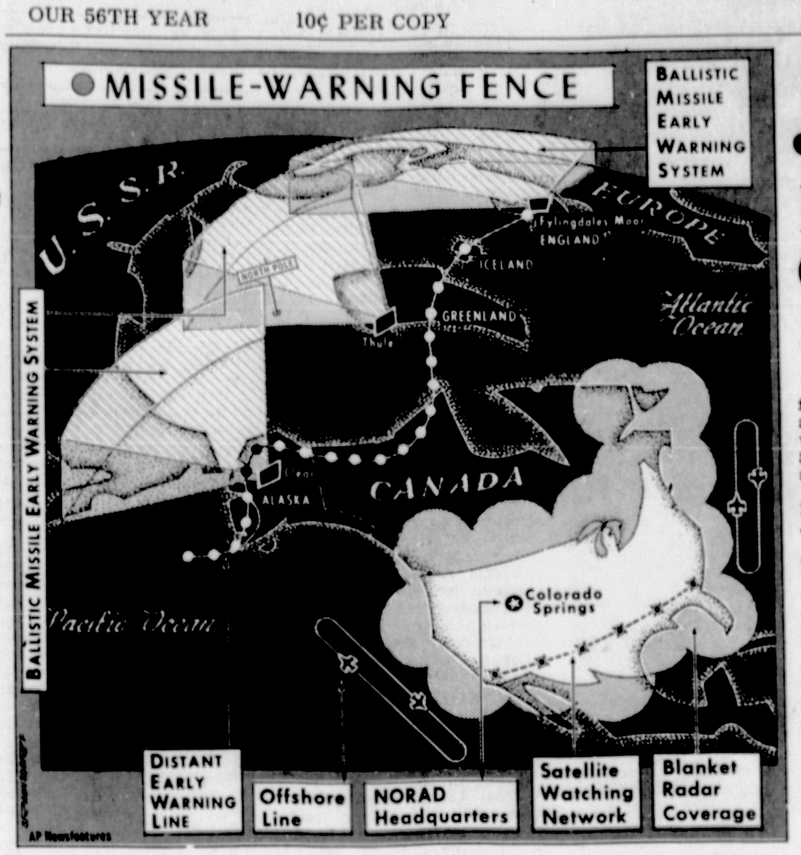
Johnson Asks 10 Per Cent Surtax



BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

America's first line of defense against a sneak attack by ballistic missiles exists in its electronic fence, but since the Red Chinese detonated a hydrogen bomb, vigorous voices have insisted the fence isn't high enough. The cry is for the anti-ballistic missile.

An anti-ballistic missile is one which can be fired by our side to intercept and destroy missiles already launched toward us by an enemy. The cost of an ABM system would run into billions, and thus far the Johnson administration is resisting it.

But pressure is rising in Congressional circles for the United States to build such a system. The argument is that the Soviet Union is already building one, and the day may not be far off when Red China could have one. That, so the argument goes, might leave the United States at the mercy of the Communists. They could destroy our missiles but we couldn't destroy theirs.

What the United States has at present, besides its missiles, is a highly sophisticated electronic warning system to tell when the other fellow's missiles are heading this way. The network, covering all approaches to North America, is tied together into the combat operations center of the North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo. This center is the middle of a mountain, thus shielded from missile blasts.

The warning net includes three high-powered radar antennas of the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System. These reach out 3,000 miles to provide an alert of an intercontinental ballistic missile attack.

NORAD turns to the Distant Early Warning Line for any alert against approach of manned bombers. This line extends across the top of the continent. It works in conjunction with a system of radars which protect the populated areas of both Canada and the United States. Early warning aircraft operating over the Atlantic and Pacific extend radar coverage far out to sea. Other aircraft bolster ground-based radars. And the U.S. Naval Space Surveillance System stretches across the southern part of the United States. It detects and tracks satellites and reports data on earth-orbiting space objects to NORAD's Space Defense Center.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff and some Congressmen want the green light now for an anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara is at present opposed. Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) has called for a commission to study the need for an ABM system before getting committed to a program that could cost billions.

An "area defense" ABM deployment against possible Chinese attack, for example, is figured at about $5 billion. It would be composed of Spartan interceptor missiles, short-range Spring missiles and sophisticated radar.

The Navy is separately pushing SABMIS, which stands for Seaborne Anti-ballistic Missile Intercept System. It envisions using ships standing off Russian and Chinese launching sites armed with anti-missile missiles. It says ship-borne ABMs could catch an enemy missile before it had time to break into a shotgun scatter of real and make-believe hydrogen bombs.

Park Grant Made

A grant of $10,350 to Sikeston for the acquisition of about two acres of land for Central Park was made today, Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long announced in Washington, D.C.

The funds are channeled from the department of interior.

Central park is at Prairie and Edmondson. The present area of the park is two acres. It is the newest public park in Sikeston. Playground equipment including swing sets, seesaws and a sliding board were installed this spring through the efforts of the Junior Woman's Club, and the city park board. Development of the park was taken on as a two-year project by the Junior Woman's Club, and the city as a two-year project.

Two tennis courts are in the southwest corner of the park. They were built by the city.

Police Report

Two Accidents

Two motor vehicle accidents Wednesday resulted in careless and imprudent driving charges filed against two motorists.

Maxine Young, 605 South Frisco, was issued a summons after the car she was driving collided at 2:15 p.m. Wednesday at Malone and Prairie with an automobile driven by Jeanette Evans, 219 South Scott, police reported. No injuries resulted.

At 5:10 p.m. Wednesday a car driven by Carolyn S. Wright, 811 East Gladys, collided at Malone and Kingshighway with a car driven by Louise Mullendorf, 323 Helen, police reported. Louise Mullendorf was charged with careless and imprudent driving, police said.

In other activity, Michael Bruce Evans, 17, Cape Girardeau, was charged today with driving while intoxicated, possession of intoxicants and curfew violation.

A vandalism report was filed with the police Wednesday. A window on the west side of the fellowship room of the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church, 723 Allen Blvd., was broken, police reported.

Charleston Police Chief Injured

CHARLESTON -- Police Chief Guthrie Hunter, 65, is in critical condition in the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston, following an automobile accident last night at 11:30 p.m., near the approach of the Mississippi river bridge at Cairo.

Blinded by the lights of an approaching car traveling east, the 1963 Buick, driven by Hunter, left the road near the Bird's Point curve, went down a steep embankment, rolled over and landed on its top.

An unidentified motorist, who saw the Buick's car lights shining, called Highway Patrolman Bennie Rapert, who took the injured man to the hospital. Hunter was returning from Cairo.

Hunter, who has been police chief 11 years, lived alone. His wife died several years ago.

Surtax Request Sends Stock Market Down

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market slumped in heavy trading today after President Johnson recommended a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes.

At 1 p.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials had fallen 7.74 points to 914.53. A half hour earlier it had been off more than 9 points.

Brokers said the proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge was bigger than many on Wall Street had expected.

GM Puts Proposal On Table

DETROIT (AP)— In the first proposal it has laid on the bargaining table, General Motors Corp. today called upon the United Auto Workers Union for cooperation in bringing to a halt what the company termed "flagrant abuses of the no-strike clause by some local unions."

GM also said the 18 cents hourly which has been added to pay by the cost-of-living escalator since 1964 must be included in figuring the cost of any new wage package.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has said the union will allow no tampering with the escalator embodied in current contracts, which expire Sept. 6.

GM also called upon the international union to help eliminate "unjustifiable loading of the grievance procedure" and "the practice of blanketing the shop with production standard grievances at the outset of a new model start-up."

GM said, "The no-strike of the national agreement has become an instrument in the hands of certain local unions to harass management, to subvert the true welfare of the majority of employes and to render inoperative and ineffective sound procedures" set by the contract.

The corporation said means are available to peacefully settle problems without interrupting operations.

A wildcat strike on a local issue at an important parts plant in Mansfield, Ohio, crippled GM production for more than two weeks earlier this year, idling more than 190,000 GM workers throughout the nation.

Request Tied to High War Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed today a 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporation income taxes because of the high cost of the war in Vietnam, and said he is authorizing an increase of 45,000 troops for Vietnam.

The additional troops would raise the commitment in Vietnam to 506,000 men.

Johnson said the extra taxes, which would produce $6.3 billion extra revenue in fiscal 1968, should become effective on corporations retroactive to July 1 and on individual incomes next Oct. 1.

Johnson said the proposed tax increases would expire June 30, 1969 "or continue for so long as the unusual expenditures associated with our efforts in Vietnam require higher revenues."

"I have concluded, after considering the recommendations of Secretary McNamara, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Gen. Westmoreland that I should authorize an increase of at least 45,000 in the number of men to be sent to Vietnam this year," Johnson said.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander in Vietnam, had been reported as making a proposal for that increase in his forces during the recent visit to Vietnam by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

"This nation has taken a solemn pledge— that its sons and brothers engaged in the conflict there shall never lack all the help, all the arms, and all the equipment essential for their mission and for their very lives," Johnson said.

"America must— and will— honor that pledge. It is for this reason that expenditures for Vietnam— subject as they are to the variable demands of military operations— may now exceed our earlier estimates."

Johnson said original budget estimates for 1968 have been hiked $4 billion for defense and $2.5 billion for civilian programs.

That would bring expected spending to $79.5 billion for the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission and $62 billion for civilian programs.

Johnson also said he has asked McNamara "to conduct a searching review of all defense expenditures and to withhold all such expenditures that are not now essential for national security."

Johnson also recommended a speed-up in corporate tax collections.

"Beginning Jan. 1, 1968, corporations would pay their estimated taxes on the basis of 80 per cent of their liability, rather than 70 per cent," Johnson said.

"Over a five-year period, small corporations, as well as large, would become current in their tax payments in the same way as individual proprietors already are," he said.

He said such accelerated collections would yield $800 million additional revenue in fiscal 1968 and "somewhat more in subsequent years."

The seven per cent manufacturers excise tax on autos is now scheduled to drop to two per cent April 1, 1968, and one per cent Jan. 1, 1969.

"The drop to two per cent should be postponed to July 1, 1969, and the drop to one per cent should be postponed to Jan. 1, 1970," Johnson's message said.

He said the presently scheduled reduction in the 10 per cent excise tax on telephone service to one per cent on April 1, 1968, should be postponed to July 1, 1969. The elimination date of the telephone tax, now scheduled Jan. 1, 1969, should be postponed until Jan. 1, 1970, he advised.

Johnson said the surcharge on individual incomes would mean that "a family of four with income of $10,000, now ordinarily paying a tax of $1,100, will pay at most an added tax of $9.25 a month."

He said the three out of four American families with less than $10,000 annual income will pay a lesser increase.

"Extending these excise taxes would provide additional revenues of $300 million for fiscal 1968 and more than $2 billion for fiscal 1969," Johnson said.

Johnson said the proposed 10 per cent surcharges on corporation and individual incomes would yield $6.3 billion in revenues for fiscal 1968 and some more in 1969.

"The 16 million taxpayers in the lowest income brackets would be completely exempt from the surcharge," Johnson said. "For example, a married couple with two children, with an income of less than $5,000 a year, would pay no surcharge."

"The nation now faces these hard and inescapable facts for 1968" Johnson said and gave this listing:

— "Expenditures are likely to be between January budget figures of $135 billion and $143.5 billion— as much as $8.5 billion higher— depending upon the determination and ability of the Congress and the executive to control expenditures."

— "Revenues are now estimated from $7 billion lower than in January, even with a six per cent tax surcharge."

— "These changes in the January budget estimates would result in a deficit of $23.6 billion."

— "Without a tax increase and tight expenditure control, the deficit could exceed $28 billion. And that does not include an estimated $700 million higher cost of interest on the public debt that such a deficit would involve."

— "A deficit of that size poses a clear and present danger to America's security and economic health."

Study Of City Begins

Harland Bartholomew & Associates, a St. Louis consulting firm, has begun its comprehensive planning study of the city, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today.

Jack Alston, principal planner for the firm, briefed Miller in a meeting Wednesday on the methods and scope of the project.

Currently, the firm is conducting the existing land use phase of the study, Miller said.

The study is to be completed in 12 months and costs $8,300.

The results of the existing land use study will be co-ordinated with a previously completed transportation study and an economic base study to establish a projected land use need by 1990, Miller said.

The consulting firm has prepared questionaires for the economic base study, which have been given the Chamber of Commerce.

The questionaire for industrial concerns here will be mailed next week, Richard Pinkerton, chamber manager, said today.

Information will be sought about the adequacy of present transportation facilities, availability of utilities, reasonableness of local taxes, laws and living conditions of employes.

Another questionaire will be mailed to Sikeston retail merchants sometime after the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, Pinkerton said.

A meeting with representatives of the consulting firm and city officials has been set at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 12 at the city administration building.

Other phases of the comprehensive planning study to be carried out later include, preparation of base maps, population studies, central business district studies, establishing goals and objectives, transportation plan, central business district plan. Regulatory measures also will be recommended for the plan implementation.

U.S. Combat Casualties Dip Lowest in 6 Months

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. combat casualties in the Vietnam war dropped to their lowest level in six months last week with 114 Americans killed, 893 wounded and five missing, the U.S. Command announced today.

The command said 164 were killed and 1,442 wounded the week before.

But the sharpest decline last week was in the number of South Vietnamese troops reported killed in action— 76 compared with 183 the week before.

The number of Communists killed dropped to 1,399, the lowest since the week that ended June 10, the U.S. Command said. But U.S. headquarters said the kill ratio of 6.8 to 1 for the allies last week was the highest this year and possibly one of the highest of the war.

The low casualty figures reflected another relative lull in the ground war and did not include the casualties in the disastrous fire aboard the carrier Forrestal Saturday.

A U.S. spokesman explained that it was not known yet whether these would be classified as combat or operational casualties since the fire and explosions began with an accident as the carrier was preparing to launch strikes against North Vietnam.

The Forrestal casualties increased to 131 dead today with the death of two injured men. Three are missing and 62 others were injured.

U.S. pilots flew 161 missions against North Vietnam Wednesday, their biggest day since July 13, when 170 missions were flown, and a Viet Cong bombardment wounded 27 Americans— nine of them seriously— and set some fuel stores on fire at the U.S. Navy base and petroleum storage area at Nha Be, 10 miles southeast of Saigon.

Communist guerrillas also ambushed a U.S. Marine minesweeping unit on a dirt road 21 miles west of Da Nang Wednesday, killing 15 Leathernecks and wounding one. A U. S. spokesman said two Communists were known killed.

Viet Cong mortar and 82mm shells and 40mm antitank rockets rained down for 20 minutes on the Nha Be fuel dump and the base from which the Navy directs river boats in attacks against guerrillas.

Mortar fire hit a stack of 55-gallon gasoline drums at the Shell Oil Co. fuel farm and about 5,000 of the drums went up in flames, but the shells missed the 40-foot storage tanks that dot the area.

A Navy spokesman said an F100 Super Sabre jet fighter-bomber "flamed out" and crashed, Other U. S. and South Vietnamese planes and helicopters attacking the Viet Cong gunners came under heavy fire.

The spokesman said damage was light to waterfront buildings, piers and river patrol boats and minesweepers which pulled away from the piers quickly. About 30 patrol boats and more than 10 minesweepers operate from the base on the Long Tao River, the main shipping channel to Saigon.

In aerial attacks on North Vietnam Wednesday, Navy pilots reported destroying or damaging two surface-to-air missile — SAM— sites, eight antiaircraft sites, a missile and its transporter, eight barges, two storage areas, 11 trucks and 23 cargo craft around Haiphong.

Air Force Phantom jet pilots reported good hits on a SAM site near Dong Hoi in North Vietnam's southern panhandle. They said their missiles ignited a Communist missile which shot 3,000 feet into the air, then dropped to earth.

The carrier force in the Gulf of Tonkin returned to its normal strength of three flattops as the Constellation joined the Intrepid and the Oriskany on Yankee Station. The force had been reduced to two carriers for several days this week by the fire on the Forrestal and withdrawal of the Bon Homme Richard for normal leave.

Police Dogs Of A Sort Arrive Here

An unconventional breed of police dog was introduced to Sikeston six weeks ago.

Yet, when two dogs owned by police representatives get together, shouldn't their offsprings be police dogs - of - a -sort?

It seems Caesar became intimate with Fluffy some time back, and Fluffy gave birth to seven puppies six weeks ago.

Four of the puppies bear a strong resemblance to Caesar, but three are beginning to look like a neighborhood Beagle.

Fluffy was kept penned during most of her period of weakness, but got loose one night.

Gas War Ends in City

Major brand gasoline dealers in Sikeston increased their prices for regular and premium gas today, bringing a four-week gas war to a close.

The majors are now charging 32.9 cents per gallon for regular gasoline, and 36.9 cents per gallon for premium.

Independents increased their prices Wednesday. The independents are selling regular for 30.9 cents per gallon and premium for 33.9 cents per gallon.

The war started when three independent dealers undercut the price of other independents. It was the first price war here in 20 years.

Before the price war, major brand dealers were selling regular for 33.9 and premium for 37.9. Most independents had been selling regular for 29.9 and premium for 33.9.

SBC President Resigns

BOLIVAR, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Robert E. Craig resigned Wednesday as president of Southwest Baptist College to accept a similar post at Union University, Jackson, Tenn.

Dr. Craig came here in 1918 after serving as dean at California Baptist College at Riverside. Since that time enrollment has increased from 400 to an expected student body of 1,200 next fall and it became a four-year college, graduating its first senior class a year ago.

$51,101 Collected by City During July

A total of $51,101.33 was collected during July by the city, Ronald Lee, collector, reported.

The amount is more than twice the $25,540.94 collected last July.

A heavy amount of merchant license sales, plus adjustments on franchise payments account for the difference.

No current real estate or personal property taxes were collected. They become due Oct. 1. Mailing of bills will begin in mid-September.

Back real estate taxes collected totaled $1,079.41. The delinquent payments were: 1964, $3.41; 1965, $52.64, and 1966, $1,023.36.

The total amount of license collections made in July was $19,069.75. Dog licenses brought in $9 and $620 was collected for liquor licenses.

Merchants licenses, which became due July 1, accounted for $18,440.75. About 381 merchant licenses were sold. A total of 628 businesses are required to have such licenses; 247 merchants still must purchase a license.

Miscellaneous collections totaled $30,844.51. The one-year franchise for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. accounted for $16,500. The telephone company payment represents a $5,000 increase over their payment of $11,500 last year.

The telephone company payment is based on five per cent of the total gross receipts for local service. Phone rates were increased July 21.

Missouri Utilities Co. paid $5,912.45 for a six-month franchise payment.

Interest charged on the miscellaneous collections totaled $40.57 and other costs came to $3.30.

Cape Boy Killed In Auto Crash

GILLETTE, Wyo. (AP) -- A Cape Girardeau, Mo., boy and a Casper, Wyo., man were killed Wednesday in a head-on collision at a turnoff to a park and fishing lake on state highway 59 about a mile and a half south of Gillette.

The victims were identified as James Gamble, 43, of Casper, the driver of one car, and Keith Grebing, 5, of Cape Girardeau.

Jim Wilkins, 43, also of Casper, and the parents and four brothers and sisters of the Grebing youngster were hospitalized at Gillette.

Hospital authorities said Wilkins, Edward Grebing and his wife Dorothy, both 40, and their daughter Martha, 14, and son Terry, 11, all were in satisfactory condition.

The Grebing's daughter, Cathy, 8, and son James, 15, were held at the hospital for observation.

The Highway Patrol said a car turned into the lake area in front of the vehicle driven by Gamble. The patrol said the Gamble vehicle went into a skid and slid broadside into the front of the Grebing car.

Three Treated For Arm, Leg Injuries

Three were treated for arm and leg injuries in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital;

Bertha Mae Garrett, Charleston, cut leg with hoe; Vince Atchley, Lilbourn, fell off gas tank and injured arm; Kelly L. Brown, injured arm in fall.

Everyone on the tour will bring a sack lunch. Cold drinks and ice cream will be furnished.

At 2 p.m. a tour will be taken of the Malone and Hyde Wholesale Grocery plant.

Congo-Algeria Complicity Claimed in Tshombe Case

LONDON (AP) - A British newsman, newly returned from Algeria and The Congo, claims Moise Tschombe's kidnapping was planned by the Congo government and carried out with the knowledge of President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria.

On a television news program British Broadcasting Corp. correspondent Keith Kyle said Wednesday night that investigations in Algiers left him "in no doubt whatsoever that the operation was planned by the Congo government and executed with the foreknowledge of President Boumedienne."

He claimed the delay in Tshombe's extradition to the Congo— where he is under a death sentence— was caused by a breakdown in secrecy over the abduction and a changed atmosphere brought about by the Arab-Israeli war.

Kyle said the Algerians are now determined to exact a high price for handing over the former Congo premier.

The terms, Kyle told an interviewer, were tailored to create a breach between Mobutu and his most reliable allies - the United States and Israel.

Man Indicted for Spear Gun Death

GREENVILLE (AP) - Wayne County Magistrate Elmo Barrow ordered a St. Louis area man held Wednesday without bond to face trial for the death of his wife.

Donald C. Hollingsworth, 40, of Pine Lawn - a suburb of St. Louis - was charged with first-degree murder in the July 23 death of his 43-year-old wife, Lorene.

Mrs. Hollingsworth was fatally wounded by a skindiver's underwater spear gun. Her husband told authorities the spear gun, being carried in the family car, penetrated his wife's neck as the couple was driving on a bumpy road near Patterson.

The woman was free on bond pending her appeal from federal prison terms imposed on conviction for passing counterfiet money in St. Louis.

Relatives testified Hollingsworth had threatened his wife.

Judge Brown Levies Fines

CHARLESTON - Judge T. J. Brown Jr. heard these cases in magistrate court.

Kendall Mungle - charged with common assault, fined $10 and $12.50 costs.

Freddie Lee Powell - charged with having no operators permit, careless and reckless driving, fined a total of $10 and sentenced to six months in jail, paid fine and $12 costs. Jail sentence paroled.

Earl Nolen - charged with disturbing peace, fined $10 and $15.50 costs.

Ruby Allen - charged with having no operators license, fined $5 and $11 costs.

East Prairie Soldier Missing

EAST PRAIRIE -- Pfc Charles Dwight Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, Second St., stationed with the army at Ft. Knox, Ky., has been missing since July 20.

Jones was hitch-hiking back to Ft. Knox after being home on a three-day pass. He was last seen at 3:30 p.m., July 20, near the state police station in Cairo, between the Mississippi river and Ohio River bridge.

He wore a green summer army uniform, and had in his possession black slacks and black knit sweater.

Anyone having any information about him may contact the Browns at Niagara 9-3842 or Mrs. Charles England at NI 9-2786.

Navy Studies Reporting of Disaster Victims

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Navy Plans a self-examination of how it informs the public about who is involved and who isn't in such military disasters as the USS Forrestal fire.

Specifically, the Navy will look at its performance in publicly identifying the men who died, were injured or missing after flames swept the 4,300-man carrier off North Vietnam Saturday.

Sources said an admiral is being assigned to head up the investigation. It took the Navy four days to get out a reasonably complete list of the Forrestal victims.

While families of the more than 100 casualties were notified much sooner, the relatives of the more than 4,000 other men aboard the carrier had no way of knowing the fate of those crewmen.

This posed the question of whether the Navy has a responsibility, in cases where so many men are involved, of letting all relatives know more quickly about the crew's fate.

Some officers think this could be done by providing news media with the list of known casualties even as efforts continue toward reaching their relatives.

By a process of elimination, survivors' relatives could determine from these lists whether their men were involved -- therefore being spared long hours or days of anguish.

This approach, however, runs the risk that some next-of-kin will hear of family deaths before the government has contacted them.

Pentagon policy is to avoid such situations as that of a mother learning from a news broadcast or newspaper her son has been killed.

Sources said the Navy's probe will touch on this general problem, study the Forrestal situation specifically and perhaps make recommendations on handling information about future tragedies.

The Navy casualty branch, headed by a civilian, notified nearest relatives of the dead, missing or seriously wounded men on the Forrestal. The casualty office did not compile a casualty list, but individual names were released a relatives were reached.

"It might seem cruel at first, but I wonder if we don't have just as big a responsibility in letting the survivors' relatives know as quickly as possible about exactly which men have been hurt or killed," one harassed officer asked.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Several thoughts come to mind as the country experiences insurrection in the streets of the cities.

There are too many of them to be spontaneous. Maybe not all of them are planned. A mob atmosphere is contagious but surely Communists and other radicals have played a part in the destruction.

The first order of business is to restore law and order. Then if it appears that our civilization can be maintained improvement in the lot of the ghetto inhabitants is worthy of an effort share by all Americans. No American should be rewarded for killing, maiming, burning and destroying. This is an illegal form of protest which must be punished. The maintenance of our society is the first order of business.

Riots probably have been incited by them but the complaint is directed at the wrong source.

The public should have recourse through law enforcement not through censorship of television. Surely there are enough laws already on the books to punish a person for inciting a riot, making treasonous utterances or urging people to violate the law.

Politicians are to blame for the failure to enforce the law.

Public officials who don't do their duty or play politics with human suffering should be tossed out of office at the first opportunity.

For example there is blood on the hands of President Lyndon B. Johnson, Governor Romney of Michigan and Mayor Cavanaugh of Detroit for the failure to take prompt action to end the rioting in the Motor City.

If each of these public officials had told police, National Guardsmen and federal troops soon enough to do what was necessary to end the rioting lives would have been saved and property damage minimized.

All had their eyes on the Negro vote in the next election and conveniently neglected their duty to the general public - even to the ghetto dwellers themselves. So the ghettos have more missery - not less.

The United States Senate should lose no time in passing the House approved bill to make it a federal crime to cross state lines to start a riot. It would be fine if local authorities could or would check the criminals in the streets of our cities but the evidence of their unwillingness or inability to do this is compelling and widespread.

There is no logical choice but to ask the federal government to take on another chore of what has historically been considered a local function, obligation and responsibility.

It's difficult to see how any gun control law could be effective if every hunter is permitted to carry a firearm.

Destructive weapons are easy to acquire.

How can knives and gasoline be banned for example?

OTHER SIDE OF COIN

In a speech the other day on the Senate floor, Missouri's junior U.S. Senator, Edward V. Long, tried to explain away his strange silence regarding his close association with a St. Louis criminal attorney and the charges that he has attempted to aid the efforts of Teamster President Jimmy Hoffa to stay out of prison.

The Senator's explanation, which probably has reached the eyes of few Missourians, is that he has not disclosed the names of his mutual Morris Shenker law clients because those who sought his legal services did not do so to get their names in the newspapers.

This, believe it or not, is the substance of Senator Long's defense.

It is charitable to say this is almost no defense at all.

In the first place, the Senator is avoiding the basic question: Why is he practicing law and why is he sharing fees with a St. Louis criminal attorney?

Secondly, while we can understand the reluctance of the Bowling Green lawmaker to disclose the names of his clients, at least without their permission, this in no way precludes his giving these names at an executive, or secret, meeting of the Senate Ethics Committee.

Senator Long has already been called by the committee, with more sessions in the offing, and it would have presented no violation of any rules to submit a list of his clients to his Senate peers who would be bound to keep them confidential.

This act would have served to clear at least a part of the mystery surrounding the strange disclosure that our junior Senator received $48,000 in legal fees from the Shenker law firm in a two-year period and the disclosure that he is still on the receiving end of fees from the St. Louis criminal law firm.

Senator Long claims he received these fees from the Shenker firm for legal services rendered. Supposedly these were not all the fees he received for his valuable, high-priced legal services. Supposedly he has received fees from clients as well as other lawyers. In such case, the Senator is running a highly-profitable law firm. It is indeed, much more profitable than any Missouri law firm we ever heard of, particularly in the amount of fees received for services from other law firms.

Any full-time practising lawyer in Missouri would be delighted to receive $24,000 a year for his services; more than 90 per cent make much, much less.

If Senator Long does not want to disclose the names of his clients because, as he explains, they didn't retain him to get their names in the newspapers, perhaps he might like to consider the other side of the coin.

Namely, Missourians didn't elect Ed Long to the U.S. Senate so that he could improve his law practice. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

GOLD

Perhaps because he has never acted like the gold was his, the American taxpayer was another $50 million poorer in gold as of late November. The New York Federal Reserve Bank said the $50 million gold outflow occurred in one week, and that the drop was the first since July. That was good news, but only slightly, because the U.S. gold stock has dropped $1,669,000,000 since January, the largest yearly outflow since 1960. The 1964 loss was a piddling $125,000,000. Uncle Sugar loses his gold because he pays out (mostly in give-aways) more than he sells abroad; a most interesting phenomenon because he sells more than he buys. All these loose dollars are gobbled up by foreign banks who were told that since Uncle wants his dollars to be sound as gold, they should convert them whenever they want to. This is otherwise known as Curiouser Keynesian Economics which says government can always spend more than it makes. The vital statistics of the gold outflow: This year, France converted $630,000,000 into U.S. gold; the U.S. stock stands at $13,937,000,000; the gold reserve ratio (gold to Federal Reserve currency outstanding) has dropped from 36.6% to around 36%. And how much will your insurance policies be worth in 15 years?

AGRIBUSINESS TOP NEW U.S. INDUSTRY

In a recent speech before the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts in Cincinnati, Ohio, Daniel W. Cannon, policy executive of the National Association of Manufacturers, discussed the realities of agribusiness.

In defining the term agribusiness Mr. Cannon explained that "it embraces the farmranch operation together with all the input industries and all the output industries." He further stated, "Modern successful agriculture requires capital investments, management and application of labor and raw materials, and a sense of timing at every step of the way, just as any business does."

Mr. Cannon continued, "Viewed in its totality, agribusiness in the United States assumed the awesome proportions of the largest industry in an economy whose Gross National Product is heading towards one trillion dollars per year."

"All segments of agribusiness will have to work together more than ever before not only to serve Mrs. U.S.A. with high quality, high nutrition, convenience food products but also to help humanity in some other parts of the world to help itself," he added.

He concluded that the NAM Food and Fiber Program Group feels that the world food problem will not be solved until this type of industrial structure finds its way into the food-deficit countries throughout the world.

NOTED AND PASSED

Dim Bulbs: A Congressional committee has announced that electric light bulbs made by American companies don't last long enough. That is, they burn out too soon, creating a "nuisance and a hazard" to consumers. Now we know what really has been happening at the White House. LBJ wasn't trying to save electricity; he just couldn't keep up with his bulb-changing, what with needing one person to hold the bulb and two to turn the ladder.

Taxing Collectors: In every State with a sales tax, merchants automatically serve as tax collectors. The same is true, of course, of employers who collect income and social security taxes for the government from their employees. Now the State of Virginia, when it started a sales tax recently, came up with a neat way to gain some additional revenue. Every person whose business is such that he must add sales tax on charges to his customers must pay five dollars for the privilege of sending the money thus collected to the state treasurer. The five bucks is for an account number.

Maybe if we just charge tax collectors a license fee, we can eliminate the taxes?

The No Bell Peace Prize: Since the Nobel Committee couldn't decide on anyone to receive their Peace prize, we propose a new award, which we would call the "No-Bell" prize, in order that prize aspirants won't become discouraged. And as the first recipient, we nominate Senator Aiken, of Vermont, for his proposal that we can end the war in Vietnam by simply declaring that we have won it and thereupon retreating into enclaves along the beaches of South Viet-Nam. Now here is a formula for solution to all kinds of problems. Worried about the balance of payments? Just declare it in balance. The Berlin wall? Call it urban renewal, or maybe highway beautification. A riot, in Oakland? Call it a Mardi Gras!

You Can't Win Department: In response to a "shoppers' strike" demanding lower prices, a California grocer reduced the price of milk to 18¢ a quart - - and promptly was found to be in violation of the State's "fair trade" laws, which forbid any retailer to sell an item below cost.

When business men greet each other, the third, if not the first, question they asked is, 'How's business?' Some men keep in touch with the general trend by asking this question at every opportunity.

At one time I doubted that the state of prosperity of my neighborhood grocer or my paper merchant or my tailor or my barber had any relation to the multi - billion - dollar turnover throughout the United States.

My tailor might consider business excellent if ten of his customers each ordered two suits of clothes in a single week. I argued that my tailor might enjoy a rush of orders at a time when general prosperity was at low ebb. Just a few hundred dollars more or less in the monthly billing makes a good or bad month for him. How could his business possibly reflect anything of importance?

Strangely enough, however, the prosperity curve of practically all business enterprises, from the steel corporation to the bootblack stand, seems to dip and rise with the curve of general business.

When the unfilled orders on the books of the big corporations make a poor showing, a dozen or two dozen of my barber's customers decide to let their hair grow one more week, and when they get around to his shop and he says 'Shampoo?' they mumbled, 'No just a haircut today.'

CAPITALISM ENCOURAGES CHANGE

The American system of capitalism, based on personal initiative, gains strength from resourceful change. But totalitarianism, of which communism is the prime example, refuses to tolerate any authentic change.

In the social order called capitalism the individual has the inherent right to own property and capital and the right to pass it on to his children and others. Under this system the individual is free to own property, free to work for himself and his family, free not to work for the government, and free to choose his employer, his job or his vocation. These liberties are not possible under communism.

John Locke, in the 17th century, named three primary natural rights: "Life, liberty and property." If the individual's livelihood is entirely dependent on the state, as under communism, he is automatically denied these natural rights. That is why only under capitalism can a man be free and be master of his own fate -- and have the right to work for improvements, meaning change, in the system itself.

In addition to total material power, the communism dictatorship uses idealogy, indoctrination and propaganda in order to enslave the people. There is no greater power than that of a government which owns and controls everything. But in the case of capitalism, with ownership in the hands of individuals, such government tyranny is impossible.

Capitalism can flourish only in the air of freedom. High productivity and superior standards of living are the result of freedom. The success of the United States as a capitalist society is the fruit of the incentive of a free people. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - - It isn't being announced but director Leonard Marks of the U.S. Information Agency has developed a neat transistor radio to be parachuted behind the lines in Vietnam.

It will be packed in a padded cellophane box costing about five cents, which will resist the shock when the transistors are dropped from an airplane. The radio itself costs about $3, and is built so it can tune in on only one radio frequency -- that of "The Voice of Freedom," operated by South Vietnam and the USIA.

Behind the plan to drop these radio sets is the fact that North Vietnam operates a controlled system whereby all radio sets are tuned in on communist government channels. No radio sets used by the Viet Cong or the North Vietnamese can be tuned in on a South Vietnam station. The communists don't trust their people to listen in on anything except communist airwaves.

Marks has been working to increase the number of Viet Cong defectors, with remarkable success. In the last year defectors totaled 20,000. In the first six months of 1967 they totaled 18,000. They come through the lines bearing passes dropped from the air, guaranteeing them safe conduct. These are called "welcome passes." Defectors then go on the radio to tell former Viet Cong comrades that they have been well treated, fed, permitted to go back to their villages.

However, due to the North Vietnamese airwave monopoly, it's been difficult to get these messages across. Hence, Mark's ingenious idea of dropping transistor radios. They are labeled in the local language "gift of the free world. Listen to the voice of freedom."

The words "Tat Mai" on the set mean "off," while the words "Mo Mai" mean "on."

LBJ, incidentally, is relying more and more on the U.S. information agency, not only in Vietnam but in the Near East.

INSANITARY MEAT

Big city race riots have been a break for the big meat packers. The riots have focused attention away from the hearings on a new meat inspection bill, now terminating before a House Agriculture sub-committee. Most important part of these sessions begins this week, behind closed doors, when the committee decides on the final form of a bill to protect the housewife from insanitary, intrastate meat.

Since these final meetings will be held in secret, here are some important facts which housewives should know.

- The Meat Institute, Independent Meat Packers Association and The Western States Meat Packers - are trying to head off a strong intrastate inspection bill by accepting the administration bill. They have heard from the consumer.

The administration bill, however, is nothing to throw your hat in the air over. It merely provides federal funds to the states if they strengthen their own inspection laws. But there is no requirement for states to pass inspection laws at all or to strengthen what they've already got.

2. The big meat packers - Swift, Armour, Wilson - are not in favor or strong legislation. While most of their business has been interstate, and their meat therefore federally inspected, some have been expanding into intrastate slaughterhouses.

Processing and selling meat inside state boundaries has now become big business, because cheaper, uninspected meat gives the seller a competitive advantage over inspected meat. It can be dyed, seasoned and doctored with antibiotics to look, smell, and taste like good meat.

REPORT ON LOUISIANA PLANT

One of the big packers, Swift, has been unhappy about revealing how much intrastate meat it is selling as against interstate meat. This is understandable, in view of the following report from a Department of Agriculture inspector regarding a Swift intrastate plant in New Orleans:

"Equipment, such as metal barrels, was rusty - the boning boards were old and caked with fat and meat juices. The old boards had minute splinters, caused from continuous use, that resembled fuzz. This is a source of contamination and an excellent media for bacteria growth which under certain circumstances may cause food poisoning."

Though this report was made in 1962, Agriculture Department inspectors say conditions have not changed since then.

3. Key Congresswoman - Rep. Catherine May, Republican of Yakima, Wash., could swing a lot of Republican votes for the housewife if she wanted to. She's a good congresswoman, but seems to be leaning toward the big meat packers. Cattlemen are powerful in her district.

4. Key Bureaucrat - The official inside the Department of Agriculture who sides with the meat packers is Byron Allen, who when living in Iowa and Minnesota was close to the State Department of Agriculture. He leans toward intrastate inspection by these state departments.

The man pushing hardest for an airtight new meat inspection law is Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa. He is now getting 100 per cent support from Rep. Tom Foley, Democrat of Spokane, Wash.

A final bill will be whipped into shape behind closed doors this week.

Inside Labor

ACCENTUATING THE POSITIVE

Rioters' Flames Hide the 'Power Structure's' Efforts To Succor the Un-trained, Semi-literate Poor.

Chicago: --Learn, baby, learn, man, is hotter than burn, baby, burn. That's the advice being given to thousands of young Negores -- and their white neighbors in a hundred ghettos -- by honest men now deep in the very power structure which the firebrands are eager to tear down.

But it is far more than advice these men are giving. They're spending their money, their time, their talents and the not always abundant excess energies of harassed middle-aged corporate and labor executives.

And they did not wait for the fires to turn on the heat. Their story is being lost in the crackle of yesterday's flames. That's a pity, for right now -- deep in the heart of the goliath steel industry -- business executives and labor leaders are "tooling up" a pilot project which could take tens of thousands of undereducated and unskilled adults off the streets and put them into the pipeline for secure and well-paying jobs.

At this moment in the Chicago-Gary and Baltimore steel complex, local leaders of the United Steelworkers of America and management men from seven major steel corporations are running "employe clinics." They're seeking 1,600 undereducated workers so they can be sent to classes in September right in the big plants themselves. The pilot project seeks both the men who need rudimentary reeducation and those whose literacy is on a slightly higher level. In the end, these men, while working, will have gone through 150 hours of upper level grade school and high school courses at the rate of six hours a week. They will study just before or just after the shift. The much abused "power structure" corporations will pay the bill.

If this succeeds in such plants as Bethlehem's Sparrow's Point and Armco's mill over in East Baltimore, and down the line here at Inland, National Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and U.S. Steel, the operation will flow coast to coast throughout this behemoth industry.

From there, the projects will be moved into the auto, rubber and other mass production fields.

The objective is to upgrade the skills and education of the employes so they can tear themselves loose from the laborer category on the bottom.

But most vital, once the bottom is unclogged, the industry would be justified in going into the community and getting at the hard core -- those swept up in the emotional and charred maelstrom of the big city streets. As the trainees are promoted, the new cadres will be moved into an industry where labor earns about four dollars an hour and has job security.

But those who scream above the roar of falling buildings, bowling sirens and breaking of heavy glass, can't expect instant millenniums. Those who scream all the way down from Baltimore to Washington in the caravans of CORE's "Steel and Shipyard Workers Committee" may well discourage and dislocate the pilot project. It takes time to learn the difference between a coke oven and a blast furnace.

The pilot project may not suit the young lions in the streets but if it works it will give hundreds of thousands of unskilled and uneducated workers a chance to "get with it." This is a four - way effort. It sprang from the 1965 collective bargaining negotiations (which wound up in the White House). Virtually unnoticed and unreported was a final contract clause on training of manpower.

The steel industry's coordinating group, speaking for ten major firms, agreed to set up a study committee. On it were the union's president, I. W. Abel; its special counsel, Elliot Bredhoff; Bill Caples of Inland Steel, and H. C. "Lefty" Lumb of Republic. They could commit the entire industry.

They conferred with government officials and soon, in May 1967, they had $1 million of federal funds. Thus Willard Wirtz's Labor Dept., John Gardner's Health, Education and Welfare Dept., the union, the industry and the Midwest Board for Fundamental Education were rolling. The Board is one of the few with a Congressional charter such as that of the Red Cross.

It specializes in workers motivation, new methodology for educating adults and training of teachers. It will conduct the classes.

Of course, 1,600 men are only the beginning. If they move successfully through the study courses, the industry can be expected to move into the community, though it is not the responsibility of Big Steel. Educating the unskilled semi-literate proletariat is the public's task. But the much abused "power structure" is hardly what it is made out to be in the literature of what Lenin called the infantile left.

There's much riding on this pilot project. It could steer a course for all massive industries and unions.

But not if the rioters continue to burn the inner gut of America's great industrial cities, nor if these megalopolises exist as armed camps.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Several thoughts come to mind as the country experiences insurrection in the streets of the cities.

There are too many of them to be spontaneous. Maybe not all of them are planned. A mob atmosphere is contagious but surely Communists and other radicals have played a part in the destruction.

The first order of business is to restore law and order. Then if it appears that our civilization can be maintained improvement in the lot of the ghetto inhabitants is worthy of an effort share by all Americans. No American should be rewarded for killing, maiming, burning and destroying. This is an illegal form of protest which must be punished. The maintenance of our society is the first order of business.

Riots probably have been incited by them but the complaint is directed at the wrong source.

The public should have recourse through law enforcement not through censorship of television. Surely there are enough laws already on the books to punish a person for inciting a riot, making treasonous utterances or urging people to violate the law.

Politicians are to blame for the failure to enforce the law.

Public officials who don't do their duty or play politics with human suffering should be tossed out of office at the first opportunity.

For example there is blood on the hands of President Lyndon B. Johnson, Governor Romney of Michigan and Mayor Cavanaugh of Detroit for the failure to take prompt action to end the rioting in the Motor City.

If each of these public officials had told police, National Guardsmen and federal troops soon enough to do what was necessary to end the rioting lives would have been saved and property damage minimized.

All had their eyes on the Negro vote in the next election and conveniently neglected their duty to the general public - even to the ghetto dwellers themselves. So the ghettos have more missery - not less.

The United States Senate should lose no time in passing the House approved bill to make it a federal crime to cross state lines to start a riot. It would be fine if local authorities could or would check the criminals in the streets of our cities but the evidence of their unwillingness or inability to do this is compelling and widespread.

There is no logical choice but to ask the federal government to take on another chore of what has historically been considered a local function, obligation and responsibility.

It's difficult to see how any gun control law could be effective if every hunter is permitted to carry a firearm.

Destructive weapons are easy to acquire.

How can knives and gasoline be banned for example?

OTHER SIDE OF COIN

In a speech the other day on the Senate floor, Missouri's junior U.S. Senator, Edward V. Long, tried to explain away his strange silence regarding his close association with a St. Louis criminal attorney and the charges that he has attempted to aid the efforts of Teamster President Jimmy Hoffa to stay out of prison.

The Senator's explanation, which probably has reached the eyes of few Missourians, is that he has not disclosed the names of his mutual Morris Shenker law clients because those who sought his legal services did not do so to get their names in the newspapers.

This, believe it or not, is the substance of Senator Long's defense.

It is charitable to say this is almost no defense at all.

In the first place, the Senator is avoiding the basic question: Why is he practicing law and why is he sharing fees with a St. Louis criminal attorney?

Secondly, while we can understand the reluctance of the Bowling Green lawmaker to disclose the names of his clients, at least without their permission, this in no way precludes his giving these names at an executive, or secret, meeting of the Senate Ethics Committee.

Senator Long has already been called by the committee, with more sessions in the offing, and it would have presented no violation of any rules to submit a list of his clients to his Senate peers who would be bound to keep them confidential.

This act would have served to clear at least a part of the mystery surrounding the strange disclosure that our junior Senator received $48,000 in legal fees from the Shenker law firm in a two-year period and the disclosure that he is still on the receiving end of fees from the St. Louis criminal law firm.

Senator Long claims he received these fees from the Shenker firm for legal services rendered. Supposedly these were not all the fees he received for his valuable, high-priced legal services. Supposedly he has received fees from clients as well as other lawyers. In such case, the Senator is running a highly-profitable law firm. It is indeed, much more profitable than any Missouri law firm we ever heard of, particularly in the amount of fees received for services from other law firms.

Any full-time practising lawyer in Missouri would be delighted to receive $24,000 a year for his services; more than 90 per cent make much, much less.

If Senator Long does not want to disclose the names of his clients because, as he explains, they didn't retain him to get their names in the newspapers, perhaps he might like to consider the other side of the coin.

Namely, Missourians didn't elect Ed Long to the U.S. Senate so that he could improve his law practice. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

GOLD

Perhaps because he has never acted like the gold was his, the American taxpayer was another $50 million poorer in gold as of late November. The New York Federal Reserve Bank said the $50 million gold outflow occurred in one week, and that the drop was the first since July. That was good news, but only slightly, because the U.S. gold stock has dropped $1,669,000,000 since January, the largest yearly outflow since 1960. The 1964 loss was a piddling $125,000,000. Uncle Sugar loses his gold because he pays out (mostly in give-aways) more than he sells abroad; a most interesting phenomenon because he sells more than he buys. All these loose dollars are gobbled up by foreign banks who were told that since Uncle wants his dollars to be sound as gold, they should convert them whenever they want to. This is otherwise known as Curiouser Keynesian Economics which says government can always spend more than it makes. The vital statistics of the gold outflow: This year, France converted $630,000,000 into U.S. gold; the U.S. stock stands at $13,937,000,000; the gold reserve ratio (gold to Federal Reserve currency outstanding) has dropped from 36.6% to around 36%. And how much will your insurance policies be worth in 15 years?

The battle to develop better American cities is a confrontation between private enterprise and federal bureaucrats with fists full of tax dollars and reams of red tape. AGRIBUSINESS TOP NEW U.S. INDUSTRY

In a recent speech before the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts in Cincinnati, Ohio, Daniel W. Cannon, policy executive of the National Association of Manufacturers, discussed the realities of agribusiness.

In defining the term agribusiness Mr. Cannon explained that "it embraces the farmranch operation together with all the input industries and all the output industries." He further stated, "Modern successful agriculture requires capital investments, management and application of labor and raw materials, and a sense of timing at every step of the way, just as any business does."

Mr. Cannon continued, "Viewed in its totality, agribusiness in the United States assumed the awesome proportions of the largest industry in an economy whose Gross National Product is heading towards one trillion dollars per year."

"All segments of agribusiness will have to work together more closely than ever before only to serve Mrs. U.S.A. with high quality, high nutrition, convenience food products but also to help humanity in some other parts of the world to help itself," he added.

He concluded that the NAM Food and Fiber Program Group feels that the world food problem will not be solved until this type of industrial structure finds its way into the food-deficit countries throughout the world.

NOTED AND PASSED

Dim Bulbs: A Congressional committee has announced that electric light bulbs made by American companies don't last long enough. That is, they burn out too soon, creating a "nuisance and a hazard" to consumers. Now we know what really has been happening at the White House. LBJ wasn't trying to save electricity; he just couldn't keep up with his bulb-changing, what with needing one person to hold the bulb and two to turn the ladder.

Taxing Collectors: In every State with a sales tax, merchants automatically serve as tax collectors. The same is true, of course, of employers who collect income and social security taxes for the government from their employees. Now the State of Virginia, when it started a sales tax recently, came up with a neat way to gain some additional revenue. Every person whose business is such that he must add sales tax on charges to his customers must pay five dollars for the privilege of sending the money thus collected to the state treasurer. The five bucks is for an account number.

Maybe if we just charge tax collectors a license fee, we can eliminate the taxes?

The No Bell Peace Prize: Since the Nobel Committee couldn't decide on anyone to receive their Peace prize, we propose a new award, which we would call the "No-Bell" prize, in order that prize aspirants won't become discouraged. And as the first recipient, we nominate Senator Aiken, of Vermont, for his proposal that we can end the war in Vietnam by simply declaring that we have won it and thereupon retreating into enclaves along the beaches of South Viet-Nam. Now here is a formula for solution to all kinds of problems. Worried about the balance of payments? Just declare it in balance. The Berlin wall? Call it urban renewal, or maybe highway beautification. A riot, in Oakland? Call it a Mardi Gras!

You Can't Win Department: In response to a "shoppers' strike" demanding lower prices, a California grocer reduced the price of milk to 18¢ a quart - - and promptly was found to be in violation of the State's "fair trade" laws, which forbid any retailer to sell an item below cost.

When business men greet each other, the third, if not the first, question they asked is, 'How's business?' Some men keep in touch with the general trend by asking this question at every opportunity.

At one time I doubted that the state of prosperity of my neighborhood grocer or my paper merchant or my tailor or my barber had any relation to the multi - billion - dollar turnover throughout the United States.

My tailor might consider business excellent if ten of his customers each ordered two suits of clothes in a single week. I argued that my tailor might enjoy a rush of orders at a time when general prosperity was at low ebb. Just a few hundred dollars more or less in the monthly billing makes a good or bad month for him. How could his business possibly reflect anything of importance?

Strangely enough, however, the prosperity curve of practically all business enterprises, from the steel corporation to the bootblack stand, seems to dip and rise with the curve of general business.

When the unfilled orders on the books of the big corporations make a poor showing, a dozen or two dozen of my barber's customers decide to let their hair grow one more week, and when they get around to his shop and he says 'Shampoo?' they mumbled, 'No just a haircut today.'

CAPITALISM ENCOURAGES CHANGE

The American system of capitalism, based on personal initiative, gains strength from resourceful change. But totalitarianism, of which communism is the prime example, refuses to tolerate any authentic change.

In the social order called capitalism the individual has the inherent right to own property and capital and the right to pass it on to his children and others. Under this system the individual is free to own property, free to work for himself and his family, free not to work for the government, and free to choose his employer, his job or his vocation. These liberties are not possible under communism.

John Locke, in the 17th century, named three primary natural rights: "Life, liberty and property." If the individual's livelihood is entirely dependent on the state, as under communism, he is automatically denied these natural rights. That is why only under capitalism can a man be free and be master of his own fate -- and have the right to work for improvements, meaning change, in the system itself.

In addition to total material power, the communism dictatorship uses idealogy, indoctrination and propaganda in order to enslave the people. There is no greater power than that of a government which owns and controls everything. But in the case of capitalism, with ownership in the hands of individuals, such government tyranny is impossible.

Capitalism can flourish only in the air of freedom. High productivity and superior standards of living are the result of freedom. The success of the United States as a capitalist society is the fruit of the incentive of a free people. HLH.

Inside Labor

ACCENTUATING THE POSITIVE

Rioters' Flames Hide the 'Power Structure's' Efforts To Succor the Un-trained, Semi-literate Poor.

Chicago: --Learn, baby, learn, man, is hotter than burn, baby, burn. That's the advice being given to thousands of young Negores -- and their white neighbors in a hundred ghettos -- by honest men now deep in the very power structure which the firebrands are eager to tear down.

But it is far more than advice these men are giving. They're spending their money, their time, their talents and the not always abundant excess energies of harassed middle-aged corporate and labor executives.

And they did not wait for the fires to turn on the heat. Their story is being lost in the crackle of yesterday's flames. That's a pity, for right now -- deep in the heart of the goliath steel industry -- business executives and labor leaders are "tooling up" a pilot project which could take tens of thousands of undereducated and unskilled adults off the streets and put them into the pipeline for secure and well-paying jobs.

At this moment in the Chicago-Gary and Baltimore steel complex, local leaders of the United Steelworkers of America and management men from seven major steel corporations are running "employe clinics." Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - - It isn't being announced but director Leonard Marks of the U.S. Information Agency has developed a neat transistor radio to be parachuted behind the lines in Vietnam.

It will be packed in a padded cellophane box costing about five cents, which will resist the shock when the transistors are dropped from an airplane. The radio itself costs about $3, and is built so it can tune in on only one radio frequency -- that of "The Voice of Freedom," operated by South Vietnam and the USIA.

Behind the plan to drop these radio sets is the fact that North Vietnam operates a controlled system whereby all radio sets are tuned in on communist government channels. No radio sets used by the Viet Cong or the North Vietnamese can be tuned in on a South Vietnam station. The communists don't trust their people to listen in on anything except communist airwaves.

Marks has been working to increase the number of Viet Cong defectors, with remarkable success. In the last year defectors totaled 20,000. In the first six months of 1967 they totaled 18,000. They come through the lines bearing passes dropped from the air, guaranteeing them safe conduct. These are called "welcome passes." Defectors then go on the radio to tell former Viet Cong comrades that they have been well treated, fed, permitted to go back to their villages.

However, due to the North Vietnamese airwave monopoly, it's been difficult to get these messages across. Hence, Mark's ingenious idea of dropping transistor radios. They are labeled in the local language "gift of the free world. Listen to the voice of freedom."

The words "Tat Mai" on the set mean "off," while the words "Mo Mai" mean "on."

LBJ, incidentally, is relying more and more on the U.S. information agency, not only in Vietnam but in the Near East.

INSANITARY MEAT

Big city race riots have been a break for the big meat packers. The riots have focused attention away from the hearings on a new meat inspection bill, now terminating before a House Agriculture sub-committee. Most important part of these sessions begins this week, behind closed doors, when the committee decides on the final form of a bill to protect the housewife from insanitary, intrastate meat.

Since these final meetings will be held in secret, here are some important facts which housewives should know.

- The Meat Institute, Independent Meat Packers Association and The Western States Meat Packers - are trying to head off a strong intrastate inspection bill by accepting the administration bill. They have heard from the consumer.

The administration bill, however, is nothing to throw your hat in the air over. It merely provides federal funds to the states if they strengthen their own inspection laws. But there 's no requirement for states to pass inspection laws at all or to strengthen what they've already got.

2. The big meat packers - Swift, Armour, Wilson - are not in favor or strong legislation. While most of their business has been interstate, and their meat therefore federally inspected, some have been expanding into intrastate slaughterhouses.

Processing and selling meat inside state boundaries has now become big business, because cheaper, uninspected meat gives the seller a competitive advantage over inspected meat. It can be dyed, seasoned and doctored with antibiotics to look, smell, and taste like good meat.

REPORT ON LOUISIANA PLANT

One of the big packers, Swift, has been unhappy about revealing how much intrastate meat it is selling as against interstate meat. This is understandable, in view of the following report from a Department of Agriculture inspector regarding a Swift intrastate plant in New Orleans:

"Equipment, such as metal barrels, was rusty - the boning boards were old and caked with fat and meat juices. The old boards had minute splinters, caused from continuous use, that resembled fuzz. This is a source of contamination and an excellent media for bacteria growth which under certain circumstances may cause food poisoning."

Though this report was made in 1962, Agriculture Department inspectors say conditions have not changed since then.

3. Key Congresswoman - Rep. Catherine May, Republican of Yakima, Wash., could swing a lot of Republican votes for the housewife if she wanted to. She's a good congresswoman, but seems to be leaning toward the big meat packers. Cattlemen are powerful in her district.

4. Key Bureaucrat - The official inside the Department of Agriculture who sides with the meat packers is Byron Allen, who when living in Iowa and Minnesota was close to the State Department of Agriculture. He leans toward intrastate inspection by these state departments.

The man pushing hardest for an airtight new meat inspection law is Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa. He is now getting 100 per cent support from Rep. Tom Foley, Democrat of Spokane, Wash.

A final bill will be whipped into shape behind closed doors this week.

Mrs. Lloyd Franklin Stoner

Joan Lilian Kirk Says Vows With Lloyd Franklin Stoner

Candlelight illumined the setting Saturday in the First Methodist church when Joan Lillian Kirk became the bride of Lloyd Franklin Stoner.

Miss Kirk is the daughter of Mrs. Charles L. Kirk and the late Mr. Kirk. Stoner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien M. Stoner, all of Sikeston.

The Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. The couple pledged their vows before an altar decorated with an arch candelabra holding tall cathedral candles centered in the background. On either side was a large basket of white stock with majestic daisies and a tree candelabra.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by Mrs. H. J. Welsh, organist. She also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lane of Memphis, the bride's aunt and uncle, who sang "Through the Years", "If I Could Tell You", and "The Wedding Prayer".

To the traditional bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," the bride approached the altar down the white carpeted aisle marked with large white bows and single candelabra holding tall tapers. She was given in marriage by her grandfather, George W. Kirk. The bride and groom knelt for the benediction on a white prie dieu with tall palms at the sides.

The bride wore a white linen floor-length gown with bateau neckline, richly embossed with imported Venetian lace. The high rise waist was outlined with tiny French cording and deep scalloped lace outlined the bottom of the three quarter length kabuka sleeves. Motifs of the same lace was appliqued across the front of the skirt and again at the bottom of the chapel-length court train attached at the shoulders. Her wristlet gloves were backed with the same lace. The bride's headpiece was an arrangement of orange blossoms and stephanotis, arranged on top and trellising down the side of her face. Attached was a bouffant three tiered veil, each tier with hand rolled hems, made of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and white stock florets.

Miss Julia Margaret Kirk of San Jose, Calif., served her sister as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Witte of Manchester, Mo., Miss Beth Lane of Memphis, Tenn., both cousins of the bride, and Miss Linda Stoner, sister of the groom. The attendants were dressed in floor-length sleeveless skimmers of lemon yellow, candy pink, lime green, and lilac. They were styled alike, made of linen weave trimmed with Venetian lace and velvet ribbon. The jewel neckline dipped low in back, with petite bows at the back closure. A detachable capelet collar was edged with the same lace and contrasting color velvet ribbon enhanced the back with bow and streamers. They wore picture hats made of transparent braid trimmed with daisies and velvet ribbon dyed to match their gowns. The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried white lace fans with daisies and streamers matching their gowns.

Attending the groom as best man, was A2c Ed Pike Jr., Hooper, Neb. Groomemsn were Clay Matthews, Joe Gooch, both of Sikeston and Hal Lane of Memphis, Tenn., cousin of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore white formal tuxedos and carnation boutonniers, tinted to match the bridesmaids dresses.

Mrs. Kirk wore for her daughter's wedding a pale pink three-piece raw silk suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Stoner, mother of the groom, was dressed in a light blue, three-quarter length lace coat over a crepe sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white gardenias.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kirk, 1014 North Kingshighway, where the bridal couple received their guests. The home was decorated throughout with arrangements of large white mums white stock and white majestic daisies. The bride's table was covered with a white organdy and linen cutwork cloth. In the center was the three-tiered columned cake topped with an archway of lilies of the valley. A sugar Bible inscribed with the names of the couple and the wedding date was placed at the base of the cake. Five branched silver candelabra holding burning white tapers graced each side of the wedding cake. Matching silver punch bowls were at either end of the table and nuts and mints were served from silver compotes. Serving the punch were Miss Heyde Yount and Miss Georgia Canzianni. Mrs. George Bockhorst served the cake. Assisting at the guest register and passing the rice bags was Mrs. Lynn Lancaster.

REHEARSAL DINNER

BIRTHS

MAXWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maxwell of Matthews are the parents of a daughter born Wednesday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

While the Army brass were covering the summer maneuvers of our local reserve unit, we received de luxe treatment. The cooks outdid themselves for lunch with steak and all the trimmings.

Since publicity releases were being prepared a picture was taken of the group eating. As the flash went off, an authoritative voice called out gruffly, "All right, men! They have the picture. Turn in your steaks!"

Mrs. Lloyd Franklin Stoner

Joan Lilian Kirk Says Vows With Lloyd Franklin Stoner

Candlelight illumined the setting Saturday in the First Methodist church when Joan Lillian Kirk became the bride of Lloyd Franklin Stoner.

Miss Kirk is the daughter of Mrs. Charles L. Kirk and the late Mr. Kirk. Stoner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien M. Stoner, all of Sikeston.

The Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. The couple pledged their vows before an altar decorated with an arch candelabra holding tall cathedral candles centered in the background. On either side was a large basket of white stock with majestic daisies and a tree candelabra.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by Mrs. H. J. Welsh, organist. She also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lane of Memphis, the bride's aunt and uncle, who sang "Through the Years", "If I Could Tell You", and "The Wedding Prayer".

To the traditional bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," the bride approached the altar down the white carpeted aisle marked with large white bows and single candelabra holding tall tapers. She was given in marriage by her grandfather, George W. Kirk. The bride and groom knelt for the benediction on a white prie dieu with tall palms at the sides.

The bride wore a white linen floor-length gown with bateau neckline, richly embossed with imported Venetian lace. The high rise waist was outlined with tiny French cording and deep scalloped lace outlined the bottom of the three quarter length kabuka sleeves. Motifs of the same lace was appliqued across the front of the skirt and again at the bottom of the chapel-length court train attached at the shoulders. Her wristlet gloves were backed with the same lace. The bride's headpiece was an arrangement of orange blossoms and stephanotis, arranged on top and trellising down the side of her face. Attached was a bouffant three tiered veil, each tier with hand rolled hems, made of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and white stock florets.

Miss Julia Margaret Kirk of San Jose, Calif., served her sister as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Witte of Manchester, Mo., Miss Beth Lane of Memphis, Tenn., both cousins of the bride, and Miss Linda Stoner, sister of the groom. The attendants were dressed in floor-length sleeveless skimmers of lemon yellow, candy pink, lime green, and lilac. They were styled alike, made of linen weave trimmed with Venetian lace and velvet ribbon. The jewel neckline dipped low in back, with petite bows at the back closure. A detachable capelet collar was edged with the same lace and contrasting color velvet ribbon enhanced the back with bow and streamers. They wore picture hats made of transparent braid trimmed with daisies and velvet ribbon dyed to match their gowns. The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried white lace fans with daisies and streamers matching their gowns.

Attending the groom as best man, was A2c Ed Pike Jr., Hooper, Neb. Groomemsn were Clay Matthews, Joe Gooch, both of Sikeston and Hal Lane of Memphis, Tenn., cousin of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore white formal tuxedos and carnation boutonniers, tinted to match the bridesmaids dresses.

Mrs. Kirk wore for her daughter's wedding a pale pink three-piece raw silk suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Stoner, mother of the groom, was dressed in a light blue, three-quarter length lace coat over a crepe sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white gardenias.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kirk, 1014 North Kingshighway, where the bridal couple received their guests. The home was decorated throughout with arrangements of large white mums white stock and white majestic daisies. The bride's table was covered with a white organdy and linen cutwork cloth. In the center was the three-tiered columned cake topped with an archway of lilies of the valley. A sugar Bible inscribed with the names of the couple and the wedding date was placed at the base of the cake. Five branched silver candelabra holding burning white tapers graced each side of the wedding cake. Matching silver punch bowls were at either end of the table and nuts and mints were served from silver compotes. Serving the punch were Miss Heyde Yount and Miss Georgia Canzianni. Mrs. George Bockhorst served the cake. Assisting at the guest register and passing the rice bags was Mrs. Lynn Lancaster.

Potlatch Wins State

Sikeston Potlatch and Cape Girardeau Mutual finally met after having two scheduled meetings cancelled by the weather.

As far as Cape was concerned it could have rained out yesterday's match. Sikeston successfully defending its state title, drubbing Cape 10-2 in the second game of the best two out of three series.

Bruce Farris made a shaky start but went the distance. He had seven strikeouts, fanning the first three batters he faced in the game and allowed seven bases on balls.

Pine Bluff, Ark., will be in Sikeston, Friday for a three - game series that will send the winner to Colorado for the sectional.

Mike Garner, Roger McDaniel and Farris had two hits each in leading the Foresters seven-hit attack. Farris blasted a triple for two runs batted in and Terry Scudder had a two RBI double. McDaniel drove home two runs to send the Foresters into a 2-2 tie in the fourth.

It was an all out team effort, hitting and running to the signals of Manager N. P. McDaniel and coach Wayne Limbaugh Sr.

Cape jumped to a 2-0 lead in the second and held it until the fourth when the Foresters added two and sent across three in the fifth and five in the sixth.

BATTING - Hank Allen, Senators, cracked three hits and drove in two runs, including the winning tally with an 11th-inning single, as Washington edged Minnesota 5-4.

PITCHING - Mike Cuellar, Astros, checked New York on six hits and struck out eight in a 5-2 triumph over the Mets.

Birds Swipe Pair

By the Associated Press

Lou Brock and Curt Flood turned off the electricity in Chicago while Pete Rose was switching on the power in Cincinnati.

Brock and Flood clicked for 11 hits between them as the St. Louis Cardinals dimmed Chicago pennant hopes Wednesday with a 4-2, 7-1 doubleheader sweep over the second-place Cubs.

The two victories mushroomed the Cards' National League lead to 5-1/2 games - the biggest spread of the season.

Rose, meanwhile, became the eighth player in NL history to hit home runs from each side of the plate in a game as Cincinnati drubbed the fading Atlanta Braves 7-3.

The Reds' triumph lifted them within 2-1/2 games of the Cubs while the Braves' fifth loss in their last six starts dropped them 10 games off St. Louis' pennant pace.

Willie Mays drove in three runs with a double and his 15th homer, leading fourth-place San Francisco past Pittsburgh 7-2; Houston downed the New York Mets 5-2 and Philadelphia shaded Los Angeles 3-2 in 10 innings in other NL games.

Brock slapped out six hits in the Cards' twin-bill sweep-four of them in the nightcap - and lifted his batting average .291. Flood, who has 14 hits in 28 at bats since coming off the disabled list last Friday, contributed three singles in the opener and two more in the second game, bringing his average to .321.

Right-hander Dick Hughes and southpaw Steve Carlton put together successive complete games for the league leaders, scattering seven hits apiece, and brought their season marks to 10-3 and 10-6, respectively.

Brock drove in two runs with a second inning single in the opener, then doubled and scored the deciding run in the sixth. In the third inning of the nightcap Brock and Flood beat out successive bunt singles, triggering a four-run burst.

Switch-hitting Rose started a five-run rally in the third inning at Cincinnati with a right-side homer off southpaw Denny Lemaster, then connected from the left side against reliever Cecil Upshaw in the eighth. Lee May's three-run homer was the big blow in the third-inning uprising.

Mickey Mantle is the all-time switch homer king, having connected from each side 10 times for the New York Yankees.

Babe Ruth Stars Strike

POPLAR BLUFF - Sikeston's Babe Ruth All-Stars moved into the semi-finals of the Poplar Bluff invitational baseball tournament last night by whipping Bernie 2-0 on the no-hit gem of Dan Throop.

In last night's other action, Fredericktown downed the County All-Stars 6-2.

Poplar Bluff opened the tournament Monday with a 10-0 thrashing of Bloomfield. Bernie followed with an 8-3 victory and Dexter posted a 13-5 win over Kennett.

Sikeston meets Fredericktown at 9 p.m. tonight in a semi-final round contest. Finals are set for Friday.

Jim Denbow provided the offensive punch for the Stars, banging out two doubles, while teammates LeRoy McCauley and Throop connected on extra base blasts. McCauley had a triple and Throop a double. The team collected seven hits in all while scoring runs in the second and fourth innings.

Throop collected six strikeouts and issued only two walks in pitching the Stars to its first tournament victory.

Stars Knock Off Oran

Charleston, Portageville and the Sikeston All-Stars posted wins in the 12th annual Little League baseball tournament played at Puckett field last night.

Rain cancelled a pair of games Tuesday night and the tournament scheduled was reset for three games last night and tonight.

Tonight's schedule finds the Sikeston Aces going against New Madrid at 6 p.m., Illmo-Scott City meeting Richland in the 7:30 p.m. game and the Sikeston All-Stars taking on Charleston.

Charleston puts together 13 runs in six innings, limiting Matthews to only two tallies.

Brad Frayser and Virgil Littlejohn led the six-hit Charleston offensive with two safeties, including a double by Frayser.

Charleston jumped on Scott Bewley for four runs in the first inning and added three runs each in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Matthews' only tally came in the first inning on five bases on balls, walking in Ken Lape and Greg Plunk.

Portageville went six innings for its 13-11 victory over Bertrand, who put on a rally in the middle innings and almost pulled out the victory.

Portageville jumped to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning and added six runs in the second after Bertrand knotted the score in the top of the second.

Bertrand pushed across four runs in the third and fourth innings. Portageville added three and two in its half of the innings, holding a slim 12-9 lead, but was never able to overcome its deficit, closing to within one run in the fifth inning 12-11.

Walter Ace and Eugene Fowler led the five-hit Portageville attack with two safeties, including a double apiece. Robert Shelby and Stephen Morrow had two hits each, including a double each.

Greg Jones was the winning hurler, collecting 10 strikeouts. Garry Meeks was the losing hurler, fanning five Portageville Batsmen.

Lynn Miller pitched the local All-Stars to a one hit, 8-2 victory over Oran, collecting 11 strikeouts in six innings.

The Stars jumped out into a three-run first inning, on two cases on balls and hits by Billy Shatzley and Roy Bowman, but Oran added a score in its half of the inning and closed to within one run with a tally in the third before the Stars pulled away with three runs in the fourth and two in the sixth.

Keith Campbell was the only Oran batsman to hit safely, banging out a single in the third inning and scoring both Oran runs.

The little Oran first baseman scored in the first innings after reaching first on an error by the short stop and came around in the third after singling.

Campbell reached base in his three appearances to the plate, hitting the ball hard for two errors by fielders. Teammates Curtis Caldwell and Bob Williams were the only other Oran hitters to reach base.

Shatzley and Charles Miller connected on doubles for the Stars, while Shatzley led the seven hit offensive attack with two hits.

EFFORTS ARE ENDORSED

COLUMBIA -- Employees at opposite ends of the state who are revolting openly against the "compulsory union shop" were commended and offered support by a resolution unanimously adopted here today by the Board of Directors of Missourians For Right To Work.

According to the organization's president, St. Louis industrial executive Richard P. Borage, the resolution cited objections by members of Waitresses Local 503 in Kansas City to "an arbitrarily - imposed increase" in their monthly dues and the current attempt by employees of the McDonnell Douglas Corporation in St. Louis to eliminate the compulsory union membership provision from their employer's contract with the International Association of Machinists.

"The outlawing of compulsory unionism offers the only genuine remedy for employees who are being exploited by their union officials," Borage said. "The courageous fight now being waged by these employees against irresponsible unionism will hasten the passage of a Missouri Right To Work Law."

Organized early last year, Missourians For Right To Work are conducting a long - range campaign for adoption of a state law prohibiting compulsory union membership. According to Borage, similar campaigns are in progress in neighboring Oklahoma and 11 other states.

Right To Work laws are now in effect in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Arkansas, Tennessee and 14 other states. The authority of states to legislate against union compulsion was reinforced by the recent refusal of Congress to repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Another feature of today's meeting here was the election of Henry E. Wurst, of Kansas City, to the board of directors. He is president of a printing firm, Henry Wurst, Inc., and participated in the successful Right To Work campaign in Kansas in 1958.

Serving with Borage as officers of Missourians For Right To Work are Vice President and Treasurer John Willson, a resident of Neosho who is a turret lathe operator employed by North American Aviation; Vice President Buell Hackler, owner of a Jefferson City lumber company and former state commander of the American Legion; and Secretary Mrs. Charlotte Kern, a St. Charles housewife.

Other members of the board of directors are Joseph M. Arndt, of Centralia; William P. Jenkins, of Columbia; William Schock, of St. Louis; and Herbert Plotsky, of Kansas City.

Wednesday's Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BATTING - Hank Allen, Senators, cracked three hits and drove in two runs, including the winning tally with an 11th-inning single, as Washington edged Minnesota 5-4.

PITCHING - Mike Cuellar, Astros, checked New York on six hits and struck out eight in a 5-2 triumph over the Mets.

Birds Swipe Pair

By the Associated Press

Lou Brock and Curt Flood turned off the electricity in Chicago while Pete Rose was switching on the power in Cincinnati.

Brock and Flood clicked for 11 hits between them as the St. Louis Cardinals dimmed Chicago pennant hopes Wednesday with a 4-2, 7-1 doubleheader sweep over the second-place Cubs.

The two victories mushroomed the Cards' National League lead to 5-1/2 games - the biggest spread of the season.

Rose, meanwhile, became the eighth player in NL history to hit home runs from each side of the plate in a game as Cincinnati drubbed the fading Atlanta Braves 7-3.

The Reds' triumph lifted them within 2-1/2 games of the Cubs while the Braves' fifth loss in their last six starts dropped them 10 games off St. Louis' pennant pace.

Willie Mays drove in three runs with a double and his 15th homer, leading fourth-place San Francisco past Pittsburgh 7-2; Houston downed the New York Mets 5-2 and Philadelphia shaded Los Angeles 3-2 in 10 innings in other NL games.

Brock slapped out six hits in the Cards' twin-bill sweep-four of them in the nightcap - and lifted his batting average .291. Flood, who has 14 hits in 28 at bats since coming off the disabled list last Friday, contributed three singles in the opener and two more in the second game, bringing his average to .321.

Right-hander Dick Hughes and southpaw Steve Carlton put together successive complete games for the league leaders, scattering seven hits apiece, and brought their season marks to 10-3 and 10-6, respectively.

Brock drove in two runs with a second inning single in the opener, then doubled and scored the deciding run in the sixth. In the third inning of the nightcap Brock and Flood beat out successive bunt singles, triggering a four-run burst.

Switch-hitting Rose started a five-run rally in the third inning at Cincinnati with a right-side homer off southpaw Denny Lemaster, then connected from the left side against reliever Cecil Upshaw in the eighth. Lee May's three-run homer was the big blow in the third-inning uprising.

Mickey Mantle is the all-time switch homer king, having connected from each side 10 times for the New York Yankees.

Babe Ruth Stars Strike

POPLAR BLUFF - Sikeston's Babe Ruth All-Stars moved into the semi-finals of the Poplar Bluff invitational baseball tournament last night by whipping Bernie 2-0 on the no-hit gem of Dan Throop.

In last night's other action, Fredericktown downed the County All-Stars 6-2.

Poplar Bluff opened the tournament Monday with a 10-0 thrashing of Bloomfield. Bernie followed with an 8-3 victory and Dexter posted a 13-5 win over Kennett.

Sikeston meets Fredericktown at 9 p.m. tonight in a semi-final round contest. Finals are set for Friday.

Jim Denbow provided the offensive punch for the Stars, banging out two doubles, while teammates LeRoy McCauley and Throop connected on extra base blasts. McCauley had a triple and Throop a double. The team collected seven hits in all while scoring runs in the second and fourth innings.

Throop collected six strikeouts and issued only two walks in pitching the Stars to its first tournament victory.

Charleston, Portageville Advance

Stars Knock Off Oran

Charleston, Portageville and the Sikeston All-Stars posted wins in the 12th annual Little League baseball tournament played at Puckett field last night.

Rain cancelled a pair of games Tuesday night and the tournament scheduled was reset for three games last night and tonight.

Tonight's schedule finds the Sikeston Aces going against New Madrid at 6 p.m., Ilmo-Scott City meeting Richland in the 7:30 p.m. game and the Sikeston All-Stars taking on Charleston.

Charleston puts together 13 runs in six innings, limiting Matthews to only two tallies.

Brad Frayser and Virgil Littlejohn led the six-hit Charleston offensive with two safeties, including a double by Frayser.

Charleston jumped on Scott Bewley for four runs in the first inning and added three runs each in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Matthews' only tally came in the first inning on five bases on balls, walking in Ken Lape and Greg Plunk.

Portageville went six innings for its 13-11 victory over Bertrand, who put on a rally in the middle innings and almost pulled out the victory.

Portageville jumped to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning and added six runs in the second after Bertrand knotted the score in the top of the second.

Bertrand pushed across four runs in the third and fourth innings. Portageville added three and two in its half of the innings, holding a slim 12-9 lead, but was never able to overcome its deficit, closing to within one run in the fifth inning 12-11.

Walter Ace and Eugene Fowler led the five-hit Portageville attack with two safeties, including a double apiece. Robert Shelby and Stephen Morrow had two hits each, including a double each.

Lynn Miller pitched the local All-Stars to a one hit, 8-2 victory over Oran, collecting 11 strikeouts in six innings.

The Stars jumped out into a three-run first inning, on two cases on balls and hits by Billy Shatzley and Roy Bowman, but Oran added a score in its half of the inning and closed to within one run with a tally in the third before the Stars pulled away with three runs in the fourth and two in the sixth.

Keith Campbell was the only Oran batsman to hit safely, banging out a single in the third inning and scoring both Oran runs.

The little Oran first baseman scored in the first innings after reaching first on an error by the short stop and came around in the third after singling.

Campbell reached base in his three appearances to the plate, hitting the ball hard for two errors by fielders. Teammates Curtis Caldwell and Bob Williams were the only other Oran hitters to reach base.

Shatzley and Charles Miller connected on doubles for the Stars, while Shatzley led the seven hit offensive attack with two hits.

Mr. Chas. L. Blanton Jr.
Editor, Sikeston Standard

Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Charlie:

We are wondering why there has been such a delay in our receiving the "Standard". This week we received only the Monday and Tuesday issues yesterday (Saturday). We have at times received your Friday and Saturday issues on Monday but most of the time we receive two or three issues at one time. Could it be that your mailing department do not mail them out on the day they are issued? Please investigate this and have it corrected. We enjoy reading your paper altho many people make the paper who are unknown to us, but we do keep up with those we knew while we lived there and we are always glad to read and see the pictures of the new developments and new businesses that are coming to the old home town. We were interested in Mayor Kendall Sikes meeting with the ministers and we are not smart enought to tell them how to solve the problems of the colored people but we think there has been too much given away with no work done in return. We think that a large percentage of these young Negroes who are rioting, burning and looting are the young illegitimates who are now grown up without any family training from decent mothers and fathers. This is the direct result of the A.D.C. program which pays women to have any number of illigitimate children who grow up without any religious or decent training of any kind. In a way you can't blame these young people who see their mothers getting a living for nothing so they go about doing the same thing. A woman can be excused for making a mistake in having one illigimate child and should get some assistance in raising it but she should not be encouraged to have as many as ten or twelve. We think the Congress should revise this law or else this nation will be overrun with these lawless youths both black and white. We need more colored men in Sikeston of the caliber of Lee Johnson, Walter Griffin and others who believe in working for what they have and living a decent life. We have many friends among the colored people in Sikeston and we know that they are against this lawlessness and they should take a stand against it and encourage these young people to live a better life.

When I started this letter I did not intend to make it so long but I cannot pass up this opportunity to tell you and our friends that our son Joe is slowly recuperating from his lung operation and hopes to resume his teaching in September. The operation was to remove a deflated lobe in his lung. The incision was made from his breast bone to his back bone and the ribs were pried apart to get to the lung. His greatest pain was caused by muscle spasms from the severed muscles. He is now able to sleep three or four hours at a time with the help of pain tablets. We spent a month at their home taking care of the daughters while Joe and Nan were in San Antonio where the operation was performed at Lackland Air Force Base Hospital. We are now at home and hope that any of our Sikeston friends who are vacationing on the Florida West Coast and traveling the Tamiami Trail (US 41) will stop off and visit us. We are just 35 miles south of Sarasota and 45 miles north of Ft. Myers and just three blocks off of the Trail.

Our best regards to you and the Blanton family.

Sincerely,
Harry & Jessie Dover

OUR CRIME WAVE

According to the FBI, about half of the crime in this country is committed by persons who have been released from jail before serving out their full sentences. That being the case, crime could be reduced about fifty percent just by keeping criminals in the jails until they had served their terms. Another explanation for increase in crime is the attitude of the courts in making it increasingly difficult to convict a wrong doer, even though by his own confession he is known to be guilty.

Probably the greatest of all causes of our crime wave is socialism. The basic principle of this doctrine is redistribution of wealth, that is, taking wealth from some and giving it to others. When the state practices this doctrine through subsidies, handouts, welfare statism, payments for not working, and an almost infinite variety of unethical practices, the individual comes to believe that such tactics are right, and that he is entitled to some of the wealth of others, even to a living without doing any work himself.

Being convinced that something for nothing is right, and seeing his government following that ideology, it is easy for him to conclude that he is only helping his government if he does a little redistribution of his own. There you have the basic reason for the increase of fraud and theft, and any means of getting some of the wealth of other people by force and violence. We shall never cure the crime wave until we come back to the moral law of God and respect for His commandments against lying coveting, stealing, adultery, profanity and all the rest.

Men who accept as rules for their conduct, the high ethical ideals which they attribute to God, do not violate His moral law, and hence do not become criminals.

We are wondering why there has been such a delay in our receiving the "Standard". This week we received only the Monday and Tuesday issues yesterday (Saturday). We have at times received your Friday and Saturday issues on Monday but most of the time we receive two or three issues at one time. Could it be that your mailing department do not mail them out on the day they are issued? Please investigate this and have it corrected. We enjoy reading your paper altho many people make the paper who are unknown to us, but we do keep up with those we knew while we lived there and we are always glad to read and see the pictures of the new developments and new businesses that are coming to the old home town. We were interested in Mayor Kendall Sikes meeting with the ministers and we are not smart enought to tell them how to solve the problems of the colored people but we think there has been too much given away with no work done in return. We think that a large percentage of these young Negroes who are rioting, burning and looting are the young illegitimates who are now grown up without any family training from decent mothers and fathers. This is the direct result of the A.D.C. program which pays women to have any number of illigitimate children who grow up without any religious or decent training of any kind. In a way you can't blame these young people who see their mothers getting a living for nothing so they go about doing the same thing. A woman can be excused for making a mistake in having one illigimate child and should get some assistance in raising it but she should not be encouraged to have as many as ten or twelve. We think the Congress should revise this law or else this nation will be overrun with these lawless youths both black and white. We need more colored men in Sikeston of the caliber of Lee Johnson, Walter Griffin and others who believe in working for what they have and living a decent life. We have many friends among the colored people in Sikeston and we know that they are against this lawlessness and they should take a stand against it and encourage these young people to live a better life;

When I started this letter I did not intend to make it so long but I cannot pass up this opportunity to tell you and our friends that our son Joe is slowly recuperating from his lung operation and hopes to resume his teaching in September. The operation was to remove a deflated lobe in his lung. The incision was made from his breast bone to his back bone and the ribs were pried apart to get to the lung. His greatest pain was caused by muscle spasms from the severed muscles. He is now able to sleep three or four hours at a time with the help of pain tablets. We spent a month at their home taking care of the daughters while Joe and Nan were in San Antonio where the operation was performed at Lackland Air Force Base Hospital. We are now at home and hope that any of our Sikeston friends who are vacationing on the Florida West Coast and traveling the Tamiami Trail (US 41) will stop off and visit us. We are just 35 miles south of Sarasota and 45 miles north of Ft. Myers and just three blocks off of the Trail.

Our best regards to you and the Blanton family.

OUR CRIME WAVE

According to the FBI, about half of the crime in this country is committed by persons who have been released from jail before serving out their full sentences. That being the case, crime could be reduced about fifty percent just by keeping criminals in the jails until they had served their terms. Another explanation for increase in crime is the attitude of the courts in making it increasingly difficult to convict a wrong doer, even though by his own confession he is known to be guilty.

Probably the greatest of all causes of our crime wave is socialism. The basic principle of this doctrine is redistribution of wealth, that is, taking wealth from some and giving it to others. When the state practices this doctrine through subsidies, handouts, welfare statism, payments for not working, and an almost infinite variety of unethical practices, the individual comes to believe that such tactics are right, and that he is entitled to some of the wealth of others, even to a living without doing any work himself.

Being convinced that something for nothing is right, and seeing his government following that ideology, it is easy for him to conclude that he is only helping his government if he does a little redistribution of his own. There you have the basic reason for the increase of fraud and theft, and any means of getting some of the wealth of other people by force and violence. We shall never cure the crime wave until we come back to the moral law of God and respect for His commandments against lying coveting, stealing, adultery, profanity and all the rest.

Men who accept as rules for their conduct, the high ethical ideals which they attribute to God, do not violate His moral law, and hence do not become criminals.

World Changed When Red China Exploded H-Bomb

EDITOR'S NOTE- China's H-bomb explosion last June meant a big step forward in its drive to become a major nuclear power. Now her arsenal may grow by leaps and bounds—with dire implications for the West. Here is the first of three articles by an AP team that examined Red China's atomic weaponry and its likely effects on the United States.

Red China exploded an H-bomb.

Within 30 months, she may well have 100 of the mammoth bombs, Dr. Ralph Lapp, a nuclear physicist, estimates.

Within that same brief time, she could be stockpiling the missiles needed to lob city-obliterating bombs at American or other targets.

Ironically, the record also shows the United States educated and then deported to Communist China some of the key nuclear and missile experts who contributed enormously to her achievements.

"If they think about it, Americans get a gut feeling this spells big trouble," declares Rep. Craig Hosmer of California, a Republican member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

China's nuclear progress "is frightening," says Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., committee chairman. "China within five years will be a formidable nuclear power."

The possible consequences from China's dealing herself in as a nuclear poker player are widespread and dismaying, an Associated Press study finds:

— It could resolve affirmatively a hot debate whether the United States should drive ahead now for antiballistic missile defenses and perhaps civilian shelters -- at a cost to taxpayers that could reach $70 billion as a starter. Such a decision, opponents argue, would only explode the arms race into a new, dangerous and useless spiral.

— China might donate a few A-bombs to Arab countries in the touchy Middle East. Israel then could be impelled to build, beg or borrow bombs of her own.

— China might use bombs to blackmail weaker countries into keeping hands off "people's liberation" wars of rebellion within their own borders.

— Japan, India, other countries could decide to make their own bombs, killing all hopes for a nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

— China, under Mao Tse-tung or more cooperative successors, must be reckoned as a first-class power. The H-bomb gives a soaring boost to Chinese morale, says one top adviser on China to the U.S. government.

"After 100 years of ignominy and having to accept battleships, booze and Bibles forced on them by foreigners, after suffering heartaches and burning in their bellies from all that, the bomb is a tremendous symbol of emancipation from second-class status," he remarks.

It took China only 32 months to leap from her first atomic explosion to detonation of a pretty complete H-bomb. How swiftly may she acquire significant nuclear muscles?

Pentagon and Atomic Energy Commission officials declined requests for interviews, referring queries mainly to a "posture statement" by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara last Jan. 23:

"It appears unlikely that the Chinese could deploy a significant number of operational ICBMs before the mid-1970's, or that these ICBMs would have great reliability, speed of response, or substantial protection against attack."

A "significant number" of ICBMs -- intercontinental ballistic missiles—was defined by Pentagon sources at the time as 75 to 100 or more.

McNamara and others have predicted China may test-launch an ICBM before the year's end, or send a Chinese satellite beeping into orbit, signaling progress in control and guidance skills required for pinpointed nuclear missiles.

The estimate that China could have 100 H-bombs by 1970 is made on the basis of published information and other sources by Dr. Lapp, of Washington, D.C., a physicist now in private consulting business who played a roll in A-bomb development.

He credits China with current ability to produce 1,000 pounds per year of uranium 235, the atoms that fission or split in A-weapons.

But Dr. Lapp and others think it would be foolish for China to use costly U-235 for atomic weapons. Instead, they think China will apt to use all or most of it as triggers for H-bombs, with the explosive equivalent of many millions of tons of TNT.

Dr. Lapp estimates China can turn its 1,000 pounds of U-235 into 20 H-bomb triggers each year. That, plus existing stocks and a rising production could mean 100 H-bombs within about 30 more months.

U-235 is the most expensive ingredient in the big bombs. Others such as lithium 6 and heavy water are relatively cheap.

With a large H-bomb, "You can buy the equivalent of a ton of TNT for 40 cents a ton. With smaller A-bombs, the cost is more than $1,000 per ton," says Rep. Hosmer.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicts China by the end of 1967 will have a capability for intermediate-range ballistic missiles and will begin deploying them.

These can zoom 1,000 to 1,500 miles or more, and so could menace Soviet Asia and Southeast Asian countries, says Jackson, a member of several military and nuclear affairs committees.

By 1971, China may have ICBMs that could reach North America, the senator adds. By the mid-1970s, China "will have enough bombs and missiles to be a real threat to life in the United States. That's perhaps eight years away, but time flies by."

When China exploded her H-bomb, she was at least 2½ years ahead of the schedule estimated for her by Westerners.

It took the United States seven years from A-bomb to H-bomb, but there had been no pressure to move quickly when this country had a monopoly on A-weapons. It took the Soviet Union four years, Britain seven, and France is not yet there. China required only two years and eight months. The reasons are intriguing; the record impressive.

— Oct. 16, 1964: The first A-device is detonated from a tower in the desolate salt flats near Lop Nor— Lake Lop— in the remote northwestern province of Sinkiang, on a site 450 miles from the Soviet frontier. Its force: 20,000 tons of TNT, equal to the Hiroshima bomb 19 years earlier.

Through spy planes and other intelligence, the United States was able to predict the event 17 days in advance, diluting its propaganda value. It was made of U-235, not easier-to-get plutonium; China was more sophisticated in nuclear prowess than had been supposed.

U.S. experts figured China might have H-bombs by 1975. Little official concern was expressed - China still had to produce numerous A-bombs, and means of delivering them.

— May 17, 1965: An air drop of an A-bomb about double the earlier force. U.S. officials spoke in terms of a Chinese H-bomb by 1970.

— May 9, 1966: Test tower detonation of a device of over 200,000 tons of TNT. Ingredients needed for an H-reaction were detected, says Rep. Hosmer.

— Oct. 27, 1966: A missile carried an A-warhead 400 to 500 miles to detonation. The explosive force was perhaps 20,000 tons. Major Asian cities were coming within range.

-Dec. 27, 1966: Probably a proof test of an H-bomb trigger, Hosmer reports. Explosive force, a few hundred thousand tons of TNT.

-June 17, 1967: Proof test for an H-bomb. Its force, "several" millions of tons of TNT, said the Atomic Energy Commission. Furthermore, says Hosmer, it was an air drop, something transportable even if only in one of China's limited-range bombers.

Experts analyzing China's nuclear hurry point to numerous factors:

-The Soviet Union helped directly for a time; the United States indirectly.

-The Chinese are very smart people, as evidenced by their impressive share of outstanding scientists in many fields.

-They profited hugely from U. S. and Soviet pioneering which showed that A-bombs and H-bombs can be built-that warheads can be designed to fit atop missiles - that gaseous diffusion is an effective way of separating U-235 from ordinary uranium.

This face alone saved them half to 80 per cent of the time and effort Americans had to spend originally in various phases of weapons development, Dr. Philip Abelson, editor of Science magazine, estimates.

-China worked simultaneously to develop bombs and missiles, then to marry the two. The United States and the Soviet Union got weapons first, with bombers to carry them, then made ICBMs to hurl them. China could take a shortcut.

-There are conflicting reports whether China tumbled onto a quicker and cheaper way -- a centrifuging process -- to concentrate U-235.

-China's scientists and engineers in nuclear-missile work were "insulated from the frightening and deleterious antics of the cultural revolution," says a China authority who advises the U.S. government. "They had to go through the formula of adulating Mao, but they didn't have to interrupt their work, or have signs glued onto them."

-China spent heavily in skilled manpower, resources and foreign exchange at a cost of not pursuing, or else limiting, other needs.

Rep. Hosmer estimates China is spending about $1 billion annually on nuclear and missile development, or some 4 per cent of her gross national product.

She is getting what the Maoists want -- nuclear war power.

In China with this new kind of might, says a China-watcher, "maybe we are seeing the manifestation of a giant waking, and stretching, and kicking."

Knowing that television has presented the younger generation with many new heroes to admire, my husband wondered if all the old favorites of another era had been forgotten. He decided to see for himself. Beginning with Sandra, our ten - year - old, he asked if she had ever heard of Tom Mix. "Well," she replied in complete sincerity, "I've heard of Tom Collins Mix."

Dinner Honors Joe Sutton

MATTHEWS - Joe Sutton, who will enter the air force Aug. 24, was honored at a dinner Sunday given by his aunt, Mrs. Bill Sutton.

Attending were Sutton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Sutton; his brother and sister, Greg and Faye, all of Matthews; another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hannan of Chicago, R. H. Rushing, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Throop, all of Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rushing, Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Rushing, Illinois; Roy Sutton, Pearl Sutton, both of Essex, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutton and Monetta, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Hawkins, Sandy, Linda, Debbie, Tommy, Pam, Jan and John, all of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Launius and Carla and Darren, Morehouse; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sutton and Linda, Essex.

Two of Sutton's friends, Gary Harris of Matthews and Carroll Gene Drake of Canalou also will enter the air force.

Orbiter Adjusts Flight Pattern

"The midcourse maneuver was perfect, as far as we can tell at this point," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

Scientists controlling the craft's flight said it had less than 133,000 miles to go before it is dropped into orbit around the moon, where the camera package is to go into operation.

"The spacecraft was programmed to roll and pitch to orient it properly for the maneuver, which it did," the spokesman said.

"A 26-second burn of its steering rocket decreased its speed by 67 miles an hour. It was then rolled back into cruising position."

The kick in the tail was provided by the 100-pound thrust rocket mounted on the small end of the stubby craft, he said.

McNamara and others have predicted China may test-launch an ICBM before the year's end, or send a Chinese satellite beeping into orbit, signaling progress in control and guidance skills required for pinpointed nuclear missiles.

The estimate that China could have 100 H-bombs by 1970 is made on the basis of published information and other sources by Dr. Lapp, of Washington, D.C., a physicist now in private consulting business who played a roll in A-bomb development.

He credits China with current ability to produce 1,000 pounds per year of uranium 235, the atoms that fission or split in A-weapons.

But Dr. Lapp and others think it would be foolish for China to use costly U-235 for atomic weapons. Instead, they think China will apt to use all or most of it as triggers for H-bombs, with the explosive equivalent of many millions of tons of TNT.

Dr. Lapp estimates China can turn its 1,000 pounds of U-235 into 20 H-bomb triggers each year. That, plus existing stocks and a rising production could mean 100 H-bombs within about 30 more months.

U-235 is the most expensive ingredient in the big bombs. Others such as lithium 6 and heavy water are relatively cheap.

With a large H-bomb, "You can buy the equivalent of a ton of TNT for 40 cents a ton. With smaller A-bombs, the cost is more than $1,000 per ton," says Rep. Hosmer.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicts China by the end of 1967 will have a capability for intermediate-range ballistic missiles and will begin deploying them.

These can zoom 1,000 to 1,500 miles or more, and so could menace Soviet Asia and Southeast Asian countries, says Jackson, a member of several military and nuclear affairs committees.

By 1971, China may have ICBMs that could reach North America, the senator adds. By the mid-1970s, China "will have enough bombs and missiles to be a real threat to life in the United States. That's perhaps eight years away, but time flies by."

When China exploded her H-bomb, she was at least 2½ years ahead of the schedule estimated for her by Westerners.

It took the United States seven years from A-bomb to H-bomb, but there had been no pressure to move quickly when this country had a monopoly on A-weapons. It took the Soviet Union four years, Britain seven, and France is not yet there. China required only two years and eight months. The reasons are intriguing; the record impressive.

— Oct. 16, 1964: The first A-device is detonated from a tower in the desolate salt flats near Lop Nor— Lake Lop— in the remote northwestern province of Sinkiang, on a site 450 miles from the Soviet frontier. Its force: 20,000 tons of TNT, equal to the Hiroshima bomb 19 years earlier.

Through spy planes and other intelligence, the United States was able to predict the event 17 days in advance, diluting its propaganda value. It was made of U-235, not easier-to-get plutonium; China was more sophisticated in nuclear prowess than had been supposed.

U.S. experts figured China might have H-bombs by 1975. Little official concern was expressed - China still had to produce numerous A-bombs, and means of delivering them.

— May 17, 1965: An air drop of an A-bomb about double the earlier force. U.S. officials spoke in terms of a Chinese H-bomb by 1970.

— May 9, 1966: Test tower detonation of a device of over 200,000 tons of TNT. Ingredients needed for an H-reaction were detected, says Rep. Hosmer.

— Oct. 27, 1966: A missile carried an A-warhead 400 to 500 miles to detonation. The explosive force was perhaps 20,000 tons. Major Asian cities were coming within range.

-Dec. 27, 1966: Probably a proof test of an H-bomb trigger, Hosmer reports. Explosive force, a few hundred thousand tons of TNT.

-June 17, 1967: Proof test for an H-bomb. Its force, "several" millions of tons of TNT, said the Atomic Energy Commission. Furthermore, says Hosmer, it was an air drop, something transportable even if only in one of China's limited-range bombers.

Experts analyzing China's nuclear hurry point to numerous factors:

-The Soviet Union helped directly for a time; the United States indirectly.

-The Chinese are very smart people, as evidenced by their impressive share of outstanding scientists in many fields.

-They profited hugely from U. S. and Soviet pioneering which showed that A-bombs and H-bombs can be built-that warheads can be designed to fit atop missiles - that gaseous diffusion is an effective way of separating U-235 from ordinary uranium.

This face alone saved them half to 80 per cent of the time and effort Americans had to spend originally in various phases of weapons development, Dr. Philip Abelson, editor of Science magazine, estimates.

-China worked simultaneously to develop bombs and missiles, then to marry the two. The United States and the Soviet Union got weapons first, with bombers to carry them, then made ICBMs to hurl them. China could take a shortcut.

-There are conflicting reports whether China tumbled onto a quicker and cheaper way -- a centrifuging process -- to concentrate U-235.

-China's scientists and engineers in nuclear-missile work were "insulated from the frightening and deleterious antics of the cultural revolution," says a China authority who advises the U.S. government. "They had to go through the formula of adulating Mao, but they didn't have to interrupt their work, or have signs glued onto them."

-China spent heavily in skilled manpower, resources and foreign exchange at a cost of not pursuing, or else limiting, other needs.

Rep. Hosmer estimates China is spending about $1 billion annually on nuclear and missile development, or some 4 per cent of her gross national product.

She is getting what the Maoists want -- nuclear war power.

In China with this new kind of might, says a China-watcher, "maybe we are seeing the manifestation of a giant waking, and stretching, and kicking."

Knowing that television has presented the younger generation with many new heroes to admire, my husband wondered if all the old favorites of another era had been forgotten. He decided to see for himself. Beginning with Sandra, our ten - year - old, he asked if she had ever heard of Tom Mix. "Well," she replied in complete sincerity, "I've heard of Tom Collins Mix."

Dinner Honors Joe Sutton

MATTHEWS - Joe Sutton, who will enter the air force Aug. 24, was honored at a dinner Sunday given by his aunt, Mrs. Bill Sutton.

Attending were Sutton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Sutton; his brother and sister, Greg and Faye, all of Matthews; another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hannan of Chicago, R. H. Rushing, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Throop, all of Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rushing, Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Rushing, Illinois; Roy Sutton, Pearl Sutton, both of Essex, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutton and Monetta, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Hawkins, Sandy, Linda, Debbie, Tommy, Pam, Jan and John, all of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Launius and Carla and Darren, Morehouse; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sutton and Linda, Essex.

Two of Sutton's friends, Gary Harris of Matthews and Carroll Gene Drake of Canalou also will enter the air force.

Orbiter Adjusts Flight Pattern

"The midcourse maneuver was perfect, as far as we can tell at this point," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

Scientists controlling the craft's flight said it had less than 133,000 miles to go before it is dropped into orbit around the moon, where the camera package is to go into operation.

"The spacecraft was programmed to roll and pitch to orient it properly for the maneuver, which it did," the spokesman said.

"A 26-second burn of its steering rocket decreased its speed by 67 miles an hour. It was then rolled back into cruising position."

Carrier Toll Climbs to 131

MANILA (AP)— Two men injured in the fire aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal have died, raising the toll of confirmed dead to 131, the U.S. Navy announced today. Three other men still are not accounted for.

The two injured men died in hospitals in Vietnam to which they were transferred before the Forrestal sailed Sunday to the Subic Bay naval base in the Philippines.

More than a dozen naval architects and engineers from stations in the United States and elsewhere have begun assessing the damage by the fires and bomb explosions that devastated the 76,000-ton carrier's after section.

A spokesman at Subic Bay said the first task for the investigators is to determine what work has to be done on the carrier and "get it wherever it can be fully repaired." It is generally assumed the ship will return to the United States.

The Navy announced that all of the injured who were transferred to the hospital ship Repose off Vietnam shortly after the fire have been evacuated to the United States except for three men who still cannot be moved.

In a biography of Gen. George Patton, Before the Colors Fade, Patton's nephew, Fred Ayer, Jr., tells about the time he finally got up nerve to ask his uncle why he swaggered around and ranted and swore and made statements that gave him such a bad press.

Uncle George leaned forward; he was not smiling. "Okay, you asked, so I'll tell you. In any war, a commander, no matter what rank, has to send to sure death, nearly every day, by his own orders, a certain number of men. Some are his personal friends. All are his personal responsibility, to them as his troops and to their families. Any man with a heart would, then, like to sit down and bawl like a baby, but he can't. So he sticks out his jaw, and swaggers and swears. I wish some of those pious sob sisters at home could understand something as basic as that." Then he did smile. "And as for the kind of remarks I make, why sometimes I just get carried away by my own eloquence."

If you are ever tempted to do anything naturally that can be done artificially, don't. Chances are it's illegal.

Honestly, do you really know what these High and Low what's-their-names in the weather reports are all about—except that they leave you foggy?

No matter what you think of yourself, you value other folk's opinions more.

Great strides have been made in communications except between husbands and wives.

mom with her spring cleaning.

The honeymoon is over when the newlyweds settle down and start to settle up.

"Pig tight, horse high and bull strong," barbed wire has been called one of the greatest contributions to the economic conquest of the Great Plains, says The World Almanac. In 1874, when Joseph Glidden invented the wire, 10,000 pounds were made and sold. Six years later, over 80 million pounds of "bob wire" were made.

Carrier Toll Climbs to 131

MANILA (AP)— Two men injured in the fire aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal have died, raising the toll of confirmed dead to 131, the U.S. Navy announced today. Three other men still are not accounted for.

The two injured men died in hospitals in Vietnam to which they were transferred before the Forrestal sailed Sunday to the Subic Bay naval base in the Philippines.

More than a dozen naval architects and engineers from stations in the United States and elsewhere have begun assessing the damage by the fires and bomb explosions that devastated the 76,000-ton carrier's after section.

A spokesman at Subic Bay said the first task for the investigators is to determine what work has to be done on the carrier and "get it wherever it can be fully repaired." It is generally assumed the ship will return to the United States.

The Navy announced that all of the injured who were transferred to the hospital ship Repose off Vietnam shortly after the fire have been evacuated to the United States except for three men who still cannot be moved.

In a biography of Gen. George Patton, Before the Colors Fade, Patton's nephew, Fred Ayer, Jr., tells about the time he finally got up nerve to ask his uncle why he swaggered around and ranted and swore and made statements that gave him such a bad press.

Uncle George leaned forward; he was not smiling. "Okay, you asked, so I'll tell you. In any war, a commander, no matter what rank, has to send to sure death, nearly every day, by his own orders, a certain number of men. Some are his personal friends. All are his personal responsibility, to them as his troops and to their families. Any man with a heart would, then, like to sit down and bawl like a baby, but he can't. So he sticks out his jaw, and swaggers and swears. I wish some of those pious sob sisters at home could understand something as basic as that." Then he did smile. "And as for the kind of remarks I make, why sometimes I just get carried away by my own eloquence."

TRUSTEE'S SALE

WHEREAS, John P. Watkins, a single person by a certain Deed of Trust dated the 2nd day of February, 1961, and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for the County of Scott and the State of Missouri, in Book 126, Page 433-436 conveyed to the undersigned Trustee the following described real estate situated in the County of Scott and State of Missouri, to wit:

All of Lot Numbered Ninety-four (94) of Jones' Subdivision, Scott County, Missouri, as shown in Plat Book No. 7 at Page 26 in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of Scott County, Missouri. Subject to all rights of way and easements, if any, affecting the same.

Which conveyance was made to the undersigned in trust to secure the payment of a certain Promissory Note in said Deed specified; and

WHEREAS, on the 16th day of April, 1962, Leonard Moran and Peggy V. Moran, his wife, assumed and agreed to pay the debt secured by said Deed of Trust, and

WHEREAS, said note is now past due and remains unpaid default having been made in the payment of said note.

NOW, THEREFORE, at the request of the legal holder of said Note and in pursuance of the conditions of said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee will sell the property above described at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash at the Main Front door of the Circuit Court House in the City of Benton, Scott County, Missouri, on August 22, 1967, between the hours of 9:00 A.M., and 5:00 P.M., for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness and the cost of executing this turst.

Ann Landers

'Social Drinkers' Need to Recognize Themselves

Dear Ann Landers: It is 2:30 A.M. Mom and Dad are still staggering around, screaming at each other. The last guest just left. I helped shove her out the door. Before leaving she managed to drop her drink in the vestibule and I had to clean up the broken glass. My parents were too smashed to notice.

I am writing because I know I won't be able to sleep until dawn. After a party like this Mom and Dad fight all night. She accuses him of making passes at other women and he says she is crazy and he is going to put her in a mental institution.

I am a 17-year-old boy and have been offered two full scholarships in another state. But I'm afraid to leave home because I don't know what will become of my brothers and my little sister if I go away. Yet I know I MUST get a college education because at the rate my parents are going they will be dead of alcoholism before the younger kids are grown. I have to get myself educated so I can take care of them.

I am not writing for advice. I know you can't help people who won't help themselves and my parents insist they are not alcoholics. They call themselves "social drinkers". But thanks Ann, for letting me get this off my chest. I needed someone to talk to. -- RX?

Dear RX?: I am printing your letter in the hope that the thousands of "social drinkers" who stagger around and fight until dawn will recognize themselves. In the meantime, I hope you will write to Alateen for literature. The address is Al-Anon Family Group Headquarters, Inc., P. O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N. Y. 10010. Kids with boozing parents need to know a lot of things and this organization can help them. Good luck, fella.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 11-year-old boy in the 5th grade. I called a girl who is in my room at school and asked her if she would accept a roller skating date with me for Saturday afternoon. She said yes.

That night my mother told my father about it and he said no 11-year-old kid should go on a date. He made me call the girl and cancel.

I was going to use my own money which I earned. My Mom had agreed to drive me and the girl to the rink and drive us home. This would have been in the afternoon. A man supervises the kids at the rink at all times.

Please tell me if you agree with me and my mother or if you agree with my father. If you agree with me and my mother, I will show my father your answer and try for next Saturday. -STEPHEN

Dear Stephen: Sorry, but I'm with your father. Eleven-year-old kids should not be dating even if it is only an afternoon at the roller-rink.

After three or four rink dates, you'll want to go to the movies. Then you will want to make a lunch date. Next you will want to take her to dinner. When you reach the age of 12 you will want to go steady. By the time you're 14 there'll be nothing left to do but get engaged.

Stick to the fellas for a few more years, Steve. You won't regret it.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with -- but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

"HANDPICKED" FOR VALUE

"Handpicked" is a special grade applied to dry beans of fine quality for consumer use.

While not widely used, this "Handpicked" designation can sometimes be found on the consumer-sized packages of dried beans in food stores. And when shoppers do see this mark, they will have found a fine quality product.

USDA Choice Handpicked dry beans are the finest quality you can buy. To rate this grade, the beans must be better than 98 percent free from defects, as determined by quality experts with the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Other "Handpicked" ratings for which rigid standards must be met are: U. S. No. 1, U. S. No. 2 and U. S. No. 3. These must be respectively 98, 96 and 94 percent free from defects (such as weather damage).

There are, of course, similarly numbered quality grades for this budgetwise item but without the added "Handpicked" designation.

Look for the USDA quality grades -- in a shield - shaped mark -- on the packages of dried beans available in local food stores. It can help you to get the best value in Navy beans, pinto beans and red kidney beans which are particularly plentiful this summer.

Accidents

Greatest single threat to life for children ages one to four are accidents. About 5,000 preschool children are killed annually in accidents in the United States.

THOUGHTS AND JOTS

"Tis more blessed to give than to receive", - - -so that's where the politicians go for their ideas.

With the advent of the mini-skirt, women now have something they've never had before - a knee's eye view of the world.

"We aim to please, the customer is always right" - - - now, who do they think they're kidding.

I can't for the life of me figure why postage is so high - you'd think they were still buying oats for the ponies.

'Tis the end of a lovely evening - - - the baby sitter just called.

Have you noticed how when an item gets scarce the price goes up - - - I guess that accounts for this winter's dresses, the skirt is scarce and the price is up.

"Tis more blessed to give than to receive" - - - I'm still mulling that one over.

Why is the younger generation always after the older to get beat - - - I'm beat now, I'm beat when I get up in the morning, more beat after fixing lunch, and at the end of the day - I'm really beat!!!!

"To know me is to love me." - Do you feel that requires an explanation?

I've heard of needing a rain maker in the summer, but this is ridiculous - anyone caring to get in contact with a rain maker will find the advertising rates in the Sikeston Standard very reasonable.

Soil, Water Supervisors Re-elect Bogue

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Harley Bogue of Holt was re-elected president of the Missouri Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors at the conclusion of the 23rd annual meeting.

Directors also elected W. L. Duncan, Poplar Bluff, vice president, and reappointed Ludwig Westhoelter, Washington, Mo., secretary-treasurer.

Directors of the association were elected for areas one, three, five and seven. In area one Clifford Redman Amity, was reelected, as was Bogue; in area three, and Duncan in area five. Supervisors of area 7 elected W. A. Luys of Carthage to replace Jim Stone, Carthage, as their director. Stone will serve as an alternate.
director. Stone will serve as an alternate.

The visitors were given a first hand view of an experiment on the Edward Matthews farm, west of Sikeston, by Joe Silverthorn.

He is narrowing his rows to a 30-inch width but planting the same amount of seed per acre as was formerly planted in the wider rows.

When asked about the experiment, Silverthorn said:

"I expect to increase my yield between 10 and 15 per cent per acre, but I will add an additional 25 per cent fertilizer. It has a two - fold purpose, the plants shade the ground and keep down the grass in the early growing stage to where I have used the cultivator but once, compared to three or four times before. The sun will reach more of the leaves. It also makes it easier to irrigate, as the ground soaks up the water better, but you must change your pipe gates to a 30-inch spread.

"My crop of beans last year produced 41 bushels per acre, and these narrow rows at present have the same quality, and with continued growing success, the production should be increased this fall."

He has planted 220 acres to corn, and 200 acres to soybeans in the experiment. Besides the rented Matthews land he owns 260 acres land west of Oran with his father, L. E. Silverthorn.

Death Voids Contract For Personal Services

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Because of Harry's glib tongue, George hired him, under a 2-year contract, as his advertising agent. While Harry was able to talk anybody into or out of almost anything, he was unable to convince the Grim Reaper to bypass him in favor of someone else of more consequence and died shortly after signing the contract with George.

Taking over Harry's affairs, the administrator of Harry's estate proceeded to carry on Harry's business. And, when George refused to do business with him, the administrator sued George for breach of contract.

"When a person dies," the administrator was quick to point out, "his administrator has the right to carry out and continue the contracts of the deceased person."

"Contract or no contract," was George's answer, "I made a deal with Harry and nobody else. While Harry had a mind like a flashing rapier, his administrator is probably a clod and I don't have to do business with him."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit George to walk away from his contract with Harry?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a contract for professional services is generally terminated when the person supplying those services dies.

In this case, George signed a contract only because he had confidence in Harry. Therefore, he does not have to accept someone else as a substitute for Harry.

SENATE PASSES AGRICULTURE FUNDS

This last week, the Senate approved a $6,782,529,789 appropriation for 1968 agricultural programs.

Because of the severe floods which have destroyed hundreds of thousands of acres of Missouri croplands, the increase in the Federal Insurance Corporation appropriation recommendation will be of particular interest in our state. The Senate bill would provide $13,133,000 for the Corporation, which is $341,000 more than last year's appropriation.

Missouri farmers participating in the crop insurance program in 1966 received 91 cents for every dollar in premiums paid into the program -- or $553,938 -- to reimburse crop losses. About 15,000 farmers in 61 Missouri counties participate in the program with $10,500,000 of crop insurance now in force.

Moreover, since crop insurance programs were begun in 1939, Missouri farmers have received $18,913,000 for losses on various crops, and of that, $5,010,000 was paid for crops destroyed by floods.

The Senate - passed bill also would increase by six percent the amount available to Missouri schools participating in the School Lunch Program. Funds for 1968 would be $3,847,000 for Missouri. The total Senate appropriation for the School Lunch program is $190,825,020. or $22,220,000 over last year's budget.

The Senate bill recommended an increase of $2,011,948,839 more than the House bill.

A decision by the Senate to pay back out of this year's budget the capital losses suffered last year by the Commodity Credit Corporation accounts for the major difference between the House and Senate on total appropriations.

The CCC last year sustained a loss of $2,984,856,389 in the conduct of regular price support, export, supply and related farm programs. The Senate voted to reimburse the CCC in full for its losses, which resulted in an appropriation of $1,584,856,389 more than was provided by the House.

In this decision, the Senate reflected findings of its Committees that annual appropriations to pay back the CCC do not in any way affect the cost of this program, but do provide Congress and the public a more nearly accurate account of the cost of the farm program.

TRUTH-IN-LEND APPROVED

After seven years of studying alternative proposals, the Senate last week unanimously approved the Truth in Lending bill to require disclosure of credit charges so a consumer can decide whether the charge is reasonable and shop effectively for the best "credit buy."

The bill does not regulate the credit industry or place ceilings on credit charges. It does require disclosure of financial charges in dollars and cents and in annual percentage rates for most consumer credit transactions.

As of March, 1967, the American consumer owed $92.5 billion in short and intermediate debts. Of this, $73.6 billion was in installment credit accounts held by financial institutions and retail outlets, and $18.9 billion involved single payment loans, charge accounts and service credits.

Under the Truth in Lending bill, if the amount of the financial charge is $10 or more, then prior to the extension of the credit, the buyer must be told the annual percentage rate or the dollars per hundred per year rate for installment purchases and on open credit accounts that resemble installment credit.

Specifically exempted from the bill are credit transactions involving extensions of credit for business or commercial purposes; transactions involving extensions of credit for business or commercial purposes; transactions in securities in accounts by a broker - dealer registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission; transactions, other than with the real estate, where the total amount to be financed exceeds $25,000; and transactions involving extensions of credit secured by first mortgages on real estate.

A civil remedy of not less than $100, or more than $1,000, from the creditor, and a criminal penalty of $500 and / or one year in prison are provided to enforce violations of the measure. The bill now awaits action by the House.

ROBERT RIMMER'S "REBELLION" IN PAPERBACK

On June 20th, Avon Books released the first paperback edition of Robert Rimmer's controversial novel, "The Rebellion of Yale Marratt." Called "sensational" and "shocking" by reviewers of the hardcover edition, "Rebellion" explores the subject of plural marriage. The book opens with defendant Yale Marratt on trial for bigamy, and it flashes back to trace the genesis of Yale's rebellion through college, graduate school, a trip to the Far East, and back to a small Connectcitu town. By this time, Yale has acquired two wives, Anne and Cynthia, and all three live happily together under one roof " until the trial.

Reactions to the Challenge Press hardcover publication were varied and extreme, making the author one of the most controversial writers in America. He as condemned by editorial writers and outraged citizens protesting what they considered to be Robert Rimmer's rebellion against traditional American moral codes. Mr. Rimmer made headlines when he participated in a serious U.C.L.A. panel discussion, advocating legalized plural marriage as a possible solution to the high divorce rate. A group of irate college students in Boston, his own home town, protested his views by burning the book and hanging the author in effigy with a scarlet letter "A" on the dummy's chest.

Granted, the Boston book burning was less sensational than that city's famous tea party, but campus controversy over Rimmer continues -- currently over his bestselling paperback novel, "The Harrad Experiment." (The Rebellion of Yale Marratt; Avon #N149; 95¢; 528 pp.)

WILL GAIN IN MISSOURI

Columbia, Missouri, July 14, 1967 - "The Right To Work movement in Missouri will gain momentum, as a result of a recent nationwide poll in which union members completely repudiated the AFL-CIO hierarchy's demand for congressional repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act." So stated Gene Mittelberg, Executive Secretary of the Missourians For Right To Work organization, as he was discussing widespread press reports of a secret poll sponsored by the AFL-CIO.

(Right To Work laws now in effect in 19 states prohibit the practice of compelling workers to pay union dues under threat of discharge. Section 14(b) authorizes the states to legislate against forced unionism. A long range grassroots campaign for a Right To Work law for Missouri has recently been launched.)

"The poll's findings reportedly disclose that the rank and file membership disagrees with top union officials on the issue of compulsory union membership and many other legislative questions. According to press reports, the survey indicates that the leaders are out of touch with the rank and file member, and have been flagrantly guilty of misrepresenting the sentiments of the dues paying membership. At present there is no indication that the federation's leaders are prepared to represent the true will of the rank and file."

"The passage of a Right To Work Law in Missouri will return control of the unions to the dues paying members."

Ann Landers

'Social Drinkers' Need to Recognize Themselves

Dear Ann Landers: It is 2:30 A.M. Mom and Dad are still staggering around, screaming at each other. The last guest just left. I helped shove her out the door. Before leaving she managed to drop her drink in the vestibule and I had to clean up the broken glass. My parents were too smashed to notice.

I am writing because I know I won't be able to sleep until dawn. After a party like this Mom and Dad fight all night. She accuses him of making passes at other women and he says she is crazy and he is going to put her in a mental institution.

I am a 17-year-old boy and have been offered two full scholarships in another state. But I'm afraid to leave home because I don't know what will become of my brothers and my little sister if I go away. Yet I know I MUST get a college education because at the rate my parents are going they will be dead of alcoholism before the younger kids are grown. I have to get myself educated so I can take care of them.

I am not writing for advice. I know you can't help people who won't help themselves and my parents insist they are not alcoholics. They call themselves "social drinkers". But thanks Ann, for letting me get this off my chest. I needed someone to talk to. -- RX?

Dear RX?: I am printing your letter in the hope that the thousands of "social drinkers" who stagger around and fight until dawn will recognize themselves. In the meantime, I hope you will write to Alateen for literature. The address is Al-Anon Family Group Headquarters, Inc., P. O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N. Y. 10010. Kids with boozing parents need to know a lot of things and this organization can help them. Good luck, fella.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 11-year-old boy in the 5th grade. I called a girl who is in my room at school and asked her if she would accept a roller skating date with me for Saturday afternoon. She said yes.

That night my mother told my father about it and he said no 11-year-old kid should go on a date. He made me call the girl and cancel.

I was going to use my own money which I earned. My Mom had agreed to drive me and the girl to the rink and drive us home. This would have been in the afternoon. A man supervises the kids at the rink at all times.

Please tell me if you agree with me and my mother or if you agree with my father. If you agree with me and my mother, I will show my father your answer and try for next Saturday. -STEPHEN

Dear Stephen: Sorry, but I'm with your father. Eleven-year-old kids should not be dating even if it is only an afternoon at the roller-rink.

After three or four rink dates, you'll want to go to the movies. Then you will want to make a lunch date. Next you will want to take her to dinner. When you reach the age of 12 you will want to go steady. By the time you're 14 there'll be nothing left to do but get engaged.

Stick to the fellas for a few more years, Steve. You won't regret it.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with -- but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

THOUGHTS AND JOTS

"Tis more blessed to give than to receive", - - -so that's where the politicians go for their ideas.

With the advent of the mini-skirt, women now have something they've never had before - a knee's eye view of the world.

"We aim to please, the customer is always right" - - - now, who do they think they're kidding.

I can't for the life of me figure why postage is so high - you'd think they were still buying oats for the ponies.

'Tis the end of a lovely evening - - - the baby sitter just called.

Have you noticed how when an item gets scarce the price goes up - - - I guess that accounts for this winter's dresses, the skirt is scarce and the price is up.

"Tis more blessed to give than to receive" - - - I'm still mulling that one over.

Why is the younger generation always after the older to get beat - - - I'm beat now, I'm beat when I get up in the morning, more beat after fixing lunch, and at the end of the day - I'm really beat!!!!

"To know me is to love me." - Do you feel that requires an explanation?

I've heard of needing a rain maker in the summer, but this is ridiculous - anyone caring to get in contact with a rain maker will find the advertising rates in the Sikeston Standard very reasonable.

Soil, Water Supervisors Re-elect Bogue

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Harley Bogue of Holt was re-elected president of the Missouri Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors at the conclusion of the 23rd annual meeting.

Directors also elected W. L. Duncan, Poplar Bluff, vice president, and reappointed Ludwig Westhoelter, Washington, Mo., secretary-treasurer.

Directors of the association were elected for areas one, three, five and seven. In area one Clifford Redman Amity, was reelected, as was Bogue; in area three, and Duncan in area five. Supervisors of area 7 elected W. A. Luys of Carthage to replace Jim Stone, Carthage, as their director. Stone will serve as an alternate.

director. Stone will serve as an alternate.

He is narrowing his rows to a 30-inch width but planting the same amount of seed per acre as was formerly planted in the wider rows.

When asked about the experiment, Silverthorn said:

"I expect to increase my yield between 10 and 15 per cent per acre, but I will add an additional 25 per cent fertilizer. It has a two - fold purpose, the plants shade the ground and keep down the grass in the early growing stage to where I have used the cultivator but once, compared to three or four times before. The sun will reach more of the leaves. It also makes it easier to irrigate, as the ground soaks up the water better, but you must change your pipe gates to a 30-inch spread.

"My crop of beans last year produced 41 bushels per acre, and these narrow rows at present have the same quality, and with continued growing success, the production should be increased this fall."

He has planted 220 acres to corn, and 200 acres to soybeans in the experiment. Besides the rented Matthews land he owns 260 acres land west of Oran with his father, L. E. Silverthorn.

Death Voids Contract For Personal Services

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Because of Harry's glib tongue, George hired him, under a 2-year contract, as his advertising agent. While Harry was able to talk anybody into or out of almost anything, he was unable to convince the Grim Reaper to bypass him in favor of someone else of more consequence and died shortly after signing the contract with George.

Taking over Harry's affairs, the administrator of Harry's estate proceeded to carry on Harry's business. And, when George refused to do business with him, the administrator sued George for breach of contract.

"When a person dies," the administrator was quick to point out, "his administrator has the right to carry out and continue the contracts of the deceased person."

"Contract or no contract," was George's answer, "I made a deal with Harry and nobody else. While Harry had a mind like a flashing rapier, his administrator is probably a clod and I don't have to do business with him."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit George to walk away from his contract with Harry?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a contract for professional services is generally terminated when the person supplying those services dies.

In this case, George signed a contract only because he had confidence in Harry. Therefore, he does not have to accept someone else as a substitute for Harry.

"HANDPICKED" FOR VALUE

"Handpicked" is a special grade applied to dry beans of fine quality for consumer use.

While not widely used, this "Handpicked" designation can sometimes be found on the consumer-sized packages of dried beans in food stores. And when shoppers do see this mark, they will have found a fine quality product.

USDA Choice Handpicked dry beans are the finest quality you can buy. To rate this grade, the beans must be better than 98 percent free from defects, as determined by quality experts with the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Other "Handpicked" ratings for which rigid standards must be met are: U. S. No. 1, U. S. No. 2 and U. S. No. 3. These must be respectively 98, 96 and 94 percent free from defects (such as weather damage).

There are, of course, similarly numbered quality grades for this budgetwise item but without the added "Handpicked" designation.

Look for the USDA quality grades -- in a shield - shaped mark -- on the packages of dried beans available in local food stores. It can help you to get the best value in Navy beans, pinto beans and red kidney beans which are particularly plentiful this summer.

SENATE PASSES AGRICULTURE FUNDS

This last week, the Senate approved a $6,782,529,789 appropriation for 1968 agricultural programs.

Because of the severe floods which have destroyed hundreds of thousands of acres of Missouri croplands, the increase in the Federal Insurance Corporation appropriation recommendation will be of particular interest in our state. The Senate bill would provide $13,133,000 for the Corporation, which is $341,000 more than last year's appropriation.

Missouri farmers participating in the crop insurance program in 1966 received 91 cents for every dollar in premiums paid into the program -- or $553,938 -- to reimburse crop losses. About 15,000 farmers in 61 Missouri counties participate in the program with $10,500,000 of crop insurance now in force.

Moreover, since crop insurance programs were begun in 1939, Missouri farmers have received $18,913,000 for losses on various crops, and of that, $5,010,000 was paid for crops destroyed by floods.

The Senate - passed bill also would increase by six percent the amount available to Missouri schools participating in the School Lunch Program. Funds for 1968 would be $3,847,000 for Missouri. The total Senate appropriation for the School Lunch program is $190,825,020. or $22,220,000 over last year's budget.

The Senate bill recommended an increase of $2,011,948,839 more than the House bill.

A decision by the Senate to pay back out of this year's budget the capital losses suffered last year by the Commodity Credit Corporation accounts for the major difference between the House and Senate on total appropriations.

The CCC last year sustained a loss of $2,984,856,389 in the conduct of regular price support, export, supply and related farm programs. The Senate voted to reimburse the CCC in full for its losses, which resulted in an appropriation of $1,584,856,389 more than was provided by the House.

In this decision, the Senate reflected findings of its Committees that annual appropriations to pay back the CCC do not in any way affect the cost of this program, but do provide Congress and the public a more nearly accurate account of the cost of the farm program.

TRUTH-IN-LEND APPROVED

After seven years of studying alternative proposals, the Senate last week unanimously approved the Truth in Lending bill to require disclosure of credit charges so a consumer can decide whether the charge is reasonable and shop effectively for the best "credit buy."

The bill does not regulate the credit industry or place ceilings on credit charges. It does require disclosure of financial charges in dollars and cents and in annual percentage rates for most consumer credit transactions.

As of March, 1967, the American consumer owed $92.5 billion in short and intermediate debts. Of this, $73.6 billion was in installment credit accounts held by financial institutions and retail outlets, and $18.9 billion involved single payment loans, charge accounts and service credits.

Under the Truth in Lending bill, if the amount of the financial charge is $10 or more, then prior to the extension of the credit, the buyer must be told the annual percentage rate or the dollars per hundred per year rate for installment purchases and on open credit accounts that resemble installment credit.

Specifically exempted from the bill are credit transactions involving extensions of credit for business or commercial purposes; transactions involving extensions of credit for business or commercial purposes; transactions in securities in accounts by a broker - dealer registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission; transactions, other than with the real estate, where the total amount to be financed exceeds $25,000; and transactions involving extensions of credit secured by first mortgages on real estate.

A civil remedy of not less than $100, or more than $1,000, from the creditor, and a criminal penalty of $500 and / or one year in prison are provided to enforce violations of the measure. The bill now awaits action by the House.

ROBERT RIMMER'S "REBELLION" IN PAPERBACK

On June 20th, Avon Books released the first paperback edition of Robert Rimmer's controversial novel, "The Rebellion of Yale Marratt." He as condemned by editorial writers and outraged citizens protesting what they considered to be Robert Rimmer's rebellion against traditional American moral codes. Mr. Rimmer made headlines when he participated in a serious U.C.L.A. panel discussion, advocating legalized plural marriage as a possible solution to the high divorce rate. A group of irate college students in Boston, his own home town, protested his views by burning the book and hanging the author in effigy with a scarlet letter "A" on the dummy's chest.

Granted, the Boston book burning was less sensational than that city's famous tea party, but campus controversy over Rimmer continues -- currently over his bestselling paperback novel, "The Harrad Experiment." (The Rebellion of Yale Marratt; Avon #N149; 95¢; 528 pp.)

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Aug. 3, the 215th day of 1967. There are 150 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1492, Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain — on a voyage that resulted in the discovery of America.

On this date:

In 1914, Germany declared war on France and Belgium.

In 1923, Vice President Calvin Coolidge took the presidential oath of office at Plymouth, after the death of President Warren G. Harding.

Ten years ago — A Tory reform leader in Britain, Lord Altrincham, was sharply critical of Queen Elizabeth and the other members of the Royal family.

Five years ago — Algerian Vice Premier Mohammed Ben Bella received an enthusiastic receiption in Algiers after winning a month-long dispute over the leadership of that North African nation.

No Progress Reported in Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) - No progress is reported in a presidential board's two-week-old efforts to resolve a shopcraft dispute that shut down the nation's railroads last month for two days.

"Not a comma has shifted so far," an informed source said Wednesday of the stances held for months by the railroads and six unions representing 137,000 workers.

Under a law passed by Congress July 17 to end the two-day walkout, the presidential board was given 30 days to bring about a negotiated settlement.

If it fails in that period, the board, headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., must hold hearings over another 30-day period. If no agreement is reached during that period -- or in the next 30 days -- both sides in the dispute must accept the board's recommendations.

The unions still are demanding wage hikes of 6.5 per cent this year and 5 per cent next year, plus a 12.5 - cent hourly hike each year for skilled workers.

The railroads are sticking to their offer of 6 per cent over the life of an 18-month contract plus a 5-cent hike for skilled workers.

No Progress Reported in Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) - No progress is reported in a presidential board's two-week-old efforts to resolve a shopcraft dispute that shut down the nation's railroads last month for two days.

"Not a comma has shifted so far," an informed source said Wednesday of the stances held for months by the railroads and six unions representing 137,000 workers.

Under a law passed by Congress July 17 to end the two-day walkout, the presidential board was given 30 days to bring about a negotiated settlement.

If it fails in that period, the board, headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., must hold hearings over another 30-day period. If no agreement is reached during that period -- or in the next 30 days -- both sides in the dispute must accept the board's recommendations.

The unions still are demanding wage hikes of 6.5 per cent this year and 5 per cent next year, plus a 12.5 - cent hourly hike each year for skilled workers. The railroads are sticking to their offer of 6 per cent over the life of an 18-month contract plus a 5-cent hike for skilled workers.

The unions involved represent machinists, electricians, boiler-makers, sheet metal workers, carmen and firemen and oilers.
